

Stresses Importance of Strong Farm Organization

"If those engaged in agriculture are to have a standard of living comparable to other professions, I am convinced that the need for strong and active farm organizations is now greater than ever," said Archie Johnstone, Burlington, retiring president of the P.E.I. Federation of Agriculture, at the annual meeting of the Board of Directors, county and provincial, held at the Charlottetown, last night.

"With the cost-price squeeze manifesting itself in more and more ways," Mr. Johnstone asserted "it is evident that we are to continue at all we must present a common and united front."

Mr. Johnstone referred to the constant loss of experienced farmers that those engaged in the industry have had to face, noting that in addition to losing 25 per cent of our farmers to industrial areas, 37 per cent of the farm helpers have gone the same way, requiring the farmer to convert to larger and more expensive machinery "in order to supply the needs of a steadily rising population."

STRONG COMPETITION

The Federation President warned that there are many areas outside North America that, due to more favorable climatic and other conditions, "can and will produce much more cheaply than we."

"Let us be realistic, and let us face it," Mr. Johnstone declared; "boom times for farmers are not just around the corner." Though the last fifty years of this century "may well belong to Canada," the Federation President could not envisage the farmer as sharing in the general prosperity to any appreciable degree.

Mr. Johnstone deplored the attitude of many farmers to the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, referring to the vast amount of work carried out in the farmer's interest by both the national and provincial organizations. The president stated that far too many approach the organization asking, "What can it do for me?" rather than "What can I do for it?"

The Federation President paid tribute to the work accomplished during the year by the organization's secretary, Mr. Dewar, "whose abilities have been recognized outside the Province as well as within." He also expressed his appreciation to the members of the Government, officials, groups and organizations who had furthered the work of the organization during the past year.

LACK OF HARMONY

Mr. Johnstone deplored the "lack of harmony" among those factions and groups with whom differences had arisen in the past, stating that during his term of office he had endeavored to unite those forces which should be working in harmony for the general good of the Province and for agriculture in particular, "adding that this did not mean "that I condone those selfish and self-interested persons and businesses which have sought and are seeking control merely to gain some advantage to themselves."

The President referred to the great advantages the Causeway would bring to the farming and tourist industries, urging the Federation members to promote tourism in every way possible, since the income derived from this source benefits all indirectly.

UNITY OF PURPOSE

Calling for a resumption of the former unity among the provincial potato interests, the president declared that the increasing competition forerunners from other Canadian growers renders a return to harmony more necessary than ever.

"An example of the importance of our market within Canada," can be drawn from the following example: Ten years ago 11 per cent of our potato production. We now export very little over 4 per cent of the total crop. In 1955 Ontario alone brought in over five million 75 pound bags of potatoes and in 1956 brought in an estimated 10 per cent more than the previous year. Ontario's population is increasing at the rate of 350,000 people each year, and there is a corresponding increase in demand for this product, especially in the smaller packaged form. We cannot therefore afford to let up on the quality of our produce and indeed it would seem desirable to have warehouse grading of all our potatoes. It is equally important that we have unity of purpose among those producing and merchandizing this valuable commodity."

NO PANACEA

After reviewing the activities of Federation during his term of office Mr. Johnstone concluded as follows:

"There is no panacea for all the ills of agriculture, but rather each problem must be met and dealt with on the basis of the particular circumstances which surround it. How then, can we as individuals be expected to cope with all the complexities of modern agriculture? I don't believe, that as individuals we are capable of doing so. It will only be through the joint efforts on the part of our farm organizations that we can hope to compete and successfully raise our economic and social standards. The British farmers know what it is to be a minority outside the great industrial economy. They too have had difficult problems to face, some of which have not been dissimilar to our own. Although they have not resolved all of their difficulties, much progress has been made and most of it through their own farm organizations."

"The British have learned to know the value of these organizations to the extent that 90 per cent of them are today members of the National Farmer's Union," Mr. Johnstone stated. "In Canada, or even in Prince Edward Island, our task would still not be an easy one, but it would make such a difference in what might be accomplished, over and above what we are doing, that the results might be entirely amazing."

Fisheries Minister Will Visit N. S.

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Sinclair leaves Sunday on a four-day trip to Nova Scotia during which he will meet briefly with Premier Stanfield and make a number of speeches at universities.

The federal minister will meet the Conservative premier for half an hour at Province House, Halifax, Wednesday morning. His office here termed the meeting a social call and not one involving federal-provincial discussions.

Mr. Sinclair will arrive in Halifax by air Sunday evening and motor to Wolfville, N.S., where he will lunch with officers of the federal constituency of Digby-Annapolis-Kings, a seat now held by Progressive Conservative George Howland. In the evening he will attend a dinner meeting of the Young Liberal Club of Acadia University.

