

PERKINS' THE DAILY EXAMINER

New Fall Dress Goods

Our Dress Goods Department continues to attract hundreds of Ladies, whose universal judgment places this dress goods stock as the largest, best and most attractive assortment in Canada.

COMFORT

In cold weather is what we are all looking for.

We Supply It.

Good and reliable underwear at way down prices. Here's one line that's extra good value—

Ladies' open front, long sleeve, extra heavy under-vests for only 25c.

HOSE SUPPORTERS

"Velvet Grip" hose supporters, with cushioned button locks, holds silk, wool or cotton hose, and will not cut, tear nor slip.

Price 35c per Set.

If you are in need of any Towels it will pay you to visit our Linen Department.

A good linen towel, 16x27 inches, for 7c each
A fine linen towel, 18x32 inches, for 14c each

A special line of roller towelling, worth 8c, for today, 5c per yd

Dress Improvers

We sell the Combination Hip Pads, price 75c
Blouse Extenders, price 40c
Braided Wire Bustles, price 39c

Ladies' Wrappers

The best value for the least money tells the story of our wrapper department.

Ladies' Wrappers, 90c each
Ladies' Wrappers, $1.25 each
Ladies' Wrappers, $1.75 each
Ladies' Wrappers, $2.50 each

Skirt Edging

The "Easy sewn" skirt edging is a boon to dress makers. Can be sewn on the skirt with the greatest facility. Protects the skirt where the wear is most severe.

One case of Men's Flannel Shirts

in navy blue, dark grey, light grey flannel, direct from the manufacturers—opened to-day—and selling at away down prices.

F. Perkins & Co

SUNNYSIDE.

THE DAILY EXAMINER

OCTOBER 3, 1898.

SIR WILFRID'S STATEMENT.

SOME of the Government organs seem to think that prohibition has been disposed of—at least for many years to come. But there is still hope for the prohibitionists in the following, clipped from the Patriot:

QUEBEC, Oct. 1.—"What do you think of yesterday's voting?" Sir Wilfrid Laurier was asked by a reporter.

"I am always glad to learn the expression of public opinion," replied the premier.

"Will a prohibitory law be carried?" "It is the function of all responsible and constitutional governments to listen to the voice of the people," declared Sir Wilfrid.

Sir Wilfrid, it will be observed, does not meet a direct question by a direct answer. But he intimates that "the Government will listen to the voice of the people." A majority of the votes cast on Thursday last was in favor of prohibition. If those electors who stayed away from the polls were anxious to retain the existing liquor laws they would, doubtless, have taken the trouble to go to the polls and say so by means of the ballot. In view of the majority obtained at the polls, we may, therefore, conclude that the "voice of the people" is for prohibition; and in view of Sir Wilfrid's statement, as quoted above, we may hope that prohibition will, ere long, be enacted. How this can be effected by a Liberal Government, three members of which have openly denounced the idea of prohibition as opposed to Liberalism and the financial interests of the administration, remains to be seen. But Sir Wilfrid is an able dealer, and there are vacant governorships and sundry other good things in prospect for retiring members of the Cabinet. The prohibitionists are likely, at all events, to hold Sir Wilfrid to his statement that "it is the function of all responsible and constitutional Governments to listen to the voice of the people," and the implied promise contained therein to enact prohibition as a result of the voting.

The idea that we can't have a prohibitory law simply because Quebec has a bid so, is ridiculous. The rule is that the majority governs in Canada. An exception to the rule ought not to be made merely because a majority of the whole country is opposed by a majority in Quebec. A majority in Quebec has the right to govern as to a Quebec provincial matter, but this is a national matter; and the majority of the people of Canada as a whole must, consequently, outweigh the majority in Quebec.

