 Canadian Press Business Editor

A more confident tone, as compared with even a couple of months ago, is perhaps the most striking feature of late-1961 and early-1962 business forecasts.

In early fall there were still fears that the recovery might falter. Instead, it appeared to broaden.

As a result there is little hesitancy among most observers in predicting that 1962 will be a better year than 1961.

Probably more buoyant optimism would be expressed if it weren't that we are operating among many unresolved problems and unknown factors. We don't know, for instance, the outcome of Britain's negotiations with the Common Market nor the fate of President Kennedy's program for freer trade.

If some of the unknowns develop well for us we could be in for a good time indeed, but if they develop adversely they could throw a lot of dust in the face of optimism.

ARE TWO QUESTIONS

Two of the question marks have been expenditures for business expansion and consumer spending. Consumer spending appears to be picking up, and here and there some optimism is expressed that, assuming the recovery continues, business expansion may follow quicker than now is expected.

Many of the generally optimistic statements, however, are couched in cautious language, perhaps as a guard against expecting too much.

Louis Hebert, general manager of the National Canadian Bank (La Banque Canadienne Nationale), speaking at the bank's annual meeting in Montreal Monday, said:

"The Canadian economy seems to be moving on the same lines as that of the United States. In both countries the revival was tardy but is gathering speed from month to month. Nobody would expect 1962 to be a boom year but, according to the most significant indices, it should be a good year."

PREDICT GNP INCREASE

Perhaps the most optimistic forecast is that of Prudential Insurance Company of America, which predicts a 7.3 increase in Canada's Gross National Product and a nine-percent increase in that of the United States.

The Canadian Association of Purchasing Agents says in its January bulletin:

"The December pace in the manufacturing and processing industries of Canada showed a mild improvement over November. It is significant, however, that this is the 10th consecutive month in which our reports have indicated improvement in key factors over the previous month.

"New orders and production were higher; prices, and employment reasonably stable; and inventories lower."

BEDEQUE

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Cotton, Porter's Lake, Halifax County, have spent the Christmas holiday season, visiting with their daughter, Mrs. Sterling Enman and Mr. Enman, Victoria West, and with Mrs. Cotton's mother, Mrs. Ernest Weeks and Mr. Weeks, Bedeque. They also visited with Mrs. Cotton's brother, Mr. George Ellis, Tyne Valley, and Mrs. Ellis, and with Mrs. Cotton's sister, Mrs. Leo Lecky and Mr. Lecky, Summerside.

Mrs. Sterling Enman, and Mrs. John Moore, Victoria West were recent guests at the home of Mrs. Enman's grandmother, Mrs. V.E. S. Weeks and Mr. Weeks. B.Q.

PERMIT CONDITIONAL

LONDON (AP)—The London county council granted a real estate firm permission Wednesday to build an $11,000,000 hotel, but specified it must be no higher than 125 feet. Otherwise guests might be able from the roof to look into Princess Margaret's royal residence in the nearby Kensington Palace Gardens.

The bidding:
 West North East South
 1♥ 3♣ Pass 5NT

Opening lead—king of hearts.
 This deal occurred in a pair championship. The bidding was not the same at every table, but at most of them South became declarer at three notrump.

The results obtained by the various declarers were curious indeed. The outcome was largely a matter of West's choosing the right line of defense, and we record here what transpired at three tables where South contracted for three notrump.

At the first table, West led the king of hearts and was then faced with a difficult choice of what to play next. With eight solid clubs staring him in the face, West decided that the best chance of beating the contract was to play his partner for the ace of diamonds.

So at trick two he led a diamond in the hope that East would take the ace and return a heart to defeat the contract three tricks. This scheme didn't turn out well for West, because South, to west's discomfort, took the rest of the tricks to make six notrump.

At the second table, West cashed the A-K-Q of hearts, and when East signaled on the third heart lead with the eight of spades, West led the six. East took the ace, returned a spade, and West cashed three spades to defeat the contract three tricks.

It was at the third table that the defense exacted the maximum penalty. Here, also, the king of hearts was led, but at trick two West shifted to a low spade. East won with the ace and returned a heart.

Declarer, who had thirteen tricks ready to cash if he could have obtained the lead in time, sat by hopelessly as the defenders reeled off six heart tricks and four spades to defeat him six tricks—600 points.

So the odd result of the hand was that, while all three declarers were playing the same contract against the same opening lead, one of them made twelve tricks, another six tricks, and the third one made only three tricks.

KEY
 A = ANY LETTER
 B = LONG VOWEL
 C = SHORT VOWEL
 D = CONSONANT

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three T's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
