Too Good To Be True

By Thornton W. Burgess

When fear prevails and hope has fled, The very air is filled with dread.

Old Mother Nature knows. She sees it happen every day among the Green Meadow and the Green Forest folk.

Danny and Nanny had been up by Farmer Brown's house where they had no business to be. Farmer Brown's boy had caught them in a trap that didn't hurt them but kept them prisoners.

Farmer Brown's boy squatted down on the grass beside the trap. He began to do some searching.

Farmer Brown's boy got to his feet and stepped back. Then Danny suddenly realized the way was clear for him to run out.

All dread was gone now. Their terrible fright was a thing of the past. They wouldn't think of it any more.

Of course their short legs could not make them a very great distance. It was hard running in the grass.

THE FATAL LEAD

West's opening lead in the following deal certainly could not be strongly criticized, but it had fatal repercussions.

Hand diagram showing cards in North and South hands. North: ♠ 10 9, ♥ 8 6 4, ♦ 10 9, ♣ 2. South: ♠ A K J, ♥ 10 8 5 2, ♦ J 6 3, ♣ J 9 8.

The bidding: East Pass, South 3♠, West 3♠, North Pass.

West, with six trumps in almost perfect sequence, felt that the thing to do was to keep South from making any low trumps on ruffs—so he opened the jack of trumps.