Montreal Witness: Owing to the adverse majority in Quebec, the total majority in favor of prohibition in the country is but small. It is, however, a distinct majority. Sir Wilfrid Laurier plainly promised that as the people ordered so the government would legislate. Government, in this country is by majority. No government would scruple to rule by virtue of a far less majority than one of twenty thousand votes. Nor does a government count it necessary to have a majority in every province. One province, indeed, is just now ruling all the rest because it has a majority large enough to obliterate all the minorities. That province should not, however, expect to rule all the rest when it fails to wipe out their unanimous majority. Sometimes one province has to be ruled by all the rest. If members of parliament are governed in this manner by their constituencies a considerable majority of them will demand and support prohibitory legislation.

St. John Telegraph: There are upwards of a million and a quarter registered voters in the different constituencies of Canada, and of these less than one fourth took the trouble to vote on Thursday. The number who voted in favor of prohibition all over Canada did not exceed one-eighth of the number of registered voters. Assuming that there was a majority of votes cast for prohibition, was the vote of such a character as to justify the government in acting on it in the way of legislation? No one will pretend that this plebiscite has disclosed the views of the people one way or the other, for the excellent reason that a majority of the people refused to vote and gave no indications of how they would have voted if they had been compelled to take sides on the question. The Government are therefore as much in the dark as they were before the plebiscite was ordered, and from the fact that the vote for prohibition was so small they have a right to infer that the people of Canada do not want it. The Government have done their duty in giving the people a chance of declaring for prohibition, and if they have not done so it is no fault of theirs.

The Pioneer:—The die has been cast, and we write it with regret that the country, as a whole, does not yet appear to be as ripe as was supposed a few weeks ago for so grand an advancement towards a higher phase of civilization. However, the labor has not been in vain; the cause is not lost. This plebiscite has been the greatest educator, and the result should merely act as a stimulus to the prohibitionist for redoubled effort in the great fight.

London Daily Chronicle: Sir Wilfrid Laurier's promises of a poll in the Dominion on prohibition is a awkward one for the Government. The vote will likely be in favor of prohibition, which result will give Sir Wilfrid an opportunity for the exercise of his statesmanship.

St. James Gazette: Whatever way "Our Lady of the Snows" votes today, there is not any likelihood that England or Europe will follow her example, for the simple reason that the sensible, practical, easy-going in this world will not consent to be governed by the fussy, excitable and feather-headed.

London Morning Post: The prohibition movement in Canada, instituted by the Laurier Government, is more in the way of a redemption of an election pledge than anything else. The idea that any serious condition is involved in the result may be left out of the matter. We are not willing to credit members of any enlightened government with the belief that a move so crude and statesmanlike is a remedy for the recognized ills of intemperance.

St. John Sun: The majority in the maritime provinces in favor of prohibition will probably overcome that of Quebec against it. Nova Scotia gives a yes majority of about 25,000, New Brunswick's majority will apparently reach 17,000, and that of Prince Edward Island is not likely to be less than 8,000 making 50,000 in all. The estimate of 75,000 No majority in Quebec was too high, but the figures telegraphed to the afternoon papers were doubtless too low. The late returns yet to come will swell the anti-majority in Quebec, but must increase the prohibition majority in the other provinces.

Ottawa Citizen: Canada is not growing rapidly in population for the reason that her sons are spreading out over the habitable globe. Hardly a list of killed and wounded from the ships crews or regiments of the United States in the recent war but contained the name of one or more Canadians. Lieut. Girouard, a Canadian, built Kitchener's celebrated railway from Wady Halfa to Abu Hamid. A Toronto boy was among the killed in the charge of the 21st Lancers at Omdurman. Lieut. Morris, of the Worceser regiment, distinguished himself on the North-west frontier in India last spring. Capt. Cooke, news of whose death arrived from the African Hinterland last week was from Moncton, N. B., and several Canadians rode with Jamieson in the Transvaal raid.

