Stopping A 'Bus.

Mrs. Partington had watched three quarters of an hour for an omnibus, and she swung her umbrella as one drove up, and the driver stopped his horses near where she stood.

"Now, Isaac," says she, feeling in her reticule for a copper, away down under the handkerchief, and snuff-box, and needle-book, "be a good boy, dear, while I am gone, and don't cause a constelation among the neighbors, as some boys do, and there's a cent for you; and be sure you don't lay it out extravagantly, now; and be careful you don't break the windows; and if any body rings at the door, be sure and see who it is before you open it, because there is so many dishonest rogues about; if any porpoise come a begging give 'em what was left of the dinner, Heaven bless 'em, and much good may it do 'em! and — why, bless me! if the omnibus has not gone off, and left me standing here in the middle of the street. Such impudence is without a parallel."

Her spectacles gleamed indignantly down the street, after the disappearing "bus, and, for a moment, anger had the mastery; but equanimity, like twilight, came over her mind, and she waited for the next 'bus, with calmness on her face, and her green cotton umbrella under her arm.

MRS. PARTINGTON IN THE MARKET.

"I wonder what they mean by a better feeling in the market?" said Mrs. Partington, looking up from the newspaper which she was reading, and the problem deeply agitated her mind, revealed in the vibration of her cap-boder. Her address was directed to nobody in particular. It was a little private wonder, got up for her own amusement. The market, and the deaths and marriages, were Mrs. P.'s favorite study in the Weekly Chronicle, but some of the mercantile phrases were at times imperfectly understood. "I wonder what they mean? I'm shore I don't feel any better there, and I don't believe anybody does but the butchers, and that's when they are pocketing the money,—things is so dear! But," continued she, brightening up, "I should like to see the trade embracing ten hogs-heads of tobacco, that I see here printed about. That must have been a real touching sight." She thought of Paul, and the association brought out the cotton handkerchief with the Constitution and Guerriere upon it, and she discontinued.

TYING A KNOT.—A young fellow was taking a sleigh ride with a pretty girl, when he met a Methodist minister, who was somewhat celebrated for tying matrimonial knots on short notice. He stopped lim and asked hurriedly: "Can you tie a knot for me?" "Yes," said brother B., "I guess so; when do you want it done?" "Well, right away," was the reply; "is it lawful, though, here in the high-way?"

"Oh, yes, this is as good a place as any—safe as in the church itself."

"Well, then, I want a knot tied in my horse's tail, to keep it out of the snow!" shouted the wicked wag, as he drove rapidly away, leaving the minister in his wrath, should fall from grace.

A fool is not always ashamed of his own offspring although he invariably laughs at his own jokes.

Disgusting meanness—to tan a dog's hide with his own bark.

What's the difference between a dog belonging to a sailor and one of the principle planets? One is the tar's dog and the other is the dog star. (The perpetrator of this deserves a good canic.)

An Irishman, on hearing of a friend having a stone coffin made for himself, exclaimed: "By me sowl, and that's a good idee. Sure, an' a stone coffin 'ud last a man a lifetime."

"How came you to 'go to the bad' so horribly?" asked a fop, of a brother snob, whom he found in destitute circumstances.—"The truth is," replied the snob, "I bought so many superfluities that I at last had to sell my necessities."

"How do you like me, now?" asked a bell of her spouse, as she sailed into the room with a sweeping train of muslin following her. "Well," said he, "to tell you the truth, it is impossible for me to like you any longer."

Theodore Hook and his Printers.—In the printing-office of Mr. Bentley, brother of the publisher, there was an old compositor who went by the nickname of 'Twaddle.' In completing a sheet of one of Mr. Hook's novels, the copy was given out in small portions, to each one of which the compositor's name was, as usual, appended. When the proof was sent out to the author, there appeared a line drawn down the margin of a certain page with the word 'Twaddle' at the side. Mr. Hook received his proof, read it, and brought it back to the office—with the remark that, 'though he was not above criticism, he did not think the printer was quite the man to make it.' Mr. Bentley sent for the overseer, who explained the circumstance to the novelist. Mr. Hook heard him patiently, but was by no means satisfied with the explanation offered. "It is very ingenious of you, Mr. Overseer," said he, "to explain away the matter in that fashion. I have read the passage over and over again, and though it is certainly not very brilliant, I don't think it deserves to be called twaddle! The overseer protested, and assured him that the man was so called in the office, and offered to send for him to confirm his assertion. But Theodore Hook would not be convinced. "Well, well," he observed, "I shall say no more about it; but don't let it occur again. Twaddle, indeed."

Household Talk.

ABOUT TEA.—For some time past we have had miserable tea, or rather an apology for tea. Mary had become so careless in the making of it that it was really undrinkable. Sometimes it would be almost as black as ink, and at others of a decided pink shade after the cream was added, and occasionally as weak as water. I considered the case desperate enough to make a decided stand in favour of good tea; so not long ago, just about tea time, I went into the kitchen and said: "Mary, I want you to put away the tea steeper, as I do not wish it used any more, and you will make the tea after a different plan." "Well! and indeed, mam!" "Never mind, Mary," I said, "I know that you desire to please me in everything, and it is my wish to have the tea made in another way. Take the teapot and rinse it out with a little hot water." Mary did so. "Now put in three teaspoonfuls of tea and fill the teapot with boiling water." It was done without any more demur. "Now, Mary, put it on the top of the water boiler; never put it on the stove, as I do not wish it boiled. Always make it in this way, and only just before tea is ready to be served." Mary has followed these directions ever since, and the result has invariably been tea of delightful flavor. The fact is, the Chinese never stew their tea, and the French never boil their coffee, and we can learn something of these nations as to the best method of preparing their great national beverages.

