national vice president; Murray Fritz, Guelph, Ont., national secretary; Harold Simmons, Wetsakwin, Alberta, who is a national director, and Leo Melissac, Charlottetown past president of the Maritime Association.

Beef Prices Brighter Angus Breeders Told

Beef price prospects are much brighter than they have been for a long time, it was suggested to Maritime Angus Breeders here yesterday by Murray Fritz, Canadian secretary and editor of the Canadian Angus News.

Good steers were bringing up to 25 cents per pound in Chicago last week, which was the highest in the past 14 to 15 months, Mr. Fritz said.

A price of $18.50 for top steers had been the best received in the United States for some months previously, the Angus secretary stated.

Shortage of beef in the United Kingdom and the Argentine is what has changed the picture. Several shipments of United States beef are in the United Kingdom now, observed Mr. Fritz who suggested the price structure for beef in the near future may be much better than expected.

ANNUAL MEETING
The Maritime Angus breeders held their annual meeting in the Basilea Recreation Centre here Monday forenoon. The field day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Dixon and Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Dixon at Clyde River yesterday afternoon, which was topped off by a barbecued Angus beef dinner in the evening through the generosity of the provincial department of agriculture. Ladies of the Clyde River Women's Institute served.

Barry Rankine, M.L. Herriot, proved to be the top weight guesser at the field day when he came within two pounds of the correct weight of two fattening steers brought out by George Dixon. The animals weighed 1567 and 1565. But another guesser, Terry Stewart, New Wiltshire was almost as good. He guessed them at 1564.

Ernest Underbay, Bay Fortune, won the top prize of $10 for judging a class of senior bulls and a class of junior heifers. Tied for first in placing the animals was Alex Lamond, Lower Sackville, N.S., who was passing out sale booklets for the promotional sale planned for August 3 at the exhibition grounds at Truro, N.S., for the Lindwood Farm he manages for S.C. Oland.

JUST FOR FUN
Mr. Lamond who is vice-president of the Canadian Angus breeders association was in the judging competition for the fun of it and did not accept any prize money.

Second prize money went to Mr. Underbay's son, Alan, which kept two top placings in the family.

But it was a seven-year-old boy, Richard MacDonald, Little Pond, who took third place in the judging, and he was the proud lad on the grounds last evening with his $8 prize.

Other judging placings were James Bailey, River John, N.S., fourth; Mrs. Helen Sander, York Point, with and Herb Matthews, Alberton, sixth.

In charge of the judging was Mr. Fritz who was assisted by an Alberta breeder, Harold Simmons, Wetsakwin, who is past president of the Alberta

CITY DROPS

(from the city police) in the enforcement of (stricter) regulations controlling liquor traffic under the new liquor act.

According to the police committee chairman and other members of council, taking on responsibilities for the entire city in the matter with only the existing patrol force would be foolhardy. It would take a special force of two or three extra men and probably another patrol car to take on any other than a cooperative and secondary role.

Chief Stearns Webster remarked that bootlegging operations involving vendor's liquor rather than "shine" had increased markedly during the past few months, and brought comments from several councillors. The consensus seemed to be that under present conditions it was nearly impossible for city police to take on any such thing as complete responsibility over liquor problems.

Coun. MacNeill said that discussion of the problem in council was made to provide him with background in talks with the attorney general on the role to be played by city police.

would rarely be beaten, if ever, in carcass competition scoring.

CONCLUDES WITH DINNER
Cameron McTaggart, Aurora, Ont., was recommended as second choice to judge the Angus cattle next autumn at the Atlantic Winter Fair, Fred Major, London, Ont., has already been invited but has failed to reply thus far, it was explained.

The Angus breeders complete their two-day visit to the province with a dinner at the Targan Restaurant, Summerside, at noon today which is being provided by the Island Angus Breeders Association.

Town's Celebrations Move into High Gear

ALBERTON — Plans for Alberton's centennial celebrations are nearing completion and two full days of ceremony and entertainment are scheduled for Friday and Saturday of this weekend.

A central feature of the celebration will be the re-acceptment of the landing in P.E.I. of Jacques Cartier in 1534. This event is under the direction of Mayor Moore, centennial entertainment escort.

The ocean escort vessel HMCS New Waterford will arrive at Alberton on Friday at 10 a.m. carrying 12 officers, 53 cadets and 125 men. Alberton's centennial committee, headed by the chairman, Mayor Roy Leard, will meet with the commanding officer, Lt. Col. Robert Brown on board the New Waterford at 10.30 to make final arrangements for the Navy's part in the re-acceptment ceremonies.

Dressed in authentic costumes of the year 1534 the navy cadets will carry out the actual landing in longboats on the shore at the south end of Kildare River Bridge Saturday afternoon at 2.30. Mic Mac Indians from the reservation at Lemox Island, also in costume, will be on the shore to observe the landing party.

SHIP'S RECEPTION
Centennial program gets underway Friday afternoon when visiting dignitaries and 60 couples from the area will be guests of the commanding officer and officers at a reception on board the New Waterford at 5.30. Friday a street dance will be held in the business section of main street.

Saturday morning a parade, commanded by Herbert Leard, will comprise Canadian Legion Navy school children and a band, will proceed from the elementary school to the home of Mrs. Adele Townshend, Mrs.

Also to lead mourners beside his wife are six brothers and two sisters: Walter, Wade, Leo, Ralph and Roy, Tignish; Alfred in Halifax; Mrs. Allan Mahar (Patricia) of Saint John; Mrs. Emmet Callaghan (Eva) Tignish, a sister, Frances, predeceased him.

The remains will arrive today and will rest at his former home in Christophers Cross.