Montreal Witness: Owing to the adverse majority in Quebec, the total majority in favor of prohibition in the country is but small. It is, however, a distinct majority. Sir Wilfrid Laurier plainly promised that as the people ordered so the government would legislate. Government, in this country is by majority. No government would scruple to rule by virtue of a far less majority than one of twenty thousand votes. Nor does a government count it necessary to have a majority in every province. One province, indeed, is just now ruling all the rest because it has a majority large enough to obliterate all the minorities. That province should not, however, expect to rule all the rest when it fails to wipe out their unanimous majority. Sometimes one province has to be ruled by all the rest. If members of parliament are governed in this manner by their constituencies a considerable majority of them will demand and support prohibitory legislation.

St. John Telegraph: There are upwards of a million and a quarter registered voters in the different constituencies of Canada, and of these less than one fourth took the trouble to vote on Thursday. The number who voted in favor of prohibition all over Canada did not exceed one-eighth of the number of registered voters. Assuming that there was a majority of votes cast for prohibition, was the vote of such a character as to justify the government in acting on it in the way of legislation? No one will pretend that this plebiscite has disclosed the views of the people one way or the other, for the excellent reason that a majority of the people refused to vote and gave no indications of how they would have voted if they had been compelled to take sides on the question. The Government are therefore as much in the dark as they were before the plebiscite was ordered, and from the fact that the vote for prohibition was so small they have a right to infer that the people of Canada do not want it. The Government have done their duty in giving the people a chance of declaring for prohibition, and if they have not done so it is no fault of theirs.

The Pioneer:—The die has been cast, and we write it with regret that the country, as a whole, does not yet appear to be as ripe as was supposed a few weeks ago for so grand an advancement towards a higher phase of civilization. However, the labor has not been in vain; the cause is not lost. This plebiscite has been the greatest educator, and the result should merely act as a stimulus to the prohibitionist for redoubled effort in the great fight.

London Daily Chronicle: Sir Wilfrid Laurier's promises of a poll in the Dominion on prohibition is a awkward one for the Government. The vote will likely be in favor of prohibition, which result will give Sir Wilfrid an opportunity for the exercise of his statesmanship.

St. James Gazette: Whatever way "Our Lady of the Snows" votes today, there is not any likelihood that England or Europe will follow her example, for the simple reason that the sensible, practical, easy-going in this world will not consent to be governed by the fussy, excitable and feather-headed.

London Morning Post: The prohibition movement in Canada, instituted by the Laurier Government, is more in the way of a redemption of an election pledge than anything else. The idea that any serious condition is involved in the result may be left out of the matter. We are not willing to credit members of any enlightened government with the belief that a move so crude and statesmanlike is a remedy for the recognized ills of intemperance.

St. John Sun: The majority in the maritime provinces in favor of prohibition will probably overcome that of Quebec against it. Nova Scotia gives a yes majority of about 25,000, New Brunswick's majority will apparently reach 17,000, and that of Prince Edward Island is not likely to be less than 8,000 making 50,000 in all. The estimate of 75,000 No majority in Quebec was too high, but the figures telegraphed to the afternoon papers were doubtless too low. The late returns yet to come will swell the anti-majority in Quebec, but must increase the prohibition majority in the other provinces.

Ottawa Citizen: Canada is not growing rapidly in population for the reason that her sons are spreading out over the habitable globe. Hardly a list of killed and wounded from the ships crews or regiments of the United States in the recent war but contained the name of one or more Canadians. Lieut. Girouard, a Canadian, built Kitchener's celebrated railway from Wady Halfa to Abu Hamid. A Toronto boy was among the killed in the charge of the 21st Lancers at Omdurman. Lieut. Morris, of the Worceser regiment, distinguished himself on the North-west frontier in India last spring. Capt. Cooke, news of whose death arrived from the African Hinterland last week was from Moncton, N. B., and several Canadians rode with Jamieson in the Transvaal raid.

