

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JULY 27, 1892.

Gladstone's First Card.

THE difficulty of Mr. Gladstone's present position is at once made evident by the fact that he has asked of the Nationalist members a written guarantee that on the opening of the new Parliament they will vote for his motion of non-confidence in the Salisbury administration.

Prohibition by Provinces.

A VERY nice question has arisen as a result of the Manitoba Plebiscite in respect to Prohibition. Can the Provinces prohibit the importation, manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors within their own boundaries?

The Opposition Leadership.

SOME of the papers are advocating the claims of Mr. L. H. Davies to the Leadership of the Opposition Party. Mr. Davies is, without doubt, a very good man in Opposition—and we hope to see him kept there. Nor is there any good reason why he should not be promoted to the Leadership of the Opposition.

—The steady drain of gold from the United States to Europe is causing more or less uneasiness among our neighbors as to the monetary future. In less than two and one-third months the total gold has decreased nearly $30,000,000.

A RARE PICTURE.—In the window of Mr. Henry A. Harvie, stationer, Great George Street, is to be seen a large-sized steel engraving of the Christening of the H. R. H. the Prince of Wales in St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle, in 1841.

A writer in the Figaro throws an interesting light upon Mr. Vanderbilt's method of buying pictures. The millionaire, it seems, went once to Messier and asked him which of his works was, in his own opinion, his chef-d'œuvre.

Relief for St. John's.

The following despatch was received today: ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., July 26. GEORGE PEAKE, Sec'y of Relief Committee.—Your message received by Relief Committee. On behalf of citizens heartily tender you fervent thanks for magnificent donation, per Bonavista.

The Committee having forwarded about 800 barrels (bulk of clothing and goods per str. Bonavista, desire to inform the public that the relief rooms will remain open during next week, including Saturday, the 30th inst., and that Mr. Moore will be prepared to receive contributions there up to 6 o'clock each day. No contributions will be received after Saturday. A complete list of contributions will be published after Saturday next.

GEO. PEAKE, Secretary.

T. C. JAMES, Treasurer.

Ch'town, July 23rd, 1892.

Personal.

The American Consul for this port, J. C. Hall, Esq., paid a visit to the Pyliades this forenoon, and was received with the usual salute.

Mr. Daniel McLean will preach (D. V.) at Canoe Cove on Sabbath, 31st inst., at 10.30 a. m.; DeSable at 2.30 p. m.; and West River at 7 p. m.

Mrs. Jeremiah Rushton, of Rushton's Corner, was instantly killed by lightning a day or two ago during a thunder storm. She was talking to a neighbor over the telephone when the flash came.

The daughter of ex premier Sagasta, of Spain, was married a few days ago at Madrid. The name of the lucky groom is not given, but the fact is noted that the charming bride received $200,000 worth of presents.

Mr. James C. McEachern, Counselor-at-law, New York City, is on a brief visit to his relatives and friends in Charlottetown. His many friends are pleased to see him looking so hale and hearty.

J. J. Beaudry, J. P., counselor-at-law, Yankers, N. Y., and D. J. Mahoney, hatter, of the same place, who have been spending a short vacation on the Island, left for home in the Carroll on Monday evening.

Cardinal Gibbons holds a reception this afternoon. A dinner in his honor will be given at the palace on Thursday evening. He will go to Vernon River on Friday and be the guest of Dr. Doyle for about a fortnight. Then he will return to the city, and will perhaps visit some of the other parishes of the Province.

The following story is applied to Mr. Balfour: "Do the Irish really hate me as much as their newspapers say?" Mr. Balfour took the opportunity of asking a genial and popular Irish priest whom he met at a Dublin dinner table. "My dear sir," was Father Balfour's humorous reply, "if they only hated the devil half as much as they hate you, my occupation would be gone."

The Colonies and India, of London, in speaking of Sir Charles Tupper, says: "Few men living have done such solid work for the British Empire as Sir Charles Tupper, and the hope that he may be spared for many years to come to pursue his career of public usefulness will be heartily echoed, not alone throughout England and Canada, but over the whole of the British world." This compliment, upon his attaining the age of 70, is fully deserved.

The Scottish Gathering.

