Address and Presentation

On Sunday, June 14, the parishioners of St. James Parish, Summerside, honoured Mrs. James B. Croken, their retiring organist by an address after 9 a. m. mass, accompanied by the presentation of a purse of $100.

The address was read by Mr. G. Clayton Green of Emerald and the purse was presented by Mr. Francis B. Murphy of Norborne. Mrs. Croken expressed her thanks for this thoughtful appreciation.

Rev. Eugene L. Murray also spoke briefly, expressing his pleasure that Mrs. Croken was remembered by her fellow parishioners and thanking her for her generous and faithful presence at the accomplished church organist for over 20 years.

Following is the address:
 Mrs. James B. Croken.
 Dear Mrs. Croken:

It was with deep regret that we learned of your retirement from various church activities, and on behalf of the Parishioners of Summerside, we are happy to have the opportunity today of expressing to you our sincere thanks for your faithful and untiring efforts in our Parish work.

For the past number of years you have been our efficient organist, ever ready to give of your time and talents, when called upon. Very few of us have not at some time called on you in both our sorrows and our joys, and we now say a personal "Thank you, Mrs. Croken."

You have given your labor and support to every activity connected with the Catholic Women's League, The Sacred Heart Society, and also to the care of the Altar and Sanctuary. Indeed, in every capacity your efforts in church works have been an edifying example to us all, and we feel that your place will be hard to fill. We ask you to accept this gift, as a small appreciation of your good works in our parish, and we hope and trust that God will spare you many more years.

Signed on behalf of the parishioners of Summerside.