Montreal Witness: Owing to the adverse majority in Quebec, the total majority in favor of prohibition in the country is but small. It is, however, a distinct majority. Sir Wilfrid Laurier plainly promised that as the people ordered so the government would legislate. Government, in this country is by majority. No government would scruple to rule by virtue of a far less majority than one of twenty thousand votes. Nor does a government count it necessary to have a majority in every province. One province, indeed, is just now ruling all the rest because it has a majority large enough to obliterate all the minorities. That province should not, however, expect to rule all the rest when it fails to wipe out their unanimous majority. Sometimes one province has to be ruled by all the rest. If members of parliament are governed in this manner by their constituencies a considerable majority of them will demand and support prohibitory legislation.

St. John Telegraph: There are upwards of a million and a quarter registered voters in the different constituencies of Canada, and of these less than one fourth took the trouble to vote on Thursday. The number who voted in favor of prohibition all over Canada did not exceed one-eighth of the number of registered voters. Assuming that there was a majority of votes cast for prohibition, was the vote of such a character as to justify the government in acting on it in the way of legislation? No one will pretend that this plebiscite has disclosed the views of the people one way or the other, for the excellent reason that a majority of the people refused to vote and gave no indications of how they would have voted if they had been compelled to take sides on the question. The Government are therefore as much in the dark as they were before the plebiscite was ordered, and from the fact that the vote for prohibition was so small they have a right to infer that the people of Canada do not want it. The Government have done their duty in giving the people a chance of declaring for prohibition, and if they have not done so it is no fault of theirs.

The Pioneer:—The die has been cast, and we write it with regret that the country, as a whole, does not yet appear to be as ripe as was supposed a few weeks ago for so grand an advancement towards a higher phase of civilization. However, the labor has not been in vain; the cause is not lost. This plebiscite has been the greatest educator, and the result should merely act as a stimulus to the prohibitionist for redoubled effort in the great fight.

London Daily Chronicle: Sir Wilfrid Laurier's promises of a poll in the Dominion on prohibition is a awkward one for the Government. The vote will likely be in favor of prohibition, which result will give Sir Wilfrid an opportunity for the exercise of his statesmanship.

St. James Gazette: Whatever way "Our Lady of the Snows" votes today, there is not any likelihood that England or Europe will follow her example, for the simple reason that the sensible, practical, easy-going in this world will not consent to be governed by the fussy, excitable and feather-headed.

London Morning Post: The prohibition movement in Canada, instituted by the Laurier Government, is more in the way of a redemption of an election pledge than anything else. The idea that any serious condition is involved in the result may be left out of the matter. We are not willing to credit members of any enlightened government with the belief that a move so crude and statesmanlike is a remedy for the recognized ills of intemperance.

St. John Sun: The majority in the maritime provinces in favor of prohibition will probably overcome that of Quebec against it. Nova Scotia gives a yes majority of about 25,000, New Brunswick's majority will apparently reach 17,000, and that of Prince Edward Island is not likely to be less than 8,000 making 50,000 in all. The estimate of 75,000 No majority in Quebec was too high, but the figures telegraphed to the afternoon papers were doubtless too low. The late returns yet to come will swell the anti-majority in Quebec, but must increase the prohibition majority in the other provinces.

Ottawa Citizen: Canada is not growing rapidly in population for the reason that her sons are spreading out over the habitable globe. Hardly a list of killed and wounded from the ships crews or regiments of the United States in the recent war but contained the name of one or more Canadians. Lieut. Girouard, a Canadian, built Kitchener's celebrated railway from Wady Halfa to Abu Hamid. A Toronto boy was among the killed in the charge of the 21st Lancers at Omdurman. Lieut. Morris, of the Worceser regiment, distinguished himself on the North-west frontier in India last spring. Capt. Cooke, news of whose death arrived from the African Hinterland last week was from Moncton, N. B., and several Canadians rode with Jamieson in the Transvaal raid.

