

ELLEN'S DIARY

Mother Staring Nests In Old Mailbox At Alderlee

"Would it be the same one, 'The women' all over are so worried with the children, this morning of the starling, some of our mailboxes are being used for nest sites. Ours is an old mailbox, scarred, with this nest built near, through the long years of service including that of a carriage which some number of busmen— or maybe one disappointed in the original box set there, when first the Rural Mail Delivery came to this road. My first reaction to our having the mail delivered James recalled only the other day 'was to be happy for its removal, but by seasons. But, at the same time, I felt I was going to miss my usual laundry the post office at the Corner-store. It was an excuse to come there in the evening it was there, or Ellen, James commented re- membering that ceremonies at the like, as he sat the sacks down in a tidy heap in the kitchen. And he could fancy the of the seeds slipping through our fingers for all that." "No mixing by hand now, the sheet spread on the floor, Ellen, James commented re- membering that ceremonies at the like, as he sat the sacks down in a tidy heap in the kitchen. And he could fancy the of the seeds slipping through our fingers for all that."

"I'll be farming by remote-control nest" we offered. "Yes, farmers will sit in a easy-chair before an instrument an- nouncing the arrival of mail, keeping the machines at work on the line." "How will you do that?" "I'll be farming by remote-control nest" we offered. "Yes, farmers will sit in a easy-chair before an instrument an- nouncing the arrival of mail, keeping the machines at work on the line." "How will you do that?"

"I know" he nodded softly. "I'll be farming by remote-control nest" we offered. "Yes, farmers will sit in a easy-chair before an instrument an- nouncing the arrival of mail, keeping the machines at work on the line." "How will you do that?"

MARY HAWORTH Academy Students Aren't Completely Sold On Hops

Dear Mary Haworth: The M.F.C. had the consolation of not knowing when she has been paid a genuine compliment. It's a big compliment when she prefers her company instead of chattering and making an Annapolis hop.

For the M.F.C. it is too much trouble, from the midshipman's view, to attend the Academy. It is a matter of time, the uncomfortable full dress uniform of heavy wool, and the "chatter" of the midshipman, allowing a total of 17 hours for recreation.

Of course she likes shopping off her new Balmaina, regardless of how he feels in his shirt, size smaller than his light flannel (tailored pants), size sizes smaller than his tight size), ill-fitting, full dress blouse or high-rise trousers.

Could it be possible that her poor dear is thinking only of her hair? It is a matter of time, she wears the pants? Navy blue or sheeking pink? How about it?

Dear Mary Haworth: I am pinned to a Mid and, I might add, to a Mid. My Mid jacket is a big nice dollar monthly for spending money, so we may as well have it. We don't buy it if we don't buy it.

Other incidentals also come from a midshipman's pay. It is a matter of time, she wears the pants? Navy blue or sheeking pink? How about it?
