

Montreal Grain Trade In Midsummer Doldrums

MONTREAL (CP) — Grain exports through the port of Montreal became in serious mid-summer doldrums, shipping officials reported Monday.

A large scale tie-up seems imminent," said one official.

One source compared the port to a funnel—"a funnel with its enormous mouth but with its exit practically plugged."

Harbor chiefs reported elevators jammed with 12,000,000 bushels of grain. Twenty-six lake ships were waiting to unload, compared to a normal number of 12 to 16. Only two tramp steamers were expected to load grain for the overseas market this week.

EXPORTS INCREASED

Total grain exports so far this year, however, have been greater than during the corresponding period of 1954, he officials said.

The mid-summer season is traditionally a slow period as European crops are being reaped, it was explained. In addition, the port of Churchill now takes some shipments which otherwise would come through here.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our Dear Husband and Father William Duncan MacLeod, who passed away August 2nd, 1954.

His smiling way and pleasant face are a pleasure to recall.

He had a kindly word for each one and died beloved by all.

One day, we know not when, I clasp his hand in the better land.

Over to part again.

Lovingly remembered by Wife and Family and Grandchildren.

ditionally a slow period as European crops are being reaped, it was explained. In addition, the port of Churchill now takes some shipments which otherwise would come through here.

"But while taking these things into consideration the situation still is very serious and obscure," said one shipping company representative. "A large scale tie-up seems imminent."

"Current orders amounted to only 752,000 bushels compared to 1,267,000 bushels on this date last year, when elevators here contained 1,000,000 less bushels than at present."

But grain exports so far this year were 56,193,000 bushels compared with 48,634,000 until this date last year.

MAY LAY OFF SEAMEN

Earlier steamship sources said 1,000 seamen may be laid off if the slack period continues. It was estimated that from 20 to 30 per cent of the 150 vessels plying between Montreal and Prescott, Ont., may be laid up.

Company sources indicated today some layoffs have occurred, but did not give figures.

H. C. Banks, president of the Seafarers' International Union (AFL-TLC) said, however, the situation "hasn't assumed serious proportions as yet."

Royal Commission

OTTAWA — The Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects will start its public hearings on Monday, October 17, 1955, in St. John's Newfoundland. Hearings in Charlottetown will commence on Monday, October 24. Briefs should be submitted by October 1 in order to give the Commissioners time to study the submissions well in advance of the hearings.

The Commission has been given a tremendous task, and its conclusions may well influence future policies in many fields. It is instructed to "inquire into and report upon the long-term prospects of the Canadian economy ... upon the probable economic development of Canada and the problems to which such development appears likely to give rise."

To be more specific, the Chairman of the Commission has stated that he and his colleagues will study the following questions, among others:

- (1) How large is the population of Canada likely to be in 5, 10, 15, 20 and 25 years? What will be the size of the working force and how will it be employed?
 - (2) What will be the requirements of the increasing population for more roads, hospitals, schools and universities?
 - (3) What have we in Canada in the way of energy sources and raw materials, including forest products and minerals, and what is the demand for them, both domestic and foreign, likely to be?
 - (4) What developments can be expected in agriculture and fishing, and what will be the demand for the products of these industries?
 - (5) What is the probable future for our secondary manufacturing industries — and of the people employed in them?
 - (6) To what extent will the Canadian economy be tied to, and integrated with, the economy of the United States; and how far will our prosperity depend upon the level of prosperity across the border?
 - (7) To what extent may we expect Canadian industry to be controlled by non-residents?
 - (8) Will certain areas or regions in Canada develop more quickly than others, and, if so, what problems will this create in those areas which may develop more slowly?
- There will be widespread interest in the work of the Commission, and in the briefs and submissions which will be made to it. The Commission is getting off to a good start, and hopes to finish its work by the fall of 1956. Its report and conclusions upon the future direction of the Canadian economy will be awaited with much interest.

NEW PARISH CHURCH FOR KELLY'S CROSS

This drawing depicts the new church to be built for St. Joseph's Parish, Kelly's Cross, P.E.I., construction of which will begin in the near future.

After several proposed schemes had been analyzed and studied, Rev. James Smith in conjunction with his parishioners, accepted and approved the design described by the rendering, because of its straightforward simplicity relating traditional aspects to a contemporary approach.

This approach toward rural parish churches is on a very practical basis, resulting in a wood frame structure, because of simplicity of construction, economy of materials and directness of expression.

In this type of structure economy is a very important factor, necessitating the use of unembellished and practical materials.

The first visual consideration of practical economic consideration is seen in the use of time-proven cedar shingles which enclose the structure. The direct use of unadorned material is carried into the nave, on to the sanctuary and terminates in the vertical ascent of the altar screen.

The straightforwardness of expression should reflect the attitude of rural parishioners more appropriately than the grandeur of a grandiose Gothic Cathedral. The visual elements of the church have been reduced to simplicity of form to express their function; for example, the belfry has been reduced to perform no other than its essential function.

Because of the size of the congregation the architects decided against the use of the Cruciform plan, which is most successful when large congregations are to be accommodated, and decided to use a variation of the Latin Cross plan.

A very important factor in a Roman Catholic rural church is the winter chapel, which, as seen in the above rendering, has been expressed as a separate entity. Between this chapel and the

Comments On Traffic Toll

MONTREAL (CP) — Eliaire Beaugard, director of provincial police, issued a statement Monday attributing high weekend death tolls to the fact the public's attention is not being sufficiently drawn to the perils of highway travel.

The statement said: "The newspapers have been playing up gangsterism and underworld crime but have not given enough security warnings to motorists. If the public's attention was drawn to highway safety I think there would be a definite decrease in traffic fatalities."