Montreal Witness: Owing to the adverse majority in Quebec, the total majority in favor of prohibition in the country is but small. It is, however, a distinct majority. Sir Wilfrid Laurier plainly promised that as the people ordered so the government would legislate. Government, in this country is by majority. No government would scruple to rule by virtue of a far less majority than one of twenty thousand votes. Nor does a government count it necessary to have a majority in every province. One province, indeed, is just now ruling all the rest because it has a majority large enough to obliterate all the minorities. That province should not, however, expect to rule all the rest when it fails to wipe out their unanimous majority. Sometimes one province has to be ruled by all the rest. If members of parliament are governed in this manner by their constituencies a considerable majority of them will demand and support prohibitory legislation.

THE PLEBISCITE VOTE.

Opinions of the Press.

Toronto Globe: The hostility of the cities is the one feature of the vote that can be regarded as disappointing. It was desirable that in those centres of population where the difficulty of enforcing a prohibition measure would be greatest there should be a strong sentiment behind the law.

The thought most obviously suggested by the figures is the localization of the question. With a majority of over 25,000 for prohibition in the maritime provinces, we have Quebec at the other extremity with about that number against. It would be futile to shut our eyes to the difficulty that those facts present. They constitute an almost irreconcilable situation.

Mail and Empire: On the whole it seems probable that over the whole country there will be a small prohibition majority. A good many people have imagined that this would mean the enactment of a law. This is a mistake. A majority of a million would enact nothing. The plebiscite was really an order upon the prohibitionists to show up or shut up, and we rather think that the government will tell them to "shut up."

St. John Sun: The majority in the maritime provinces in favor of prohibition will probably overcome that of Quebec against it. Nova Scotia gives a yes majority of about 25,000, New Brunswick's majority will apparently reach 17,000, and that of Prince Edward Island is not likely to be less than 8,000 making 50,000 in all. The estimate of 75,000 No majority in Quebec was too high, but the figures telegraphed to the afternoon papers were doubtless too low. The late returns yet to come will swell the anti-majority in Quebec, but must increase the prohibition majority in the other provinces.

Ottawa Citizen: Canada is not growing rapidly in population for the reason that her sons are spreading out over the habitable globe. Hardly a list of killed and wounded from the ships crews or regiments of the United States in the recent war but contained the name of one or more Canadians. Lieut. Girouard, a Canadian, built Kitchener's celebrated railway from Wady Halfa to Abu Hamid. A Toronto boy was among the killed in the charge of the 21st Lancers at Omdurman. Lieut. Morris, of the Worceser regiment, distinguished himself on the North-west frontier in India last spring. Capt. Cooke, news of whose death arrived from the African Hinterland last week was from Moncton, N. B., and several Canadians rode with Jamieson in the Transvaal raid.

Montreal Witness: Owing to the adverse majority in Quebec, the total majority in favor of prohibition in the country is but small. It is, however, a distinct majority. Sir Wilfrid Laurier plainly promised that as the people ordered so the government would legislate. Government, in this country is by majority. No government would scruple to rule by virtue of a far less majority than one of twenty thousand votes. Nor does a government count it necessary to have a majority in every province. One province, indeed, is just now ruling all the rest because it has a majority large enough to obliterate all the minorities. That province should not, however, expect to rule all the rest when it fails to wipe out their unanimous majority. Sometimes one province has to be ruled by all the rest. If members of parliament are governed in this manner by their constituencies a considerable majority of them will demand and support prohibitory legislation.

St. John Telegraph: There are upwards of a million and a quarter registered voters in the different constituencies of Canada, and of these less than one fourth took the trouble to vote on Thursday. The number who voted in favor of prohibition all over Canada did not exceed one-eighth of the number of registered voters. Assuming that there was a majority of votes cast for prohibition, was the vote of such a character as to justify the government in acting on it in the way of legislation? No one will pretend that this plebiscite has disclosed the views of the people one way or the other, for the excellent reason that a majority of the people refused to vote and gave no indications of how they would have voted if they had been compelled to take sides on the question. The Government are therefore as much in the dark as they were before the plebiscite was ordered, and from the fact that the vote for prohibition was so small they have a right to infer that the people of Canada do not want it. The Government have done their duty in giving the people a chance of declaring for prohibition, and if they have not done so it is no fault of theirs.

