$4,000 ADB Grant Approved For Montague

By FARMER TISSINGTON
Capital Bureau, The Guardian
OTTAWA — Treasury board approved for an expenditure of $4,000 by the Atlantic Development Board to build an access causeway road connecting Montague with the Langley Fruit Packers plant, has been received, it was announced here Friday by John Mullally, MP for Kings.

He said that it is expected approval will be ratified by the government-in-council immediately.

Previously, an expenditure of $5,000 had been submitted to build a road connecting the plant to the Brunel Road. After development board officers examined the site, it was decided that a connection directly to the main highway and the town of Montague would be more logical and of greater benefit to all.

The new plan calls for some re-laying and necessitated treasury board approval for the change and for the additional expenditure of $15,000. Under the new arrangement, the government through the Atlantic Development Board, will pay one hundred per cent of the cost of constructing the causeway road.

In order to get the work done as rapidly as possible, it is expected that the Atlantic Development Board will request the provincial department of highways to supervise and carry out the work. In this way, the construction can proceed more rapidly, Mr. Mullally said. Normally ADB projects are carried out under the supervision of the federal government, the ADB and the provincial government and departments concerned in this and other projects. He hopes that co-operative and understanding spirit will continue because it is most essential for the successful operation of the board and the agencies with which it works.

NEW MEETING MONDAY

Other Bills Likely Before Flag Debate

By KEN KELLY
OTTAWA (CP) — Informal sources said Friday the party leaders are pretty well agreed to devote the next few weeks to the government's legislative program rather than to debate on the new flag design.

That was the picture which emerged after Friday's second summit conference in Prime Minister Pearson's office. A further meeting of the party leaders is scheduled for Monday.

Informants said there was no agreement among the leaders to fix a time limit on debate on the report of the Commons flag committee. The report recommends a flag design of a maple leaf on a white ground with a vertical red bar at each side.

The flag debate will not get started until some time between Dec. 1 and 15. Government sources said Mr. Pearson is determined to keep his word that the flag committee's report will come to a decision by Christmas.

The party leaders are said to be more or less agreed that meanwhile the Commons should work on the Canada Pension Plan, the redistribution bill, the ent co-operation between the federal government, the ADB and the provincial government and departments concerned in this and other projects. He hopes that co-operative and understanding spirit will continue because it is most essential for the successful operation of the board and the agencies with which it works.

OVERSIGHT CORRECTED

TORONTO (CP) — An oversight by a distinguished visitor to Upper Canada College in 1864 has been corrected a century later.

Premier John H. Milliken of Prince Edward Island led Maritime leaders on a visit to the Toronto boys' school Nov. 3, 1864, and neglected to make the traditional request of distinguished visitors for a half-day holiday for the boys.

When the present pupils this week re-narrated the event, the boy playing the role of Premier Gray, 13-year-old Richard Osler, made a point of asking for the holiday although it was in the script.

Friday, headmaster Alan G. A. Stephen posted the following notice:

"The half-day holiday observed Nov. 3, 1864, will take place Friday, Nov. 13, 1964."

Viet Nam Premier Appeals For Brown

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE
WIGON (AP) — Mushrooming opposition led Premier Tran Van Huong to beg South Viet Nam's people by radio Friday night for breathing space for his infant civilian government.

He urged them to give the government a chance to rule before tearing it to pieces.

Progressive hostile demonstrations by student and religious factions menaced the cabinet that met over here today with the diplomatic message of the United States — from Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh's military regime.

The government's position is understood to be that four weeks, or possibly five, is an unworkable time in which to complete the passage of redistribution and labor code bills and send the Canada Pension Plan to a Commons committee in preparation for hearings on its complicated provisions.

That would leave a bit more than two weeks to debate the flag report before Christmas.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker repeated his rejection of a prior time limit on the debate. This also is the highest tri-service manoeuvre since the Second World War, ends today with the start of a three-day run-up honors. He did it in the Scotch Shorhan ring where the herd of Coryus Eats, Upper Bradford, N.S. were top winners.

Another exhibitor, Otto B. Newson, Cornwall, made an outstanding showing in his first appearance at major fair. It is a new only starling breeding two years ago, this was his first year in competition.

The premier exhibitor and the winner of the specialty trophy or the highest point winner in all of the beef breeds, was the general Eric Himmelman, La Ve, (Continued on page 3 col. 3)

Military Apparatus Said In The Making

OTTAWA (CP) — Russia accused Canada and other nations Friday of trying to create a "military apparatus" under the cover of the United Nations flag.

