HAPPENINGS

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Montgomery entertained in honor of the Right Reverend Angus J. MacQueen, Moderator of the United Church of Canada, following the service in Trinity United Church on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. William MacInnis and two small children, Judith and Paul left Charlottetown on Nov. 26 for Germany, to join her husband who is serving in the army in that country.

On Friday evening, Nov. 20, friends, relatives and neighbors assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Casley, Spring Valley, to celebrate with them on their silver wedding anniversary.

Mr. Charles MacLellan was master of ceremonies. After brief remarks he called on Mrs. Thomas Harrington to read an address to the honored guests, and Mr. Guy Duggan made the presentation of appropriate gifts. The couple were presented also with a silver serving tray and a TV lamp from their family. Lunch was served and the remainder of the evening was spent in music and dancing, the music being supplied by Edgar Matthews, Bernard McKinnon and James Bearisio.

Women's Institute Leadership Courses being given throughout the province this week are proving most popular. A large number of members from Prince County were in attendance at the Summerside centre on Tuesday. Central Royalty was the centre for Queens County Institutes on Wednesday. Eastern Kings ladies met at Souris on Thursday, and today Lower Montague will be the centre for Southern Kings members. Miss Theresa MacLeod, supervisor, is directing the course.

The marriage of Wilma Betty Ferguson to Clayton Tupper, B.C.M.P., will take place Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. in Zion Presbyterian church.

Palmer Road Church Is Scene Of Pretty November Wedding

The immaculate Conception church at Palmer Road was the scene of a pretty wedding on Nov. 11 when Alvin Thibedeau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Thibedeau of Miminegash, became the bride of Paul Gallant, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Gallant of Howlan, Rev. Father Walsh officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose an aqua blue short formal of nylon and lace with bouffant skirt topped by a lace bolero. She wore a short veil with pearl tiara. Her jewelry was pearl necklace and earrings. She carried a corsage of white carnations.

long gone falls. And of the driving-wagons of the neighborhood and farther that "all on a market day" of elder times took away and returned folks of the farms, snug in their wraps and gray-or black robes of fur.

"Is the heater on?" we asked a bit uncomfortable from the fall chill when we were on the driveway bound away yesterday evening.

"Why, Ellen?" James looked his surprise. "It's not cold! And aren't we sheltered here as it is? How did folks manage to drive for miles in an open wagon on just such a day as this one? But it's true they were harder then—and also they dressed for the cold."

Wood's work for the farmers today. And for the cooks? One made pumpkin preserve—some ginger and lemon flavored, and some pineapple-mixed. One tended to the meals and comfort of her lads. And one made her Christmas fruit cake.

"The scent of it alone!" Granddaughter smiled this evening when she stopped by to visit "is delectable."

So was today. Cold-but clean and fine and altogether "delectable."

The bride's aunt, Miss Francis McCormack of Summerside, was bridesmaid. She also wore an aqua formal and short veil with a corsage of white carnations.

Mr. Lyman Arsenault capably supported the groom. After the marriage the bridal party and relatives motored to the home of the bride's parents where a delicious breakfast was served. The toast to the bride was proposed by the groomsmen and fittingly responded to by the groom. The bridal party and attendants went on a short motor trip, returning in the evening to the home of the groom where supper was served to over 100 guests. The bride's table was adorned with a two-tier wedding cake made by the bride's mother and topped with a miniature bride and groom. The couple were honored with the presence of Rev. Fathers Walsh and Gallant, Palmer Road, and Fathers Pitre and Arsenault of St. Anthony's.

The many beautiful gifts and amount of money received testify to the esteem in which the young couple are held. Out of town guests were the groom's two uncles, Thomas Gallant of Chelsea, Mass., and Frank Gallant of Dorchester, who motored over for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Gallant will reside in Howlan.

LIEUT AND MRS. GEORGE S. KELLS

Marriage Vows Exchanged In Double Ring Ceremony

The beautiful church of St. Mary's in Souris was the scene of a pretty wedding on September 19, when Rev. James K. MacIsaac, D.D., celebrated the nuptial Mass and performed the double ring ceremony which united in marriage his niece, Anna Marina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur MacDonald, Souris, to George Stanley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kells, Central Royalty.