The Pioneer:—The die has been cast, and we write it with regret that the country, as a whole, does not yet appear to be as ripe as was supposed a few weeks ago for so grand an advancement towards a higher phase of civilization. However, the labor has not been in vain; the cause is not lost. This plebiscite has been the greatest educator, and the result should merely act as a stimulus to the prohibitionist for redoubled effort in the great fight.

London Daily Chronicle: Sir Wilfrid Laurier's promises of a poll in the Dominion on prohibition is a awkward one for the Government. The vote will likely be in favor of prohibition, which result will give Sir Wilfrid an opportunity for the exercise of his statesmanship.

St. James Gazette: Whatever way "Our Lady of the Snows" votes today, there is not any likelihood that England or Europe will follow her example, for the simple reason that the sensible, practical, easy-going in this world will not consent to be governed by the fussy, excitable and feather-headed.

London Morning Post: The prohibition movement in Canada, instituted by the Laurier Government, is more in the way of a redemption of an election pledge than anything else. The idea that any serious condition is involved in the result may be left out of the matter. We are not willing to credit members of any enlightened government with the belief that a move so crude and statesmanlike is a remedy for the recognized ills of intemperance.

St. John Sun: The majority in the maritime provinces in favor of prohibition will probably overcome that of Quebec against it. Nova Scotia gives a yes majority of about 25,000, New Brunswick's majority will apparently reach 17,000, and that of Prince Edward Island is not likely to be less than 8,000 making 50,000 in all. The estimate of 75,000 No majority in Quebec was too high, but the figures telegraphed to the afternoon papers were doubtless too low. The late returns yet to come will swell the anti-majority in Quebec, but must increase the prohibition majority in the other provinces.

Ottawa Citizen: Canada is not growing rapidly in population for the reason that her sons are spreading out over the habitable globe. Hardly a list of killed and wounded from the ships crews or regiments of the United States in the recent war but contained the name of one or more Canadians. Lieut. Girouard, a Canadian, built Kitchener's celebrated railway from Wady Halfa to Abu Hamid. A Toronto boy was among the killed in the charge of the 21st Lancers at Omdurman. Lieut. Morris, of the Worceser regiment, distinguished himself on the North-west frontier in India last spring. Capt. Cooke, news of whose death arrived from the African Hinterland last week was from Moncton, N. B., and several Canadians rode with Jamieson in the Transvaal raid.

Montreal Witness: Owing to the adverse majority in Quebec, the total majority in favor of prohibition in the country is but small. It is, however, a distinct majority. Sir Wilfrid Laurier plainly promised that as the people ordered so the government would legislate. Government, in this country is by majority. No government would scruple to rule by virtue of a far less majority than one of twenty thousand votes. Nor does a government count it necessary to have a majority in every province. One province, indeed, is just now ruling all the rest because it has a majority large enough to obliterate all the minorities. That province should not, however, expect to rule all the rest when it fails to wipe out their unanimous majority. Sometimes one province has to be ruled by all the rest. If members of parliament are governed in this manner by their constituencies a considerable majority of them will demand and support prohibitory legislation.

St. John Telegraph: There are upwards of a million and a quarter registered voters in the different constituencies of Canada, and of these less than one fourth took the trouble to vote on Thursday. The number who voted in favor of prohibition all over Canada did not exceed one-eighth of the number of registered voters. Assuming that there was a majority of votes cast for prohibition, was the vote of such a character as to justify the government in acting on it in the way of legislation? No one will pretend that this plebiscite has disclosed the views of the people one way or the other, for the excellent reason that a majority of the people refused to vote and gave no indications of how they would have voted if they had been compelled to take sides on the question. The Government are therefore as much in the dark as they were before the plebiscite was ordered, and from the fact that the vote for prohibition was so small they have a right to infer that the people of Canada do not want it. The Government have done their duty in giving the people a chance of declaring for prohibition, and if they have not done so it is no fault of theirs.

