Comments On Cause of Crash

TORONTO (CP)—Gordon McGregor, Trans-Canada Air Lines president, said Monday it is highly unlikely a defective altimeter was responsible for the crash 10 days ago of a TCA Super-Constellation.

The huge plane came down in a farmer's field near Brampton, Ont., about 20 miles northwest of Toronto. All 23 aboard fled to safety moments before the wreckage burst into flames.

Mr. McGregor said the cause of the crash still is a mystery and will likely remain so for some time. He said a theory the pilot's altimeter was stuck when the plane was at 2,000 feet was unlikely because there are other altimeters in the cockpit which function independently.

Mr. McGregor said a formal inquiry into the crash has been postponed until pilot Norman Ramsay returns from two weeks sick leave in Vancouver.

Battle Huge Oil Well Blaze

LEDUC, Alta. (CP)—A specially-erected drilling rig began cutting through the cement of an abandoned well Monday as oil workers continued their battle to control an oil and natural-gas fire burning wildly for nearly a week.

The abandoned well, close to the burning hole, will be extended beyond its 3,600-foot depth to the underground pool, another 1,800 feet down, in an effort to control the flow of crude oil and 1,000,000 cubic feet of gas have been lost in flames since the well exploded last Tuesday night.

Water probably will be pumped down the extended hole in an effort to flood out the oil and gas, making it possible to seal off the burning well.

Criticises U. S. Agreement With Spanish Officials

NEW YORK, (CP)—Very Rev. James A. Pike, Episcopal dean of the Episcopal Diocese of New York, criticized from the pulpit Sunday a reported agreement between U. S. and Spanish military authorities which would give Roman Catholic church officials power to sanction or forbid marriages in Spain between U. S. citizens of mixed religions.

Franching in the cathedral of St. John the Divine, Dean Pike said the reported agreement was an attempt to "sell down the river our most precious heritage, our religious freedom." He said the U. S. action apparently was motivated by fear of any friction with Spain, which is so financially dependent upon us it is absurd.

The New York Times in a Madrid dispatch said the agreement would place U. S. military and civilian personnel stationed in Spain under Catholic church law in matters of marriage.

REQUIRE DISPENSATION

Marriages between two members of U. S. military or civilian units in Spain, one a Catholic, one non-Catholic, would require a dispensation from the Catholic Church, U. S. chaplains would be forbidden to marry a Catholic Spaniard and a non-Catholic member of U. S. units unless the Catholic party received permission from the Spanish religious authorities.

The agreement was negotiated because of the stationing of U. S. troops and civilian personnel in Spain under a Spanish-American defence agreement.

In Washington, government agencies said they were unable to give out any information on the negotiations with Spain.

INTRICATE PROBLEM

Henry Szydum, state department press officer, said the problem is "extremely intricate" and talks about it have been going on "quite a while."

At defence headquarters, a spokesman said the defence department lacks detailed information on the matter and has messaged its representatives in Spain asking for such information.

The spokesman said any agreement on religious rights would be one of a number of administrative understandings that must be reached with Spain as they have in other countries where American forces are stationed.

Distinguished Career Of Island Biblical Scholar

The following sketch of a distinguished career of an island biblical scholar and theologian, Rev. Dr. C. A. Simpson, appeared recently in "Church Observer," publication in London, England. Rev. Dr. Simpson is a brother of Mr. Hugh Simpson and Mrs. H. L. Palmer, Charlottetown.

"The Rev. Dr. C. A. Simpson was appointed last December to a canonry at Christ Church, and to the Regius Professorship of Hebrew in the University of Oxford. He had studied at an earlier period in the same University, and it is a remarkable fact that with his return to Oxford, the Chapter of Christ Church now includes three former members of the teaching staff of the General Theological Seminary of New York. Since 1948 Dr. Simpson had been Subdean of that famous American theological college, where he had occupied the chair of Old Testament studies for fifteen years.

"Cuthbert Simpson's father, the Rev. James Simpson, was for more than thirty years incumbent of St. Peter's, Charlottetown in Prince Edward Island, which was one of the first churches in Canada to show the influence of the Oxford Movement. His son's studies were first made at King's College, Nova Scotia, and it was after this that he first came to Oxford, of which latter University he holds the degree of Doctor of Divinity. In 1927 he was at the General Seminary, where in 1935 he received his doctorate in theology. These are not the only doctorates he holds, for he has also been granted similar dignities by his old college in Nova Scotia (King's College), and by Bishop's University, Quebec.

"Dr. Simpson's literary works have all been concerned with his Old Testament studies. He has written books on "Revelation and Response in the Old Testament," and on "The Early Traditions of Israel," besides a study of the prophet Jeremiah, called "Jeremiah: The Prophet of My People."
