"THE YELLOW CAB MAN" AT CAPITOL

—Red Skelton has unlimited scope for his madcap antics in M-G-M's "The Yellow Cab Man", new attraction at the Capitol Theatre, in which he is seen as a zany inventor of safety devices who becomes a Yellow Cab driver and the insurance company's Bad Risk Number One. The picture follows his comedy hits in "The Fuller Brush Man" and "A Southern Yankee."

Teamed with Skelton is Gloria De Haven, recently seen in dramatic roles in "The Doctor and the Girl" and "Scene of the Crime," and now playing an out-and-out comedy part as the pretty claims adjuster who pulls Red out of one hair-raising escapade after another.

A top-notch supporting cast features Walter Slezak, Edward Arnold and James Gleason. Slezak is cast as a quack psychiatrist, who hypnotizes Skelton in an attempt to get the formula for his unbreakable elastiglass windshield invention. Arnold is the "heavy" and scrupulous ambulance chaser, while Gleason enacts the Yellow Cab Company's best driver who befriends Skelton.

Sport Echoes From Prince County

We made a prophecy that with Alan Stewart pitching the Holman Intermediates would win the fifth game in the current Island series. We were right but the prophecy was delayed and appeared after the game had been played. We realize we can't impress people with our powers as a soothsayer that way, but we were glad to see our prediction come true at any rate.

Stewart went the route for Holman's and allowed only four hits. He complained after the game that his slants weren't breaking right for him. He should know, but in any case they weren't breaking right for the Charlottetown batters, except McKinnon who managed to get two bingles in four appearances. Old Jupe Pluvius interrupted proceedings for about a half-hour at the end of the sixth inning. The game resumed but Jupe didn't behave himself too well in the last two frames.

Don Carson, veteran of many exciting contests of baseball and basketball, made a sensational grab of the ball just as it was ready to hit the turf and keep on its merry way to the woods. It was the daddy of all shoe-string catches and the second such that "Moose" had made this year. If the ball had gone through the big fellow, two runs would undoubtedly have scored and the ball game would have been tied, as the score was 4 to 2 when the spectacular play took place.

Syl Bernard, half-pint second sacker, made two errors and had one mental lapse at the keystone sack, but more than made up for these transgressions by his hitting and base-running. Syl hit two safe bingles, and ran around the bases like a cat with a firecracker tied to its tail.

The game was unusual in that virtually no complaints were hurled at the umpires about their decisions. A few batters gave the plate umpire the silent disapproval treatment, but that's every-day routine.

Buck Whitlock, Charlottetown's "Mr. Baseball", had a poor day. He failed to get a hit and stumbled around a bit at short field. As Whitlock goes, so go the Abbies, and this may help to account for their defeat.

Summerside did surprisingly well at the inter-scholastic track and field meet in Charlottetown Saturday, being nosed out by Prince Street by the narrowest of margins. This is encouraging and should stimulate interest in the sport in Summerside. Much credit is due Art MacKinnon of the High School staff who worked hard with the team.

SMALL SUM INVOLVED

MONTREAL, Sept. 25 (CP)—A case involving one of the smallest sums of money in the history of the Court of King's Bench here opened today. Marcel Clermont went before the 12-man jury on a charge of stealing $7.50 worth of goods from an American tourist's car. Court officials estimated it will cost about $500 for the trial.

The Value of Cancer Education

By DORA SABEAN

Sitting in a doctor's waiting-room the other night, I watched a young woman intently perusing a magazine article. Anxiety furrowed her brow and she nervously moistened her lips as she took from her smart handbag a little booklet. As she seemed to be comparing notes, I knew there must be some connection between the two. So, being only human, I leaned closer and glanced over her shoulder. I had time only to recognize one shocking word before the door opened and she was ushered into the doctor's office, but that one word was enough to make me sit on the edge of my chair until she emerged presently and walked past the waiting-room on her way out.

What a transformation! Why, the young woman was positively radiant. Feeling as though I had been holding my breath for a long long time, I accepted the doctor's invitation to enter the inner sanctum.

"Doctor," I said, "this is none of my business and I don't know that woman from Adam, but what in the world did you do to her? She came in here looking like somebody at death's door and went out wearing a smile that would put a neon sign to shame. I do believe you're a witch doctor."

Chuckling, the doctor replied, "I'd like to take the credit but in all honesty I must admit that I didn't do a thing but set her mind at rest about a symptom which had been giving her considerable worry but, which, on examination, I found to be caused by something quite harmless and easily remedied. She really owes a debt of gratitude to the pamphlet which I handed her into coming to me."

Then he went on to say that she had acquired one of those little booklets put out by the Canadian Cancer Society and had become convinced that she was the victim of a malignant condition.

"What a shame!" I exclaimed indignantly "There ought to be a law against distributing that kind of literature and scaring people half to death."

"On the contrary," insisted the doctor, "there ought to be a law forcing all people to read such literature and go immediately to their physician if they have, or even think they have, any of the symptoms listed."

"If I didn't always have to wait hours before getting in to see you," I laughed, thinking of the room outside which seemed always to be filled to capacity with people who had, or thought they had, a variety of ailments. "I'd say you were just trying to drum up trade. But, honestly, do you think those suggestive articles and pamphlets do more good than harm?"

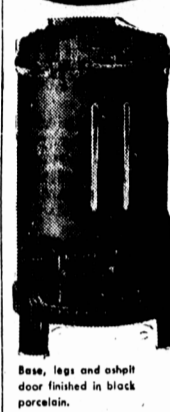

"I most emphatically do," he retorted. "Supposing ten people heed the warning to report to their doctor at once when any suspicious symptoms are present. We'll say that six of these patients are, like the woman who just went out, needlessly worried. A routine check-up does nobody any harm and, as in her case, it may do a world of good by relieving anxiety. Three of the ten may also have some minor condition which will respond readily to treatment but which might have developed into something quite serious had it not been attended to at once. The tent's patient may actually have a malignant growth. In his case that little pamphlet was a lifesaver because it brought him to the doctor in time. Now do you see what I mean?"
