HAPPENINGS

Mr. and Mrs. W.W. Mutch, Charlottetown are receiving congratulations on their Wedding Anniversary, which they observed on Thursday, Dec. 27. They were entertained at a delightful family dinner party that evening at the Queen Hotel.

Seven tables were in play Thursday night as the Charlotte Duplicate Bridge Club held its weekly session at the Charlottetown Hotel. Next session will be held Monday night, Jan. 7.

Mrs. Murray Bell and Mrs. J. N. Larabee led the north-south division, with Mrs. Carl Green and Mrs. Alton Farmer in second place. On the east-west side, Mrs. Benjamin Rogers and Mrs. H.L. Palmer placed first, with Mrs. Wailer Perry and Mrs. Vera Andrew in the runner-up position.

Miss Mildred Campbell, Toronto, Ont. has been spending the holiday season in Charlottetown, with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George MacDougall, Walkers Drive.

The hill's crest to look back to this place and a "W" after all would presume to censure Mrs. Lot for being human and human. Mrs. Lot is a woman who is likely full of tears, to be a hilltop that day? The reaches of the hill, N.S. spent the Yuletide holidays in Summerside, where she and her family hope above the buildings to upland fields, and our woodlands, and the hills of Summerside and the trails of the farming. Smokes rose from the chimneys, ours, from the hills and in the mist, a title lost and forlorn at the moment.

Scarcely was a dark figure at the gateway. Cattle from the pole-barn, were their own will, following in an engaging and orderly procession, the path-of-winter which leads them down to the spruce-lined, mill-race.

"Tell me more" Alex begged later. "On the way out of the Store, the only ones moving on this road were the Mallman with his long length gown of champagne brown-spotted white dog, and a quick furry animal, who was a stripping, a spruce cone on a stump at the edge of a bush."

"A squirrel!" Alex smiled, and Mack listening, leaped "what did he have to say?" "The stood up, touched his cap and said 'Now get this! The prettiest morning, all so sparkling and clean! And warm. And the buttons of my jacket, and inhaled a refreshing breath. "And how is the Party?" he inquired.

"Alex is a little miserable with a cold" we said. "So!" the squirrel nodded "It's easy to get the like of that-easier to catch than to get rid of! I have a notion one is more likely to get one this winter because folks didn't save up many a ushine vitamin last summer? But how could they, when the sun was, we may say, a stranger?" "Then" Mack picked up the line with a chuckle "he laughed, and he speculated if off into the bush! Am I right?"

By this, we have parted from the Old Year, welcomed '63 New and with high hopes looked ahead to Time that will be our "fond hope." It is this: "May every soul that touches mine, if the slightest contact, get there - from some good; Some little grace; one kind; One aspiration yet unmet; one bit of courage for darkness; One gleam of faith, to drive the crowding ills of life." Until May - is - Diary - Good-night."

MRS. DONALD A. MACLEOD Candlelight Ceremony Unites Young Couple In Watertown

White chrysanthemums, poms, gladioli, and cydodium plants decorated the First Baptist Church in Watertown, Mass., on November 18, 1962 for a candlelight double-ring wedding ceremony of Miss Marlene Betty Mackay to Mr. Donald Alexander MacLeod, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murdoch Arthur MacLeod of Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, Canada. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Alexander MacLeod, was escorted to the altar by her father.

She wore a Blenci white silk satin gown with a portrait neck-line fitted bodice and long wedding point veils. The ruffled, bell-shaped skirt, trimmed with a panel effect of seed pearls and crystals was fashioned to a cathedral length train.

The bride's headpiece, a silk and tulle affair, carried a spray of pearls and crystals in the same motif as the bodice and skirt of the gown. Her hair was styled in English stilk illusion finger-tips, which carried a spray of rainbow Bible decorated with emerald orchids and streamers of white stephanotis and lily.

The ceremony was performed by the Reverend John H. Wild, pastor of the church. The Reverend Vincent de Gregoris, soloist, rendered the selections, "The Wedding Prayer" and "The Greatest of These is Love." "The Lord's Prayer" and "Benediction." Mr. Herbert Hobbs of Maiden was the organist.

Miss Mary Gilmour of New Brunswick served as maid of honour. She wore a full length bell-shaped gown of amethyst satin and velvet and carried a cascade of white feathered carnations, grapes, wheat and gold leaves.

The bridesmaids, similarly gowned in the six remaining colors of the rainbow and carrying similar cascades of flowers were: Miss Judy Dodge of Watertown, scarlet red; Miss Sue Ann Poulange of Newham, mango orange; Miss Joan McLaughlin of Watertown.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Snow Jewels Glisten In Brilliant Winter Sunshine

We wished Alex, now nursing a cold, had been with us when we walked the mile to the Corner Store this morning, so that he too, discerning little lad that he is might have enjoyed the varied delights of the way. We would tell him of these later, but much of the enchantment would be missing from the tale when told.

How could one describe, in mere words, the loveliness of the countryside as seen in a wide vista from the hills. The light veil of blue, that in the brilliant winter sunshine, was a spread like a summer's sea above the fields and woodlands. And the snow-jewels glistening, so that in the far distance one must shade eyes against them so dazzling they were. And the farmhouse beyond the rise of our valley cuddled down snugly in their trees and groves, content the winter was here.

At Road's end, there was the village; that dwelling which was and indeed still is regarded as "The Doctor's", set back of its lawn, serene and sheltered beyond the rise of the shrubs and trees; the friendly white manse, its neighbour, the Churches, the Corner Store, and the other homes - all set so prettily against the sunny white of the day.

MR. AND MRS. CECIL C. HACKETT

Former Island Girl Is Wed At Ceremony Held In Toronto

Holy Name Church, Toronto was the scene of a very pretty wedding recently, when Rev. J. P. Annett united in the holy bonds of matrimony Mary Joyce Hackett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Gallant, Annet, Tignish, and Cecil Carver Hackett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hackett Sr., North Cape.

The bride given in marriage by her brother Oswald was radiant in her floor length gown of white her shoulder length veil held by a tiara, she carried a bouquet of red roses and Baby's Breath.

Members of the St. John's Milton AYPA presented a Program of Christmas music to the patients at the Rehabilitation Center on Friday, December 28. This was followed by the regular meeting of the group held at the home of Everett Johnson.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and three membership fees were received.

An interesting discussion on the topic of racial segregation was led by Myra Coles. Refreshments were served and the benediction brought the meeting to a close.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hill, Fredericton, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Buchanan, Cumberland Street, during the holiday season.

PUBLISH EVIDENCE
HONG KONG (AP) — Hong Kong's newspapers published pictures Friday purporting to show captured National Chinese guerrilla leaders and their U.S.-made weapons, ammunition and equipment. The pictures were distributed by Peking's official New China News Agency in support of a recent claim that a new group of armed "U.S.-China Kial-shiek agents" had been smashed—172 of them killed—in south China in the last two months.
