A MOTHER'S GRATITUDE

Sh Speaks for the Sake of Suffering Humanity.

A Strange Illness Attacked Her Little Boy Which Completely Baffled Medical Skill—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Saved Him When All Else Had Failed.

From the Amherst, N. S., Sentinel. There are cases which baffle the skill of the best physicians; times when their science is completely at fault, and they are unable to successfully diagnose the trouble or give relief. The story told below is a striking illustration of this fact. Mr. and Mrs. Ogle Morrison live in the town of Maccan, N. S. Among their family is a bright little boy, Douglas, now eight years of age. Two years ago he was attacked by a malady that completely baffled the skill of local physicians, and for which they were unable to offer even temporary relief. Mrs. Morrison tells of her little son's illness as follows: "The first symptom of my little boy's trouble was severe cramps in his stomach, for which the remedies ordinarily used in such cases were tried without the least success. Then large purple spots broke out on his legs, extending in patches from the hips to the ankles, and presenting the appearance of bruises. He suffered intensely, became very pale and thin, had little or no appetite, and presented the appearance of one rapidly wasting away. He received the best of care and all that medicine and good nursing could do for him, yet he steadily grew worse. His case completely baffled the doctor. His right arm began to swell and from the shoulder to the wrist it was of one size. With the swelling came a stiffness which made him unable to bend his arm at the elbow or move it about. Then a purple swelling similar to that on the legs, broke out on the forehead, extending from the right to the left eyebrow. It had a glossy appearance, in fact looked as though it had been varnished. We were greatly alarmed, for my little boy's condition was pitiable and every effort we were making to relieve him only ended in a failure. One of my neighbors advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as his case was so desperate that I was willing to try anything that might better it, I decided to do so. Before two weeks had passed there was a decided change in his condition. The spots that had covered his legs and forehead began to assume a greenish tinge and to disappear. How gladly we continued the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, feeling that we had at last discovered a medicine that would cure our child. Nor were we mistaken. His stomach trouble left him, the swelling from the arm disappeared; his appetite returned, and he began to grow strong and healthy looking, and instead of having to be in bed all day he began to run around once more and play like other children. We still continued giving him the pills, and the end was that he was as healthy and strong as if he had never had a day's sickness in his life. He now goes to school every day, walking a distance of over a mile, and he enjoys the very best of health. I am confident that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my child's life, and I feel that I would be doing an injustice to suffering humanity if I did not tell of their wonderful merit. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly upon the blood and nerves, building them anew and thus driving disease from the system. There is no trouble due to either of these causes which Pink Pills will not cure, and in hundreds of cases they have restored patients to health after all other remedies had failed. Ask for Dr. Williams' Pills and take nothing else. The genuine are always enclosed in boxes, the wrapper around which bears the full trade mark "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." May be had from all dealers or sent post paid on receipt of 50 cents a box or 6 boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SAW LINCOLN KILLED

WILLIAM WITHERS, LEADER OF FORD'S ORCHESTRA, TELLS HIS EXPERIENCE.

Had Written a Song For That Particular Performance—Was on the Stage and Booth Struck Him With a Dagger—He Was First to Identify the Assassin.

At the Professional Woman's league, while the members worked diligently over the novelties being made for the coming bazaar, the question came up, "Is there anybody living who saw Lincoln assassinated?"

Immediately everybody had something to say about somebody else who had a friend who was at the theater that night. The most interesting story was told of William Withers, Jr., now orchestra leader for Mr. Daly, but at the time of the assassination leader of the orchestra of Ford's theater.

Mr. Withers enjoys the distinction of having not only been at the theater the night Lincoln was assassinated, but of having been pierced by the dagger of the assassin just a few moments after Booth had fired the shot that made Lincoln a martyr. Every time he goes to Washington he is requested to tell this story, and although many and varied are the recitals of this thrilling event, Mr. Withers' is somewhat different from the others. Here is the story as he tells it in the Washington Post:

"I was leader of the orchestra at the time, and as the president was to witness the performance of 'Our American Cousin' I thought that, as befitted the occasion, I would compose a song. So I did. It was entitled 'Honor to Our Soldiers' and dedicated to the president. This was to be sung between two of the acts by a quartet I had engaged and the entire company, who were to be attired in the American colors. "As I was on my way to the theater I met John Wilkes Booth just in front of George Harry's saloon, which adjoined the theater. It was a sultry night, and Booth had his overcoat over his arm. 'Good evening, Billy,' he said. 'Come and have something?'