BREAD MAKING.—My bread, or rather dough, was sour this morning, and I found it necessary to work in a teaspoonful of soda before baking it. The soda was first dissolved in a little water. This misfortune of having sour dough to deal with is one which seldom occurs with me. It was at this time owing to an experiment. A neighbor of mine recommended me to try her way, which was to set the sponge in the afternoon, to work it over with the flour before going to bed, and bake the first thing before breakfast in the morning. I know many persons follow this plan, but I think inexperienced housekeepers, and especially late risers, should adopt my method. It is this: Set the sponge just before going to bed, then in the morning, the first thing, work in the flour; when well risen, mould into loaves, set to rise for half an hour, and bake.

THE BEST GRASS FOR BUTTER.—If you aim at a great flow of milk, feed young timothy and white clover; if you aim at the best results both in quantity and quality of butter, feed on fresh pastures of white clover and timothy in summer, and early-cut timothy and wheat bran in winter. The grass must be cut when heading out; or, better, young aftermath well cured. Avoid roots and garden stuff in general, if you wish a good quality of butter—though it is now held that those fed while milking, or immediately before, will remedy the evil.—Valley Farmer.

NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.

Assets, January 1st, 1868, Over Ten Million Dollars!

PRESIDENT: MORRIS FRANKLIN, ESQ., Vice President and Actuary: WILLIAM H. BEERS, JR. HEAD OFFICE 112 & 114 Broadway, N. Y. General Agent for the Dominion of Canada: WALTER BURKE, Esq., Herald Buildings, Montreal.

The New York Life Insurance Company IS ONE OF THE OLDEST INSTITUTIONS

Of the kind in America, having been chartered in the year 1814, and commenced business in May, 1815. During the twenty-three years of its existence, it has issued policies upon the lives of more than Fifty Thousand Persons.

and has paid in losses $5,000,000 to the families and representatives of those who have deceased while members of the Company.

Annual Income EXCEEDS Four Million Dollars.

A SAFE INVESTMENT. The instances are many within the experience of every Life Insurance Company, in which the proceeds of a Policy has saved from poverty the survivors of those who have thus made provision for their wants in times of prosperity and health. A wife may insure the life of her husband for her own benefit, and should she survive him, the amount of the insurance will be payable to her free from any claims against his estate; and in case of the death of the wife before that of the husband, the amount of the insurance may be made payable to her children.

THE COMPANY DECLARES ANNUAL CASH DIVIDENDS, which are available in payment of each Annual Premium. All the interest in this Company receive dividends which can be used in part of the second and each subsequent Annual Premium thereafter; or the dividend may be allowed to accumulate, and subsequently used as a whole or in part in the payment of Premiums. The business of the Company being PURELY MUTUAL, each member pays only the average cost of insurance, all surplus being annually returned to the Policy holders. (Companies having a Stock Capital usually retain a large portion for the Stockholders.) The Dividends paid to Policy holders exceed $3,000,000.

Endowment Assurance Policies. These Policies are coming into general request as a safe and profitable investment for one's declining years, they deserve the attention of all. The sum secured by ordinary life policies becomes available upon the death of the insured; or the Endowment plan the amount is received by the assured himself upon his attaining a specified age, while full provision is made for death occurring prior thereto.

THE NON-FORFEITURE PLAN. This company originated and introduced the valuable feature known as the Non-Forfeiture Plan which is rapidly superseding the old system of life long payments, and has revolutionized the system of Life Insurance in the United States, and which has been adopted (generally in a less favorable form) by all Life Companies. A party, by this table, after the second year, cannot forfeit any part of what has been paid in.

Tables of Rates, Circulars, Examples of Dividends, Forms, &c., can be had by applying to the Agent, at Charlottetown.

INK. INK. INK. CARTER'S Combined Writing & Copying INK!

THIS COMBINATION INK has been awarded the highest premiums over all others in the United States, and pronounced by the most celebrated Chemists the best ink ever offered to the public. It is used by many of the largest commercial houses, Banks, Railroads, and other Corporations, and gives perfect satisfaction.

The Advantages of this over other Inks, are: FIRST.—It flows freely from the pen, and does not thicken by exposure to the air. SECOND.—It will give a perfect and instantaneous copy. THIRD.—It will not mould. FOURTH.—Being equally as good for copy in as for book-keeping, it entirely does away with the use of two kinds of ink. FIFTH.—It is more permanent than common Inks. SIXTH.—The color, when first written, is a beautiful dark green, but in a remarkably short time it changes to a brilliant jet black—not a brownish black. SEVENTH.—It is admirably adapted to the most delicate writing, and always "makes its mark." The Ink is warranted to flow as freely as any other writing fluid now in use; to give as perfect a copy as any copying ink; and not to mould.

This Ink is for sale at HARVIE'S BOOKSTORE. Queen Street, Ch'town, Nov 4, '68.

APPLES! APPLES! 50 BARRELS, consisting of Greenings, Baldwins, Nonpareils, Bishop Pippins and Russets—in prime order. For sale by JAS. L. HOLMAN. Wholesale Warehouse, Holman's Wharf, Summerside, J. n. 14, 1869.

Sewing Machines. A FURTHER SUPPLY of SINGERS new style Manufacturing and Family SEWING MACHINES, just received. They are positively THE BEST Sewing Machines in the world for all purposes. Every tailor, every shoemaker, every family should have one. JOHN HIGGINS Agent. Ch'town, Nov. 19, '68.
