ELLEN'S DIARY

by an Island Farmer's Wife

Before this, the matter of the Provincial Election will have been settled. And once more, the smoke of battle cleared, victor and vanquished will be settling down to the less concerned tenor of their ways. No matter the result, disappointment will blossom in the aftermath. All can not win. Yet as one says: "Our system of government is like an hourglass, when one side's quite run out, we turn up the other and go on again." So it will be.

At Alderlea as on other Island farms, whether beneath old or new rule, the trees will continue to put on their green lace, spring flowers will blow, the farmers will be breaking down the furrows by day and into the night, following this with the sowing. The farmwives, an eye and an ear to the interests of their lords and masters in the fields, will be engaged in perennial seasonal doings: tending the chicks and children, planting the dahlias, and it is likely, cutting sets of potato seed.

This week brought the first cultivating to Alderlea: it also brought the working in the garden, first of the gardening — one to dig about the flowerbed and border, the other also to early plantings in the vegetable garden.

Colorful Accessories Add Charm To Kitchens

By ELEANOR ROSS

You can hardly blame a woman for indifferent care and cleaning methods in the kitchen, if the room itself looks drab and uninviting. She'll scrub, tidy up, wash and dry — but if the kitchen equipment is dull and colorless to begin with, all her efforts seem wasted.

Dismal Kitchens There's just no sense these days in putting up with a dismal kitchen or one that is just antiseptic white with no dash of color to make it bright and cheerful. Why, even the new kitchen towels are as artistically patterned and printed as a Grade A mural. Cast-iron frying pans and cutting boards come in lovely colored enamel finishes or amusing shapes. The old cast-iron pan for baking corn muffins has taken on a new look, with the iron surfaced with warm, persimmon-toned enamel!

As for general color trends, a good many women must have gone around last year asking for yellow or green household appliances — for general as well as for kitchen use. Most of the new appliances do feature these colors above all others: but coming up fast is the trend for pink. There are the pink canisters, breadboxes, flour bins and other kitchen items — and they move briskly wherever they are displayed.

Gay and Attractive Ranges, refrigerators and freezers now come in various shades to bring cheer into the kitchen. There's a copper-hued range that is just the thing to bring a new look into the kitchen and make it right for impromptu gatherings of family and friends. We saw a copper-colored range in a kitchen with plenty of warm pink and accents of shiny black — as smart a color scheme as that featured in any living room.

Not a Fad Pretty colors are not just fads and fancies. They make good sense even in equipment that gets a thorough work-out every day of the year. Furthermore, whether it is vibrant or pastel, the color of the enamels, plastics and porcelain we have today can be kept spotless with just soap and water. Dust and soil can simply be wiped off with a sudsy cloth or sponge and the surface remains colorfully new.

Words Of The Wise Manners are the shadows of virtues, the monetary display of those qualities which our fellow creatures love and respect. If we strive to become, then, what we strive to appear, manners may often be rendered useful guides to the performance of our duties. —(Sydney Smith).

Simple Barbecue Menus For The Amateur Chef

By Ida Bailey Allen

"All over the country on Memorial Day, thousands of amateur chefs will be trying out a new barbecue grill in the back yard or on the terrace. Or perhaps they will motor to one of the state parks with cooking facilities, where they can show off their skill."

"I have given considerable thought to this matter, Madam," and simmer 10 min. or longer. Blend 1 tbs. flour and 1 tbs. cold water. Stir into the chili con carne mixture; cook and stir until slightly thickened. Serve over chili potato chips.

Chili Potato Chips: Dust plenty of crisp, crunchy potato chips with chili powder; warm a few minutes in a pie plate before serving.

Roast Corn-in-the-Husks: Soak unhusked ears of corn 20 min. in cold water. Drain. Place unhusked on a barbecue grill and heat; turn occasionally until a jet of steam pours out of the husks. To serve, peel off husks; roll the corn in melted butter.

TRICKY OF THE CHEF Split poppy seed rolls, brush with garlic butter, and toast.

YOU WON'T NEED to spend hours cooking over a hot grill during the weekend if you serve your guests Chill Concarne on Chili Chips.

admitted our Chef. "Unless the amateur chef is experienced in cooking on an outdoor grill, and does not mind having his friends 'kibitz' while he does it, he should select a very easy menu, or he might lose face! But here is a hearty dinner anyone can prepare who can manage to keep the charcoal or wood fire burning in the grill."