"As I was leaving to enter the theater Booth remarked, 'I'll witness the performance tonight.' I noticed nothing strange about his demeanor and subsequently saw him as I was coming out for the overture. "Soon the president, his wife, Major Rathbone and Robert and Tad entered their box. I signaled for 'Hail to the Chief,' and the audience cheered, and the president turned smilingly and bowed. Then he seated himself, and with his accustomed modesty drew the curtains half across the box.

"After the first act J. P. Wright, the stage manager, sent me word he would be unable to have the special song sung at that time, but he would try to have it rendered between the second and third acts. A similar message was sent to me at the close of the second act, and I became somewhat exercised. I started to go upon the stage when I saw Booth on the balcony walking down the aisle in the direction of the president's box. He was seemingly attentive toward the acting, for the curtain had again gone up. I encountered a scene shifter, Spangler, whose office I afterward learned was to turn out the lights in the theater as soon as the shot was fired. He obstructed my passage.

"What do you want here?" he demanded. In reply I told him it was none of his business. Mr. Wright appearing, Spangler left his position on the stage alongside the box in which was the apparatus for illuminating the theater. I closed the lid of the box and sat upon it to talk to the manager, unconscious that I was spoiling the plan. "Mr. Wright told me the song would be sung at the close of the performance, and Miss Keene had sent word to the president requesting him to stay to hear it.

"I was just about to return to the orchestra when the crack of a revolver startled me. All was quiet instantly. I saw a man jump from the president's box on to the stage. It was Booth. He ran directly toward the door leading into the alley. This course brought him right in my path. He had a dagger in his hand, and he waved it threateningly. He evidently did not recognize me, for he appeared like a maniac. His eyes seemed starting from their sockets, and his hair was disheveled.

"With head down, he ran toward me and cried, 'Let me pass!' He slashed at me, and the knife cut through my coat, vest and underclothing. He struck again, the point of the weapon penetrating the back of my neck, and the blow brought me to the floor. I watched him make his exit into the alley and caught sight of the horse, held by 'Peanut John.'

"The commotion in the audience was something terrible. Several actors, including Harry Hawke, rushed out, and a man who proved to be a detective lifted me up and said, 'I arrest you.' "What's this all about?" I asked. 'I'm stabbed.' I was quickly told what was the matter. The thought flashed across my mind that Booth was the assassin.

"I was taken to the police station, and my deposition was received in the presence of Mayor Wallace. That was, I believe, the first intimation that they had of the identity of the murderer. I was at the trial of the conspirators and the second to give testimony. My wound healed in a short time."

MUNYON OFF FOR EUROPE.

Proposes to Establish Medical Institutions in London, Paris and Berlin.

The steamer New York, of the American Line, Wednesday carried among its passengers Professor J. M. Munyon and a staff of his physicians. When questioned as to his intentions, Professor Munyon said: "Yes, it is true I have determined to introduce my remedies into all foreign countries. The fact is I have had so many orders for my cures from abroad, not only from tourists but from people who have heard of these remedies through their friends on this side of the water, that I am led to believe that I will meet the same generous patronage there for my cures as that has been experienced here. Human nature is about the same the world over. When a person is sick he wants to get well in the quickest and most economical way. This is the age of progress. The old style of doctoring is being abandoned. People have discovered that they don't require big doses of calomel and other dangerous drugs to effect a cure.

"I am glad to see," said Professor Munyon, "that physicians of different schools are becoming more liberal and less bigoted in their ideas, and I believe that in a few years my system of doctoring will be generally adopted by all schools of medicine. The enormous sales of my remedies yearly, amounting to nearly ten million vials, show their popularity and curative qualities. The system of preparing a separate cure for each disease appeals to the common sense of all intelligent communities, and enables people to doctor themselves successfully and cure themselves at the least possible expense. "I shall give London the largest and best-equipped medical institution in the world. I shall take there a duplicate of all my improved medical appliances as well as a complete stock of my remedies, and shall offer them to the public on the same generous terms that are afforded the people at home.

"It is my intention to make this establishment in London a resting place for all American tourists, where newspapers will be on file from every state and where a full line of American publications can always be found. I also intend to have a registry and news bureau for the convenience of Americans. Of course this service and convenience will be absolutely free, and I want all Americans to feel perfectly at home, making use of this institution whenever they have an ache or a pain or desire any information." Professor Munyon carried with him the best wishes of his countrymen. We feel certain that he will receive a warm welcome abroad and that his humane labors will be crowned with man's universal gratitude.
