

SALT RHEUM TORTURES

Die away before the magical effect of

Dr. Chase's Ointment

The tortures of Salt Rheum are almost beyond human endurance, and as the flesh becomes raw, and the itching and burning increase, the suffering is so intense as to almost drive one crazy. In desperation salves and ointments are applied, only to give rise to further disappointment and despair. But there is hope. There is assurance that you can be cured just as scores and hundreds of others have been by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. Mr. John Siron, of Aulsville, Ont., writes: "For seven years I was a sufferer from Salt Rheum, and my hands were so bad I had to wear greased gloves. Nothing seemed to help me, but I was induced to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, and one box cured me completely. There is not a trace of the Salt Rheum left." Dr. Chase's Ointment has effected most miraculous cures in all parts of this great Dominion. Could you have better assurance that it will cure you? FOR THE WOMEN

A Woman's Wail.

Why do I wear a veil?
'Tis of no use,
'Tis always fetching loose,
A playing of the winds, that takes delight
In ever being wrong and never right,
Though of my costume 'tis a chief detail,
It makes me fret and fume and fuss
and rail.
This veil!
I cannot get it off when it is on,
And once I doff it then I cannot don.
Why do I wear it? 'Tis a nuisance great,
Beyond all words to state.
And an expense
Immense!
This wretched, flimsy veil!
It is so frail,
To-day I buy a new one, and, behold,
To-morrow it is old!
Forth to the shops and angrily I hie
Another veil to buy.
On every side I see rare bargain sales,
But not of veils.
And so I pay an awful price,
For I must have it nice;
With knots
Or spots,
Or tiny polka dots;
Or simple plain illusion. But of such
I buy six times as much.
And so,
You know,
The cost is just as great,
Oh, how I hate
A veil!
Do you suppose
I like to feel it rubbing 'gainst my nose
Forever catching on my eyelash tips,
Persistently adhering to my lips,
The while the ill-dyed blackness of its lace
Makes grimy smudges on my face.
Or if the veil be white,
Itself it smudges till it is a sight!
Why do I wear it?
Why?
It is a crime daily to enwrap
One's self in such a microbe-trap!
Death and disease lurk hidden in its curves
A pest! A bane! A blot upon our sex,
Just made to vex
A burdened woman's overburdened nerves.
Oh, fashion here my wail!
Or my plea to let me go without a veil
Without avail?
—Carolyn Wells, in Harper's Bazar.

Choosing and Buying Provisions

If it is necessary to know how to cook provisions it is also quite as requisite to know how to choose and buy them. Therefore it is as well to know good raw meat is neither very pale nor very dark. It is a rich red, and (beef especially) had a marbled look given by the small veins of fat running through it. To the touch it is firm and elastic, and should scarcely wet the finger. When taken from a dish upon which it has been standing, little or no moisture should remain behind. Veal keeps but badly at the best of times, and should not be hung long, if it cannot be cooked at once. Lamb also does not keep well, particularly in its proper season of hot weather. When it can be seen that the meat will not keep long, it is better to par-boil or half roast it at once; after which treatment it must when it is finally cooked, be plunged, for boiling, into boiling water, or for roasting put before a very hot fire to start. Poultry being always eaten fresh

Rhubarb Jelly.

About one quart of liquid from the compote, 1/2 ounce of white gelatine, wineglass of white wine.
Cut off the leaves and ends from the stalks, and wipe with a clean, damp cloth. Use an earthen dish for cooking. Without removing the skins, cut the pie-plant into pieces 2 1/2 inches long, and put over them the sugar, a piece of lemon peel, and the water. Cover and set in the oven on a shelf. Moisten the required gelatine in a quarter of a cup of cold water. When the rhubarb is tender, place the gelatine in a large bowl on which an earthenware colander is placed. Pour the rhubarb on this, but remove it very soon to a dish, in order to retain sufficient juice with it. Stir the hot liquid underneath, and when the gelatine is dissolved pour into teacups or molds dipped in cold water. A glass of white wine improves the jelly. The rhubarb skins impart a beautiful rose color.

Broken china may be mended by making a light paste of the white of an egg and flour, cleaning the broken edges from dust, spreading them with the paste and holding the parts together while wet, wiping of all that oozes out. It must be held or fastened in position until dry.

A PRESSMAN'S STORY

Mr. Parnham Tells How Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured His Lumbago.

TORONTO, June 19.—The story of the escape of the Globe pressman, Mr. John H. Parnham, from the agonies of Lumbago, by using Dodd's Kidney Pills is unusually interesting. Mr. Parnham writes to the Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, thus: "I am proud to testify the wonderful efficacy of Dodd's Kidney Pills. About eight months ago I was attacked by severe pains in my back. I consulted an eminent physician, who said I had Lumbago, and told me to take Turkish baths. This did me no good. "A friend advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I did so, and one box cured me." My back has never troubled me since.
