Ottawa Expenditure Set At $112 Million For Fair

OTTAWA (CP)—Works Minister Deschatelets has revealed in the Commons that the federal government alone will spend more than $112,500,000 on the 1967 Montreal world fair and related highway construction.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said his government had given clear understanding that the federal contribution to the fair would not exceed $20,000,000.

"I am beginning to wonder that the sky is the limit," Mr. Diefenbaker said. The government should make sure that the fair would not become "a field day for expenditures."

If this happened, it would shock the sensibilities of Canadian taxpayers. If the fair failed, it would be a "world fiasco" with terrible consequences for Canada's prestige abroad.

'LED ALONG BY NOSE'

Frank Howard (NDP — Skeena) said the federal government proposes to spend huge sums on the fair while being "led along by the nose" by the Quebec government and the City of Montreal.

The federal government was making a fool of itself by erecting a costly monument to Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal, he said.

Several Conservative MPs lambasted Mr. Howard for showing an anti-French-Canadian bias, which he denied.

The exchanges occurred as the Commons approved a government bill amending the original world's fair legislation put through a year ago by the former conservative government.

The bill legalizes the artificial twin-island site of the fair in the St. Lawrence River, provides for the addition of two directors to the 12-member board supervising the fair preparations and establishes a five-member executive committee.

CHANGES AGENCY NAME

The bill also changes the name of the fair agency to the Canadian Corporation for the 1967 World Exhibition from the Canadian World Exhibition Corporation. The original legislation stipulated that the fair site be on Montreal Island.

The extended debate on the fair broke out unexpectedly as Parliament was driving toward prorogation Friday night or today.

Mr. Deschatelets, MP for Montreal Maisonneuve — Rosemont, said the federal government will kick in an extra $45,000,000 for the east-west expressway on Montreal Island and $30,000,000 for the Boucherville Bridge linking Montreal Island with the fair site and the south shore.

Both projects are scheduled for completion early in 1967 to ease traffic congestion in Montreal.

The government will in addition build a Canadian pavilion and guarantee loans contracted by the fair corporation.

$35,000 SALARY

Mr. Deschatelets revealed earlier that the fair's deputy commissioner general, former construction executive Robert Shaw, will receive $35,000 a year, the same as cabinet ministers.

He declined to say what salary will be paid to Commissioner Pierre Dupuy, but said the amount would be "in proportion" to $35,000 for the No. 2 man.

Both Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Howard argued that the island site construction work done to date was illegal, since the 1962 legislation clearly limited the site to Montreal Island. Both criticized the government for delays and dissension in fair planning.

Mr. Deschatelets said there had been no undue delay. A thorough check on circumstances had been necessary before signing agreements with Quebec and the city. He said there was never any question of postponing the fair.

He revealed that the master plan and capital budget for the whole project were delivered by expert consultants Friday to the three governments involved.

The documents would be made public once they had been studied by the three governments.

Shopping Spree Headed For Record Across Canada

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The roses are still blooming in British Columbia but the frost is on the mistletoe elsewhere as Canada heads into a white and generally chilly Christmas.

Despite variations in the weather — including a death — dealing blizzard on the east coast—Canadians were united in the common denominator of a record - bound shopping spree. The Maritimes' wind and snow onslaught slowed it only temporarily.

Record numbers also were migrating south for the holiday. Mexico was a favored destination via solidly-booked airlines. Both the major railway companies also reported the heaviest travel in their history, and equipment shortages were in prospect.

Police were girding for heavy and hazardous highway and local traffic during the party-going season. Many forces had crackdowns under way with spot checks on drinking drivers. Quebec announced "no mercy" for alcoholic motorists.

HAZARD DECLINES

But one hazard was on the decline, a survey by The Canadian Press showed. In Toronto and Winnipeg, at least, the wet office party was waning. Corporate parties for the staff, youngsters were gaining ground.

Christmas entertainment was flowering, and the diversion-seeker on Dec. 25 could have everything from Sir Alec Guinness playing Broadway-bound Dylan in Toronto to carols wafted to the beaches from a boat touring balmy Vancouver Harbor.

Vancouver, too, will have Moscow Circus and Jack and the Beanstalk in pantomime, while Montreal will have children's shows by Andre Eglevsky's ballet from New York.

Cities are outdoing themselves in community dress for the event. Downtown Regina is fabulously decked out with several arteries loaded with elaborate candy canes, lights and Christmas trees.

Water Street in St. John's, Nfld., is sporting city-owned decorations for almost its entire length, with uniformly-trimmed Christmas trees added by the merchants.

Night club entertainment across the country ran the whole gamut, ranging according to taste and price. Holiday club celebrations in St. John's cost up to $50 a couple. Toronto's cocktail lounges will close at 6:30 p.m. Christmas Eve and remain closed Christmas Day.

The weather man is not making forecasts for Christmas yet, but indications are it will be white everywhere except on British Columbia's coast.

Shopping activity indicates Christmas buying will be up around 10 per cent over last year's record figures.

African Students Warned

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has warned African students who joined in this week's angry march on Red Square to respect its laws or get out of the country.

The warning came in an announcement from the official government news agency, Tass.

"If there are people who do not like the Soviet laws and do not want to obey them, these people can leave our country at any moment," Tass declared.

Several hundred students from many parts of Africa stormed into Red Square Wednesday in angry outcry at the death of Edmund Asare-Addo a Ghanaian — then claimed had been knifed by a Russian. The Russian version is that he froze to death while drunk.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	2 ♥
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	5 ♦

Opening lead — four of spades.

This hand arose when Italy and the United States met during the world champions hip tournament held in New York in 1962.

Nothing startling happened at the first table, where the bidding went as shown. The American East - West pair got to four spades, which they would have made, but the Italian South bid five diamonds and went down two—100 points — after everybody passed.

Perhaps West should have doubled, but, even so, five diamonds doubled for minus 300 points would have been a good score for Italy, since the Americans would otherwise have scored 620 points for making four spades.

At the second table, where the Americans held the North-South cards, the bidding went in this strange way:

East - West were Belladonna and Attarlli, playing the Roman Club system. The two spade bid, according to their methods, guaranteed at least five spades and four clubs, as well as 12 to 16 points. The American North - South pair were of course aware of the meaning of this highly specialized bid.

The American South now made an imaginative bid of three clubs. He reasoned that North would interpret this as a cuebid asking him to respond in hearts or diamonds, since he (South) could hardly have clubs, a suit which East had bid by implication.

Whatever the merits of the intended cuebid, there is no doubt that it was unsuccessful. South could still have saved the situation by bidding five diamonds over four spades, but he chose to pass instead.

In the purest sense, perhaps the three club bid was right even though it did put a heavy strain on North's interpretive powers. But the failure to bid again over four spades, not vulnerable against vulnerable, is hard to justify. There was much to be gained by bidding again, but little to lose.