The Caledonian Club meeting held at their rooms last evening was well attended. J. B. Macdonald, Esq., Vice-President, in the chair. Reports of committees in charge of arrangements for the Scottish gathering were received, showing that the usual preparations for the annual demonstration were being pushed forward successfully.

The Chairman of the Pioneer Committee, Esq. President MacNeill, briefly explained the steps taken by the Committee, in order to carry into effect the commemorative feature of this year's gathering. The encouraging letters which the Committee had received from influential representatives of the Club and others who co-operated with them in different sections of the Province, showed that a strong sentiment prevailed in favor of the celebration in honor of the brave Scottish pioneers of a century ago.

The Committee, he said, were ably assisted by the efficient Secretary, James Macdonald, Esq., of the Customs Department, the Honorable A. B. MacKenzie, M. L. C., Captain John Gillis and others by services rendered, especially in the Gaelic department of their work. The representative log house would soon appear on the Gathering grounds under the supervision of Duncan Mann, Esq., of Little Sands. Mr. Mann, an enthusiastic Scotchman, kindly consented to provide the material and forward the same by packet from the Wood Islands. The collection of relics already received would be found to be very interesting indeed. And as soon as a number of articles promised but not yet in the hands of the committee shall have arrived, a list will be published, together with the names of all who have so kindly contributed.

Guarding Queen Victoria.

A London despatch reports a curious result of the Gladstonian victory in the elections, viz: the increase of precautions for the safety of Queen Victoria. As a general rule, no sovereign goes about with less royal protection than Queen Victoria. Since the elections she has been surrounded with a force of detectives that could hardly be matched outside of Russia. It is known that Queen Victoria is a thorough Tory in principle. She resembles George III. in her domestic virtues and in her dislike of anything that tends to diminish the royal authority. The Queen is as bitterly opposed to Irish home rule as George III. was to the independence of the United States. She is confident that home rule will never be granted, and this is another reason why she is beginning to be apprehensive as to her own security, for she dreads that Irish despair and resentment, on finding that home rule is beyond reach, may find expression in violence against the wearer of the crown.

For these reasons Queen Victoria, before going to Osborne, readily acceded to the desires of her advisers for special precautions against any unlawful design upon her person. An army of detectives in plain clothes searched the estate in the neighborhood of the royal residence, and during the Queen's stay at Osborne the same detectives form a cordon difficult if not impossible to pass. Any person approaching Osborne House is challenged at every step by an inquisitive guard, and no one can pass whose answers are not satisfactory. When the Queen goes out driving one detachment of guards precedes and another follows the carriage. At the landing stages a strict watch is kept, and every person who is at all suspicious in appearance in the opinion of the watchman is dogged until he leaves the Isle of Wight. Many privileges heretofore extended freely on the royal grounds to residents of the island have been withdrawn, and altogether the transformation is as extraordinary as it seems to be significant of new relations between the Queen and the people.

Weather Bulletin.

TORONTO, July 27.—10 a. m. Westerly to southerly winds, generally fine and very warm. A few local thunder storms.

Of Henry Labouchere many curious incidents are narrated, mainly in connection with his present boom for a Cabinet position. A couple will suffice to illustrate his youthful predilections: "Some thirty years ago or more a young attaché in Her Majesty's diplomatic service failed to put in an appearance at Constantinople at the appointed time, and at the appointed period formal equity was made as to the reason for the delay. In due course a letter arrived at the Foreign Office stating that as adequate provision had not been made for his travelling expenses, and as his private means were limited, the attaché was walking, and would in due time reach the shores of the Bosphorus. On another occasion, when the same young gentleman was stationed at Washington, an aggressively irate countryman called and demanded to see the British Minister. "Not here! Then I shall wait till he comes. "Very well," replied the attaché, "pray take a chair." The visitor waited and waited. "Was the Minister likely to be in in another hour?" "I think not," replied the imperturbable attaché, blandly. "The fact is, he sailed for Europe on Wednesday, and can hardly yet have reached Quebec. But, you know, you said you would wait till he came in, so I offered you a chair." "The child is father to the man, and the politician of to day has the same cynical demeanor, the same liking for a satirical joke, as had the attaché of long ago.