Tuesday he goes to Antigonish for meetings with fisheries field workers and the Liberal Club of Francis Xavier University.

Mr. Sinclair's meeting with Premier Stanfield, Mr. Sinclair visits St. Mary's University, Halifax, Dalhousie Law School and Mount St. Vincent College, and gives a press conference at Liberal headquarters in Halifax. He will leave next morning for Ottawa.

Calls For Volunteers To Show Tourists What We Have

The tourist attractions of Prince Edward Island will be advertised this year on a scale never attempted before. The Dominion Government has allotted 34 times more money to advertise the Maritime Provinces, than last year or in fact any previous year in history.

Mr. George Fraser, head of the Prince Edward Island Travel Bureau, believes that if this policy is continued, the Island will experience a steady increase in tourist traffic in the years to come. But Mr. Fraser is not relying on the increased advertising to make the Island more popular to tourists. It is his belief, that many tourists particularly those who like trout fishing, have had little opportunity of fishing the best trout streams in the Province. By the same token, many of our summer visitors never see many of the Islands most attractive scenic rivers and beauty spots. Many visitors come to the Province with the idea of fishing, but hitherto have had to rely too much on their own initiative as to where and when to fish.

SHOW THEM

Mr. Fraser believes that with a little co-operation from Island trout fishermen, much can be done to acquaint this type of visitor with the fishing possibilities which exist here, and at the same time, to show tourists some of our magnificent rivers such as the Montague, the Brudenell, and Cardigan and the Grand River. All of these can be fished at low water right off the beach, but in years past, very few visitors have been made aware of their possibilities.

It has been suggested to the Travel Bureau, that many of the trout fishermen on Prince Edward Island, would gladly share a day or evening's fishing with visiting fishermen. The Travel Bureau has fallen in line with this suggestion. It is appealing to all Island trout fishermen who wish to co-operate, to forward their names to the Prince Edward Island Travel Bureau, Charlottetown.

LIST VOLUNTEERS

These volunteers will not be called on more than once or twice during the summer. They will not be expected to answer each and every call made upon their time. However, it is expected that if and enough volunteers file their names with the Bureau, that at any given time there will always be a number of fishermen available to extend courtesy to a visitor. In most cases, it will offer an opportunity of meeting interesting people many of them of considerable means. No outlay of money will be involved. It will just be a gesture of hospitality on the part of an Islander to another fisherman, who is enjoying a vacation.

It is hoped that volunteers will register with the Travel Bureau from all points between Tignish and East Point. The organization which is hoped to build up has no name as yet, but if it proves successful, it is believed it will develop into something very worthwhile with a well recognized name.

The Travel Bureau's appeal for volunteer fishing guides is appearing in advertising form in the press. It is hoped that our sportsmen will do their part to keep the Island's name for hospitality and friendliness alive, and as noteworthy as it has always been.

NOTEBOOK

BY: P. R. McCORMAC

The Greeks had a word for it, so they say. The Swedes, on the other hand, had more than a word for it when they were faced with terrible dry cleaning service. A little cleaned and pressed, the Swedes did something about it.

The dry cleaning service in Stockholm was awful. It took two weeks or more to handle a suit. And the prices were outrageous, four or five times what we would expect to pay here.

A few smart people thought of a way to beat the terrible service and high prices and the idea soon spread like wildfire.

They sent their suits by air to New York City, a round trip of almost 8,000 miles. They got their clothes back, cleaned and pressed, in five days and the whole thing cost less than the slow, two-week service in Stockholm.

This strange little case proves, I guess, that the world is really getting smaller all the time, and that good dry cleaning is a service that's mighty important to a lot of people.

We think the knack in offering good dry cleaning service is to organize your plant for fast operation, but do not organize it into such a big soulless giant that you lose the individual attention that clothes need.

If you have some "problem cleaning", or just a dirty suit, I think you'll notice the difference.

PAINTER, 72, Dies Blind Five Years

LONDON (AP) — Wyndham Lewis, 72, famous British painter and author, died Thursday night. He went blind five years ago, and had been ill for about two weeks.

Lewis was a life-long rebel against convention. He came to prominence shortly before the First World War when, with poet Ezra Pound and others, he published the magazine Blast, blasting long-cherished British concepts of art and life.

As a painter Lewis is credited with creating in the 1920s the original British modern art movement. He dubbed it vorticism, a pictorial representation of machine age with its adulation of power and movement.

His paintings hang in public and private collections throughout the world. He is especially noted for "The Great Boats," Dame Edith Sitwell, T. S. Eliot and other contemporary literary greats.

Lewis was equally famous as an author of such novels as Tarr, the trilogy The Human Age, and The Apes of God.

Started Calling Cyclones By Women's Names

SYDNEY (CP) — Why are cyclones known by the names of women, and who started the system?

