

Religion and Life

By Very Rev. George C. Pidgeon, D.D., L.L.D. First Moderator of the United Church of Canada (Copyright)

One of the strange features of today is our attitude towards old age. Medical science and social progress are prolonging human life. And at the same time, men are being retired from active service at an earlier age than ever.

used to their fathers, and he had held to it against a nation in reverse. Now, with youth gone, he is ready to put to the proof the faith of his youth against the strongest in the land.

At one far past the age of retirement and who had his richest opportunities after sixty-five I want to plead for a chance for men who have just reached that age and who are capable of better work than ever they did in the past.

But now a new generation had arisen, and under Joshua, had established themselves in the land. Joshua offered his old comrade any place in the land that he might choose as the reward of his faithfulness and as a recognition of Moses' promise.

It is folly to ignore an asset of such worth. Consider what statesmen like Palmerston and Gladstone did in their later years and what Winston Churchill is doing—and learn.

There is a story in the Bible of a man of eighty-five, which has a lesson for us here. Caleb the Kenizzite is the old man who was offered a reward and asked for an opportunity.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

WINIFRED E. WILSON

NORTHERN WATER-THRUSH Are you spending your holidays near a forest through which a brook runs? Then your chances of coming upon a Northern Water-Thrush are fair.

Trush in name only, it passes for a small member of that family because of looks and habits, although in reality it is a wood-lark Warbler and close relative of the Ovenbird.