The altar was adorned with flowers, and baskets of fall blooms enhanced the setting. The altar boys were Joseph MacDonald a brother of the bride and Alfred Fraser.

The organist, Rev. Sr. St. George, played traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Patricia MacDonald, a sister of the bride, as she sang several appropriate hymns including Schubert's "Ave Maria" and "On This Day" during the signing of the register. During the Offertory "Panis Angelicus" was sung in parts with Miss Carol Anne MacCormac, assisting the soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her wedding gown of white antique silk with inserts of imported lace. The fitted bodice had a high neckline with a collar of lace trimmed with seed pearls and long pointed sleeves. The bouffant skirt ended in a chapel train. The bride's veil was of french illusion held in place by a coronet of pearls. She carried a lace-covered Missal topped with a corsage of mauve orchids.

Miss Helen MacDonald, Charlottetown, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and the bridesmaids, both former classmates of the bride, were Miss Grace Seaman, RN, O'Leary, P.E.I. and Miss Lucetta MacDonald, RN, Boston, Mass. The attendants wore similar ballerina length dresses of blue nylon organza with blue velvet headpieces and matching shoes. They carried nosegays of different shades.

The groom was attended by a former classmate, Lieut. William Batt, Fredericton, N.B. Ushering the guests to the pews, which were marked with white satin bows were F.O. Richard C. Desmaries, Ottawa, Ont., and Sub-Lieut. Paul H. Newcombe, Kingston, Ont., both classmates of the groom.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the ball-room of the Charlottetown Hotel where the guests were received by the bride's mother in a two-piece dress of blue lace over taffeta with pink accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The groom's mother assisted in receiving wearing a dress of blue crepe with satin trim and match

Shower Held At Lorne Valley

A miscellaneous shower honoring Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacGrath was held in Lorne Valley Hall, Nov. 19. A large number of friends and relatives assembled bringing gifts and good wishes to the newly weds.

The gifts were opened by Miss Shirley MacDonald and Miss Joan MacIntyre, while Mrs. Jackie Webster read the accompanying verses and presented them to the bride and groom. Miss Marguerite MacDonald arranged them on the table. The groom expressed thanks on behalf of his bride.

An hour of social chat and interesting reminiscences was enjoyed. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing with music supplied by Jackie Webster, Alex MacDougall, Wendell Crane, Mrs. Fran Parker and Miss Joan MacGrath.

FROZEN FISH STOCKS
OTTAWA (CP)—Storage stocks of frozen fish in Canada were 80,873,000 pounds at the end of October, 18 per cent more than the 68,506,000 reported a year earlier and two per cent below the month earlier figure of 82,155,000, the bureau of statistics reported.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Preparations For Winter Are Underway At Alderlea

"No one could idle today" one of the wood's workers commented with a chuckle "not with a wind like that searching into ones marrow."

An Arctic chill edged it. And oh it was pleasant indeed to come to the coziness of the indoors after an excruciating without.

"And there you are!" James hailed Mack's entrance early this morning. "How's everything?"

"Oh good—good" the youngster replied. "I was only away for an evening." James commented to us, as he laced a work-boot, "but honestly Ellen it seems I've been away for days. And things went well!"

"Oh, one of the calves had a touch of bloat. We had to slip that tube into its stomach to relieve it."

"And how did that happen?" James queried. "The lad's brow wrinkled. 'We were puzzled about it. Could it be we fed him too much grain? That's what Dad thought.'"

"Could be?" James agreed. "How does he seem this morning?"

"Fine! I've just come from there. He's chewing his cud like 'his father' we supplied with a laugh. 'Ellen' James said reaching smartly for his sweater" there's a time."

"...and times for levity" we chuckled "and this is not one of them."

"Exactly!" he said. He picked up his cap, made a sign to the lad which took both out and off to tend to manish affairs at the stables.

If the land fails to bind every lad of the name to its acres, the fault will not lie at James' door. While they still have "the new" of babyhood in their eyes, he carries them off to see a litter of piglets, a calf, a lambkin or a parcel of kittens. While still toddlers they shadow him if possible along the fields of the farm.

Store-feed in a supply to ensure plenty in the event of any isolation of snowfall at Alderlea came in today, the sound of the great transport used, echoing along the lane and roadway in passing. It reminded us of the rumble of farm-wagons and carts on the also frozen roads of the