The Pioneer:—The die has been cast, and we write it with regret that the country, as a whole, does not yet appear to be as ripe as was supposed a few weeks ago for so grand an advancement towards a higher phase of civilization. However, the labor has not been in vain; the cause is not lost. This plebiscite has been the greatest educator, and the result should merely act as a stimulus to the prohibitionist for redoubled effort in the great fight.

London Daily Chronicle: Sir Wilfrid Laurier's promises of a poll in the Dominion on prohibition is a awkward one for the Government. The vote will likely be in favor of prohibition, which result will give Sir Wilfrid an opportunity for the exercise of his statesmanship.

St. James Gazette: Whatever way "Our Lady of the Snows" votes today, there is not any likelihood that England or Europe will follow her example, for the simple reason that the sensible, practical, easy-going in this world will not consent to be governed by the fussy, excitable and feather-headed.

London Morning Post: The prohibition movement in Canada, instituted by the Laurier Government, is more in the way of a redemption of an election pledge than anything else. The idea that any serious condition is involved in the result may be left out of the matter. We are not willing to credit members of any enlightened government with the belief that a move so crude and statesmanlike is a remedy for the recognized ills of intemperance.

done their duty in giving the people a chance of declaring for prohibition, and if they have not done so it is no fault of theirs.

The Pioneer:—The die has been cast, and we write it with regret that the country, as a whole, does not yet appear to be as ripe as was supposed a few weeks ago for so grand an advancement towards a higher phase of civilization. However, the labor has not been in vain; the cause is not lost. This plebiscite has been the greatest educator, and the result should merely act as a stimulus to the prohibitionist for redoubled effort in the great fight.

London Daily Chronicle: Sir Wilfrid Laurier's promises of a poll in the Dominion on prohibition is a awkward one for the Government. The vote will likely be in favor of prohibition, which result will give Sir Wilfrid an opportunity for the exercise of his statesmanship.

St. James Gazette: Whatever way "Our Lady of the Snows" votes today, there is not any likelihood that England or Europe will follow her example, for the simple reason that the sensible, practical, easy-going in this world will not consent to be governed by the fussy, excitable and feather-headed.

London Morning Post: The prohibition movement in Canada, instituted by the Laurier Government, is more in the way of a redemption of an election pledge than anything else. The idea that any serious condition is involved in the result may be left out of the matter. We are not willing to credit members of any enlightened government with the belief that a move so crude and statesmanlike is a remedy for the recognized ills of intemperance.

Use in place of Cream of Tartar and Soda.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure

More convenient, Makes the food lighter and more healthful.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

New Goods New Goods

At the Cheap Crockery Store

Just received a new and beautiful lot of China, Glass, Porcelain, all kinds of Crockeryware.

All the latest novelties in China. Also a large stock of fancy goods in Albums, Frames, Dressing Cases, Necktie Boxes, Gloves and Handkerchief Boxes, etc., etc. Dolls all kinds and prices. Call and see them.

No trouble to show goods. Handsome articles for Wedding Presents

J. LEWIS PHOTOGRAPHS.

We are now making all the latest styles of Photos, finished in a superior manner, either on glossy or flat paper

At the Old Stand, Grafton St. North Side of Market Square.

Housekeepers Auction.

Apples and plants to-morrow morning at 10.30. 70 barrels apples, 20 large baskets plums. We have positive orders to clear out this lot at this sale and same will be sold without any regard to value. Be sure and come to this sale.

E. H. NORTON, Auctioneer

270 21ns.

