

Justice Minister Doubtful Bankruptcies Probe Value

OTTAWA — Justice Minister Cardin said Friday he doubted a judicial inquiry into the whole bankruptcy and liquidation of the assets of the banks would do any good.

"Any further inquiry would simply confuse the issues considerably," he told reporters at a press conference in his Parliament Hill office.

He said he did not know whether a demand by NDP

Leader T. C. Douglas for such an inquiry "had any merit at all." Mr. Douglas said a Quebec judge should be appointed to inquire into the matter because of reports that members of Parliament are involved.

Mr. Cardin said the Quebec provincial authorities have been successful in ferreting out the criminal aspects of the bankruptcy affair.

In addition, the superintendent of bankruptcies, a federal official, is engaged in an investigation to see that no trustees in charge of bankruptcies are guilty of wrongdoing.

Quebec police have uncovered four bodies of men believed victims of an underworld purge or potential crackdown in a provincial crackdown on illicit bankruptcies.

Asked about an earlier claim by Revenue Minister Kierans that the federal government was not interested in the bankruptcy situation, Mr. Cardin said the federal authorities had been co-operating with the Quebec government in this area for months before Mr. Kierans made the charge.

Mr. Cardin also said that such a statement is irresponsible, but noted that he had no direct evidence from Mr. Kierans that gave credence to it.

Asked to comment on a newspaper report of a suitcase hidden in Montreal allegedly containing evidence of the dealings of Moïse Darabaneer with politicians, Mr. Cardin said dryly: "I really have no comment but I would be very much interested to see the suitcase."

The newspaper report claimed that underworld representatives were exerting pressure on federal politicians to ease off on arson and murder investigations. Mr. Darabaneer faces arson and fraud charges in Quebec City.

One of the bodies found in the bankruptcy investigations figures in Darabaneer court hearings.

Dief Warns Prairie Farmers Beware Of Liberal Gov't

By STEWART MACLEOD
STEEBACH, Man. (CP) — Conservative Leader Diefenbaker Friday night told western farmers if the Liberal party is given a majority they can expect "anything to happen."

"As we are going to vote for a government that cuts the price of wheat?" He asked some 800 persons in this town 30 miles southeast of Winnipeg. "Everything they've done on behalf of the farmer has been done because of a fear of being defeated."

"Does anyone know what price the Russians are paying for wheat? You're going to find out after the election."

He said the Liberal agricultural policy, as outlined by Agriculture Minister Hays, is for each farmer to have six cows, two sows and a strong wife.

"If the Pearson government is able to separate a few seats they will have that majority, and then what will happen to the farmer?"

He said the risks are too high for western farmers to consider.

Western farmers were in the hands of Trade Minister Sharp, "a Bay Street baron." And now they are being asked to forget the period between 1935 and 1937 when western Canada was forgotten.

...ng lead—three of hearts. There are undoubtedly some players who, as soon as you start to talk about percentages, are ready to grab their hats and run. The odd thing about this is that most of these players make use of probabilities nearly all the time—and probability is simply another word for percentage.

A bid is usually selected because it is probably the best bid to make; a play is usually elected because it's probably the best play to make. The very word, probability, implies that there is a chance the probability will not mature. If the probability that a particular event will come true were sure, it would be called a certainty.

A player who want to win at bridge will easily do best in the long run if he regularly makes the percentage bid or the percentage play.

This hand shows how percentages can be applied to a particular problem. West leads a heart, which South takes with the ten. If South makes the error of trying to establish his longest suit, diamonds, he goes down. When East wins the first diamond lead, he returns a heart—which West, of course, refuses to win. Declarer then finds himself faced with an impossible task.

The proper suit to attack is spades. South starts with seven tricks and has an eighth one readily available in hearts. He can make a ninth trick much more easily by taking two finesses in spades (where the K-Q are missing) than by attacking diamonds (where the K-Q-10 are missing).

The odds are about three to one that East was dealt at least one spade honor. The chance of finding the missing diamond honors favorably divided is less than even.

Hence, the line of play more likely to succeed lies in attacking spades. Declarer enters dummy at trick two with a club and takes a spade finesse. Later he takes a second "finesse," thus making the contract.

PIUSVILLE

Friends of Wanita Gallant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gallant are pleased to see her home after receiving treatment in the Western Hospital, Alberta.

School is closed in Piusville for the fall holidays. This evening they will conceal, they'll never reveal.

He gave an account of events that took place since the Rivard case first broke and summed it up by saying: "What have we here—murder, gangland, the government of Quebec that wants to act and doesn't get any co-operation..."

"This is your country and my country. This thing must be cleaned up or the very tissue of Canada's future and reputation will be irreparably destroyed."

Mr. Diefenbaker said his party could have "swept back in 1962 if the dollar had not been devalued."

"It was a difficult thing to do but it was the right course to follow."

GRANDMA

abes the children to make a few extra dollars picking potatoes.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Arsenault, Miscouche, spent the past week end at the home of Mrs. Gallant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Gallant.

Friends and relatives of Mrs. Roche-O'Brien, St. Lawrence, are pleased to note she is much improved in health after receiving treatment in the Western Hospital.

The farmers in this vicinity have made a start at the potato digging and report a lighter crop than last year.

Robert MacGregor, Burton Lot 7, is spending so much time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Corcoran.

Mr. and Mrs. John Corcoran and Mr. and Mrs. J. Desmond Gallant and daughters, Lorna and Beverly, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Buiger, Foxley River.

IS LOCAL AFFAIR

Mr. Cardin noted that the criminal aspects of the Quebec bankruptcy disclosures are under the jurisdiction of the provincial government. If the Quebec government asks for RCMP help, then the federal government will co-operate.

Asked about an earlier claim by Revenue Minister Kierans that the federal government was not interested in the bankruptcy situation, Mr. Cardin said the federal authorities had been co-operating with the Quebec government in this area for months before Mr. Kierans made the charge.

Mr. Cardin also said that such a statement is irresponsible, but noted that he had no direct evidence from Mr. Kierans that gave credence to it.

Asked to comment on a newspaper report of a suitcase hidden in Montreal allegedly containing evidence of the dealings of Moïse Darabaneer with politicians, Mr. Cardin said dryly: "I really have no comment but I would be very much interested to see the suitcase."

The newspaper report claimed that underworld representatives were exerting pressure on federal politicians to ease off on arson and murder investigations. Mr. Darabaneer faces arson and fraud charges in Quebec City.

One of the bodies found in the bankruptcy investigations figures in Darabaneer court hearings.
