BAZAAR COMPANY, A. FULTON, MANAGER.

Books, Stationery, Wall Paper, Fancy Goods and Smallwares, WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

WE make the following correction to the advertisement of the "Diamond Book-store," in which he says that the "Bazaar is closed." This was no reference to the ORIGINAL BAZAAR STORE, but only refers to a little room in connection with his establishment, where Toys are kept during the Xmas season.

THE BAZAAR STORE IS NOT CLOSED, but it is a source of wonder to a great many how we can run a business and sell so much below our competitors. The reason is not far to see. We buy in so much larger quantities (having Stores in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and P. E. Island), buy direct from the manufacturers and for cash, and are therefore in a better position to give bargains than any other house in our line in the Province. Our system of advertising in the future is going to be in the way of giving larger discounts, or rather quoting lower prices than ever before.

When you want anything in the line of BOOKS, STATIONERY or FANCY GOODS, WALL PAPER, WINDOW BLINDS or CURTAIN POLES, PICTURES, MOULDING or MIRRORS, or anything of the thousand and one things that happen to be in our line, just give us a call and you will save from 10 to 20 per cent.

IMPERIAL BAKING POWDER

MADE A MILLION OF DOLLARS in a few years out of selling prime Canadian-fed beef as the "best English." Doubtless the customers who purchased from him got good value, but a much larger share of what they paid should have come to the pockets of our Canadian farmers. This is only one instance out of a large trade.

THE BIG CHEESE. "I received from the largest retail dealer in provisions in the world an offer for our mammoth Canadian cheese, which is to form the centre of the dairy pyramid at the World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago. He has no less than 90 large shops in different parts of London, and shops in nearly every large city in Great Britain and Ireland. The price offered is one which will recoup the department for all the expenses of manufacturing the mammoth cheese; besides, the offerer (who is no other than the great "Lipton," whose retail sales in Great Britain reach 275 tons per week), undertakes to exhibit the cheese free of expense to the department, and without charge to the public, in every large city of commercial importance in Great Britain and Ireland. He will also spend $15,000 in advertising it as the largest cheese in the world. All this will call attention to the magnitude of the Canadian trade in cheese, and make its excellence known to the great

PROFESSOR ROBERTSON

Interviewed in Ottawa.

Points to be Noted by Farmers.

On his return to Ottawa Professor Robertson was waited upon by the special correspondent of the Empire. He said that he obtained good prices for the dairy products which were sold from the experimental dairy stations, and for those which were owned by the Government enough profit to pay a large share of the expenses of his journey. The butter and cheese from the Maritime Provinces were sold on account of the farmers who furnished milk and cream. The net proceeds will be distributed to them and will undoubtedly be satisfactory. Continuing, Prof. Robertson remarked: I found Canadian cheese, butter, bacon and eggs growing in favor with importers and whole sale houses. I discovered that we are suffering from unfairness of treatment, by the retailers putting our best products before their consuming customers as "best English." Our Canadian producers do not get the extra price which is paid by the British consumers by reason of this deception. Not more than two-thirds of $13,000,000 of our cheese is ultimately sold to consumers in Canada. Almost no butcher owns to selling Canadian-fed beef. He says: "Canadian and American beef is sold only in the rough shops, where the cuts are cheap." Of course, that is untrue and grossly unfair alike to the Canadian and English farmers.

GROWING DEMAND FOR BUTTER.

"I observed a great and growing demand for fresh-made fine butter; the working classes—the multitudinous class who consume our products—are well enough off to pay for and buy only foods of fine flavor. They are now willing and able to pay for the exquisite and delicacies in quality, whereas they formerly purchased only the necessities for barely comfortable subsistence. Our cold winter climate gives us an unequalled advantage for the production and the safe transportation of fancy butter."

CANADIAN POKE.

"What about Canadian pork?" "I learned of an ever-increasing call for Canadian-fed and Canadian-cured swine products. I was able to point out the superiority of quality which results from the fattening of swine (as in Canada) on mixed cereals, skim milk buttermilk and whey, over the bacons from Indian corn-fed hogs. Our experiments at Ottawa in the curing of swine upon frozen wheat attracted very earnest attention from the importers of bacon, who recognize in the class of meat which is obtained in that way, the quality for which there is the keenest demand at the high prices in England."