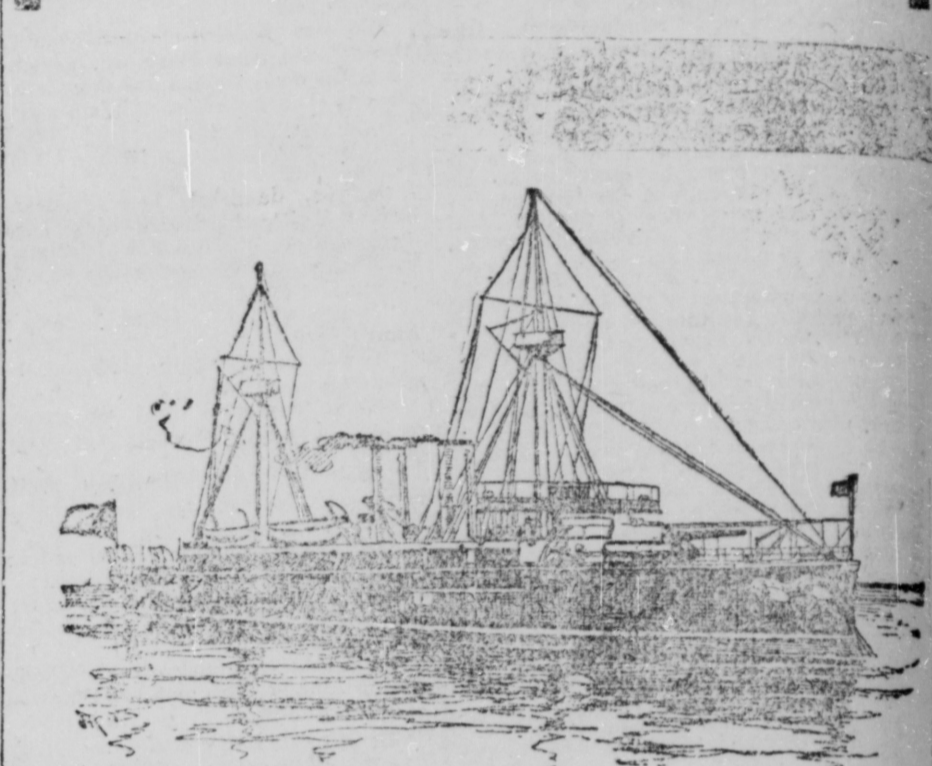

So Much Depends

On the material and workmanship put into FURNITURE to make it what it should be to stand long wear.—Our FURNITURE is made by skilled workmen, using good material, and in a manner and style that makes it better value than any to found elsewhere.

Mark Wright & Co., Ltd

Home Makers.....

This is the Ship That Leut. Hobson Has Raised.

ARMORED CRUISER INFANTA MARIA TERESA.

The Infanta Maria Teresa is so much like the Vincaya and Almirante Oquendo that it is unnecessary to describe her. Like her sister ships, she is a powerful fighting machine in proper hands. She is one of the favorite vessels with the Spanish populace, possibly because of her name.

She sailed away from where she sunk using her own machinery. We have sailed away from all competitors, using Shorey's guaranteed Ready-to-wear clothing, and our own low prices.

- Men's good strong Reefers $3.00, 3.50 and 5.00
- Men's all wool Vests $3.75, 4.50, and 5.00
- Men's Overcoats, 50 at $5.00, extra value $6.00 and 7.00
- Drab, Fawn, and Brown Beaver O'coats at $8.50
- Boys' and Youths' Reefers $1.50 and $2.00
- Boys' Pants at 45c
- Men's all wool Suits $5.00, 6.00 and 7.00
- 50 Odd Pants 75c, 95c, $1.00 and 1.50
- 50 Waterproof Coats at clearing prices.

- Men's Felt Hats, good shapes, 45 and 35c, also 25c
- Ladies' Corsets 25 and 35c
- Ladies' Underwear, the best 75c undervest in the city.
- A lot of Wool Underwear, combinations and other lot odd lots at 20 p. c. discount.
- 100 pairs Cashmere Stockings at 25c
- Best White Shirt in town at 75c
- Boys' and men's caps 15 and 25c

Boys' Underclothing at 50c a Suit