

MR. DISRAELI AND JUDAISM.—The Jewish Chronicle, a very high authority among the people whose views it advocates, has the following remarks in reference to the new Premier and Judaism:—“There seems indeed, to be a singular mistake as to the relation of Disraeli to Judaism. Some Jews censure him as an apostate, and urge his apostasy as an instance of forgiveness. Some Christians scoff at him as a Jew, with a singular disregard of all they owe to the Hebrew race. Now, the fact is that, in plain English, Disraeli is neither an apostate nor a Jew. He was born of Hebrew parents. His father, Isaac Disraeli, the author, and his mother, a scion of the Bassevis, were members of the Sephardim Jewish families. His grandfather and grandmother, indeed, rest in the Portuguese cemetery at Mill-end. Benjamin Disraeli was admitted into the communion of Israel, but his father, thinking fit to quarrel with his synagogue, failed to teach his children Judaism. One day Rogers, the celebrated banker poet, happened to visit at Isaac Disraeli's house at Hackney, when Benjamin was about five or six years old, and regretting to find so intelligent a youth without religious instruction, took him to Hackney Church. From this event dates his absolute and complete severance from the Jewish communion. He became a Christian, and a great genius was lost to us.

FATHER HECKER OF THE "CATHOLIC WORLD."—Referring to the tour of lecturing and preaching recently undertaken by Father Hecker, in some of our Western cities, the N. Y. Independent says: "Except by an occasional phrase, it is said that his preaching differs not at all from the discourse of any devout, sagacious and eloquent Protestant revivalist. At Chicago, he preached in the cathedral, and afterward gave in the Opera House, to an overflowing audience, his lecture on 'The Church for the people,' a lecture in which he argues for the paradox that the religious teachings of the Roman Catholic Church are not only compatible with republican institutions, but absolutely necessary to their perpetuity. Father Hecker is a consummate orator and dialectician. He has a grace of manner which reminds one of Wendell Phillips. Most Protestant preachers could profit by a few lessons from him in the art of putting things to the head, the heart and the conscience of an audience. Need we add that he speaks extemporaneously."

An Australian paper states that one effect of the outrage on the Duke of Edinburgh is the rapid increase of Orange lodges in the Australian Colonies.

Holloway's Pills.—The Greatest Wonder of Modern Times. They correct bile, prevent flatulency, cleanse the liver, and purify the system, renovate the debilitated, strengthen the stomach, increase the appetite, invigorate the nerves, promote health, and re-instate the weak to an ardor of feeling never before expected. The sale of these Pills throughout the globe astonishes everybody, convincing the most skeptical that there is no Medicine equal to Holloway's Pills for removing the complaints which are incidental to the human race. They are indeed a blessing to the afflicted, and a boon to those who suffer from any disorder, internal or external. Thousands of persons have testified that by their use alone they have been restored to health after other remedies proved unsuccessful.