EGGS AND POULTRY.

"Have you any suggestions about the egg and poultry trade?" "Eggs are wanted as nearly fresh as possible. It would pay to collect them from the farmers at least twice a week. The main cause of dissatisfaction and loss among shippers has arisen from the reclamations which have been made for spoiled eggs. We have almost got past the period when the retailers expect particular bargains in Canadian eggs. The retailers at first always look for enormous profits of whatever nature in name or appearance is offered to them. Poultry is wanted not only at Christmas time (when there is apt to be a glut if the weather be at all mild and soft), but on through January, February, March, and until warm weather. Mr. John Dyke, the energetic representative of Canada at Liverpool and I saw one shipment of Canadian turkeys in particularly excellent condition. The birds had been starved before they were killed. Feathers were left on. They came out of the cases looking bright and fresh, and with a sweet, clean odor."

"I hope our Department of Agriculture, or our merchants, or both working in harmony as in the past, may be equal to the devising and operating of some means of distributing our products to the ultimate consumers, whereby the reasonable profits of the retailers may no longer interpose a barrier to the more general consumption, under their own name, of Canadian cheese, beef, bacon, eggs, poultry, etc. The difference between the prices charged by the retailers for our best products, and the prices realized by the producers on the Canadian side, is out of all reasonable proportion to the value of the services rendered in the distribution. I heard of one retail butcher who had of consumers. This is more than ample justification of the dairy commissioner's course in having made this "mammoth cheese." Everything is not all sordid which has a sordid name.

DIFFERENCES IN TASTE.

"I made a thorough investigation into the newer preferences of British markets in the matter of butter and butter packages, and of cheese and cheese boxes; and I find that the demand in different centres of large population call for different qualities in color, body and flavor. All markets want a butter with the bloom of fresh-made butter still on it. The Manchester and Glasgow markets are 'running on' square packages, after the New Zealand and Australian style. These hold 56 pounds net each. We will have some of our winter-made creamery butter from the Government experimental dairy stations packed in square packages this winter."

"All the buyers prefer the butter packages to be lined with 'grease proof' paper, which protects the butter from contact with the wood or tin, and gives it a bright, sparkling look when the packages are removed. I purchased a considerable quantity of the best quality of suitable paper from one of the large paper manufacturing firms in London. All who are interested may obtain small sample quantities at cost as soon as it arrives at Ottawa."

"I looked into the trade in tinned butters for export to hot climates, and visited Paris, where neat and suitable boxes for that purpose are made and finished in excellent style. I think Canadians might now get possession of the West India trade in butter; and through the facilities of the C. P. Railway and the Pacific steamships we should get the major share of the trade in butter, bacon and cheese with Hong Kong, China and Japan. I had a conference in London on that subject with a gentleman who had spent many years in business in that trade. The outlook for products in that direction is hopeful. I was able to secure an offer of the particular machines which are used in closing the boxes, so that they shall be perfectly airtight after they are filled."

POOR CHEESE BOXES.

"Many complaints were made to me of the poor quality of the boxes in which cheese have been sent, particularly from the province of Quebec. The cheese which I sent over from the Experimental Dairy Station at Perth, in Lunenburg County, Ontario, had less than six per cent. of the boxes broken to any extent when they reached the London and Liverpool warehouses."

Jottings by the Wayside.

LITTLE of importance that has not already been told can be written about the trip from Charlottetown to Ottawa; but yet there are items of interest that happen along the way that possibly will be worthy of note.

The good ship Stanley is successfully keeping up communication with Pictou, making the trips almost as regularly as in summer; but it is only those who cross the straits in her that can have any idea of the difficulties encountered on the way. What a change from the time, about sixteen years ago, when the Northern Light took three days to cross to Pictou and then had to land her passengers outside the harbor! Now the Stanley goes from wharf to wharf, and hardly any icefields can bar her progress. It is only when easterly winds prevail that she has to bow to the unconquerable power of the frozen sea.