A lively discussion on this subject has developed in Australia since Clara, a particularly exuberant cyclone, began a three-week dance round the northeast coast of this continent. All the evidence so far adduced suggests that this is just an old Australian custom which has become worldwide.

The man who started it was Clement Wragge, Queensland government meteorologist in the 1890s. He used the system in a series of public lectures, intended to explain the behavior of cyclones in simple terms.

PARALLEL BEHAVIOR

He chose feminine names because he considered that there were parallels in behavior between women and cyclones, both being tempestuous and unpredictable.

Although the Commonwealth government refused to accept the system, which it regarded as frivolous, the idea was used officially in the Southwest Pacific during the war and has since become general in the United States.

Polio Chapter Meeting Held

A meeting of the P.E.I. Polio Chapter was held last evening in the Charlottetown Hotel. Judge Trainor occupied the chair and welcomed the guests of the chapter — polio patients and those closely connected with polio work in the province.

Regret was expressed at the unavoidable absence of A.C. Solomon, Executive Secretary of the Canadian Foundation for Poliomyelitis, who was to have addressed the meeting.

During the business session an excellent report was given of the March of Dimes campaign. Special mention was made of the "Mothers March" and a resolution of thanks expressed to all the gallant ladies who had canvassed the city during the inclement weather.

Gratitude was expressed for the excellent co-operation of press and radio; and to the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion for the use of their room and the serving of coffee to all collectors.

Several guests made excellent suggestions as to the chapter's broadening of their activities and these will be discussed at the next executive meeting.

Following general discussion, a social hour was enjoyed.

World Day of Prayer Service

The annual World Day of Prayer meeting was held in St. James Church yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. The meeting was conducted by Mrs. J.A. Lewis, of St. James Church.

In the chancel assisting the leader were representatives of the city churches: St. Peter's, Mrs. Harvey MacPherson; St. Paul's, Mrs. C.H. Coles; Church of Scotland, Mrs. J.H. Bishop; Zion, Mrs. Annie Darrach; Trinity United, Mrs. Howard Christie; Baptist Church, Mrs. H.J. Huggan; Church of Christ, Mrs. Cyril MacGregor; and the Salvation Army, Mrs. J.A. Carter.

Miss Lillian MacKenzie presided at the organ and led in the service of praise. Mrs. George Peake sang as solo "A Voice in the Wilderness Crying."

The service was adapted from one prepared by Mrs. Serena Vasady of Hungary who lived for some time behind the "iron curtain."

The guest speaker was Miss Margaret MacDuggall, Presbyterian Deaconess. She spoke of the thousands of women of 142 nations worshipping all around the world. Some prayed in great cathedrals, others in tiny huts with straw-thatched roofs, in sick-rooms and in the great out-doors — all sharing in the kinship of God's great family.

The offering will be forwarded to the Women's Inter-Church Council of Canada for world-wide christian work.

Almost Half Income Taxes From Ontario

OTTAWA (CP) — Nearly half of federal income taxes on individuals and corporations in the 1955-56 fiscal year were collected in Ontario, Commons was informed Friday.

Revenue Minister McCann, in a report tabled for W. A. Pommer (L-Lisgar), said $1,288,099,000 in personal income tax was collected in the year ended last March 31. Of that, $660,209,000 was from Ontario.

Of $1,073,046,000 in corporation tax, $521,147,000 was from Ontario. The report said a total $2,501,938,000 was collected from the two income taxes and from taxes on undistributed income, not on real-estate and estates. Not included was the revenue from sales and excise tax, a major source of federal income.

The provincial breakdown of that total: Ontario $1,250,064,000; Quebec $677,509,000; British Columbia $264,611,000; Alberta $123,613,000; Manitoba $104,107,000; Nova Scotia $38,538,000; Saskatchewan $39,399,000; New Brunswick $31,522,000; Newfoundland $25,888,000; Prince Edward Island $3,130,000; Yukon $2,553,000.

Says U. S. Offered To Occupy Gaza

CAIRO (Reuters) — The mayor of Gaza, Rusdi Shawwa, told newspaper men Friday the United States had offered to occupy Gaza to avert the Israeli invasion.

The offer was made two days prior to the Israeli attack in a message from United States warships cruising in Gaza waters, he said.

The mayor was interviewed by a group of newspaper men who travelled to Gaza land later returned to Cairo.

Shawwa was quoted as saying: "Two days before the Israeli invasion, seven U.S. warships cruising in Gaza waters sent the message: 'The United States government is willing to occupy Gaza to prevent an Israeli attack.'"

Shawwa, Israeli-appointed mayor of Gaza, said no reply was given as contact with the Egyptian government was impossible.

But the message was conveyed to the Egyptian member of the United Nations Armistice Commission, Maj. Abbas Sidki.