A statement containing the charge was issued by the Soviet embassy only a few hours after the conclusion of the 23-nation conference here on the technical aspects of UN peace-keeping operations.

Just before the conference opened Monday, a Soviet spokesman had told The Canadian Press that Russia had no objection to the conference.

The statement divulged what purported to be the subject of Russia's position as expressed privately last week to External Affairs Minister Martin by Soviet Ambassador Ivan Shepko.

The statement came just hours before Mr. Shepko was to enter into a meeting with the diplomatic corps on the 47th anniversary of the Russian Revolution.

The statement accused Mr. Martin of adopting a course "towards the creation of a military apparatus for conducting military actions which have not been approved by the Security Council and which therefore do not correspond to the purposes of the UN charter."

Big Exercise To End Today

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — The annual conference on earmarking by states of special military contingents for the UN charter, in fact such a course, can result only in the fulfillment of its important tasks and by the UN."

Mr. Pearson and Mr. Martin said they would be striving to do with the earmarking contingents in the UN operation. They said this was a matter for decision by national governments.

Charge Flatly Denied By Canadian Minister

By DAVE MCINTOSH
OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Martin said Friday night there is no foundation in a Russian charge that Canada and other nations are trying to create a "military apparatus" under the cover of the United Nations flag.

He said in an interview that the only "military apparatus" could be established under the UN flag would be of the UN itself.

Mr. Martin was commenting on a statement issued by the Soviet Embassy only a few hours after the conclusion of the 23-nation conference here on the technical aspects of UN peace-keeping operations.

Charge Repeated

The statement reiterated the Soviet charge UN forces in the Congo were "a military apparatus" of the "national liberation movement" of the Congolese people.

It said only a limited number of countries were invited to the conference.

At least number of these countries are members of military blocks of Western powers.

Mr. Martin said he has no doubt that it is these units that will form the main body of the participants of the conference and get the tone there, the statement said.

China-Russian Reconciliation Seen Doubtful

MOSCOW (CP) — Many informed observers here are sceptical about the chances of a genuine reconciliation between Russia and China despite the downfall of Nikita Khrushchev, China's doubtful antagonist.

They believe that the quarrel between Moscow and Peking has gone beyond the point where it could be dissolved by a simple expedient serving up Khrushchev's political head to the Chinese on a platter.

In Moscow Tuesday, leaders of the Russian and Chinese Communist parties met face to face with Chou En-lai and Premier Chou En-lai looking on, Leonid I. Brezhnev, Soviet party leader appealed for unity and for a world conference to deal with the split in Communist ranks.

Chou did not applaud the call for a world meeting but clipped vigorously later when Brezhnev said Communists have one common goal.

Until quite recently it was customary to regard the Sino-Soviet dispute as strictly ideological, abstract polemics between two big Communist powers as to the pursuit of each other's Maoist Leninism.

In the last year or so, however, it has taken on the appearance of a straight conflict of national and political interests.

LID TAKEN OFF FEUD This was strikingly demonstrated by statements that Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung made to a group of Japanese socialist members of the British cabinet last week.

Mao asserted that more than 500,000 square miles of territory formerly part of the Soviet Union rightfully belongs to China.

There are too many places occupied by the Soviet Union, declared the Chinese leader in a talk that appeared to take the lid off a long-simmering feud between the two countries.

Russia, nervous about Chinese territorial ambitions and what it called "great China chauvinism" responded by warning against any attempt by China to re-secure the map of the world.

In the immediate aftermath of Khrushchev's overthrow by Brezhnev and Alexei Kosygin Oct. 14, there was a lot of speculation that the change would bring a new rapprochement between Moscow and Peking.

There were more than nine persons voting in favor of the government-backed policy of independence from Britain under the 1961 constitution for every "yes" 58.01; no 6.08.

The result shows a high percentage of voters in the election districts with a big proportion of the country's 12,729 registered voters. The British constitution of this white-ruling country denies the vote to those who are not of the black African majority.

Premier Ian Smith's government stressed in the closing days of the referendum campaign that a "yes" vote will not be a mandate for a unilateral declaration of independence.

New Round Planned For RCMP Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — A second federal-provincial meeting on financing RCMP operations will be held here within a month, an RCMP spokesman said Friday.

Justice Minister Favreau met the attorneys-general of the provinces on Thursday to discuss RCMP earlier this week, but no agreement was reached on new federal proposals.

The discussion will resume late this month or early in December, the spokesman said.