Another thing, however, is noticeable. Sixteen years ago Captain Finlayson was as fine a specimen of the rugged seaman as could be found. Powerfully built, in the midst of his manhood's strength, and with keen intelligence and activity visible in every movement. But the battling with sixteen stormy winters, while performing one of the most arduous services in the world, has whitened his hair and seamed his face with wrinkles. Very difficult will it be to find his successor, for no man in Canada has the same capabilities in the way of knowing how and when to run his ship. It does seem hard that after standing on the bridge from the time of leaving port until the arrival on the opposite side of the straits, the Captain should then have to perform clerical work that takes up the greater part of his time until far into the night. If the department would give him a young man for the winter months, to assist in keeping up the writing required, it would tend, no doubt, to give the captain the rest necessary after his mind has been strained to its utmost tension during the passage. The captain himself will never complain, but will wear himself out to the end, until suddenly, some morning, the wires will flash the news that Allan Finlayson is no more.

Among the passengers on the 25th inst., were H. V. Palmer, Esq., of Charlottetown; Dr. Geo. Wilson, of New York, formerly of Cardigan; Mr. Samuel McPherson, of Souris, and a Mr. Nicholson, of Dundas. Mr. Palmer was bound for England, Dr. Wilson for New York, Mr. McPherson for Vancouver, B. C., Mr. Nicholson for the Militia School at Quebec, and the writer was en route for Ottawa. What a variety of destinations among so few! It shows the spirit of the age and the wandering faculties of Islanders.

Among the number none, perhaps, can more justly claim credit for his life's work than Dr. George Wilson. Leaving the island when a boy, without education, money or friends, he has fought his way. He worked for a number of years at odd jobs until he got work as a carpenter, then as a furniture maker and finally as a piano finisher. All the time he steadily attended night school, and after obtaining an English education resolved to study medicine. With the aid of a preceptor, whose classes he attended two hours each night, at the end of seven years hard work he obtained his certificate from the University of New York, and earned his first fees on the 15th June, 1880.

Nothing of interest claimed notice during the trip. The train was well filled with passengers, and quickly covered the miles. The morning business at this growing city, resounding off, and was soon comfortably filled at the Brunswick Hotel.

An amusing and instructive incident occurred the other night at Monday's dinner. The train was making his way to the Brunswick, but the night being stormy and the traveller a stranger, instead of going to the hotel, he made his way to the general offices of the I. C. Railway. Walking into what appeared to be the office of the hotel, he accosted the person in charge and enquired if he could stop there all night. "I do not think you can," replied the caretaker. "Why, is not this the Brunswick Hotel?" enquired the stranger. "No," was the reply, "this is the general office of the I. C. R., but I will show you the way to the Brunswick." Getting up from his seat, the caretaker then pointed out the direction to be taken and gave the necessary instructions for finding it. Simple as was the act, yet its courtesy was in striking contrast to the boorishness of some officials who do not seem to know how to treat the public. If this incident can be taken as a sample of what the public may expect under the new management of the I. C. R.—and I believe it is—the people will joyfully welcome the change; for nothing is more calculated to bring business than courtesy and kindness from the officials in charge.

By the way, it should not be forgotten that the officials of the Stanley—Captain Finlayson, Purser Ryan and Steward Smith—have long ago made courtesy one of their principal characteristics.

Permanently Anxious, Hemorrhage of Bowels, with Constipation, Nervous Prostration, and Heart Troubles, Cured by Scott's Emulsion.

"For 15 or 20 years I have suffered from Hemorrhage of the Bowels. Some days would have 17 Hemorrhages, and have passed 120 pills (mostly blue pills) and Hemorrhage as a portion of my Bowels would protrude while at stool. For the last two years have been worse. Several physicians advised an operation.

GEORGE H. DEWOLF, of Windsor, N. S., a prominent man, having been a member of the County Council for 12 years. I was also emaciated, extremely nervous, feet and legs swollen badly, and the least exertion set my heart beating so rapidly, I would have to rest. Wished myself dead rather than alive. Four months' use of Scott's Emulsion has made a new man of me. Have gained 25 lbs. In flesh, Hemorrhage all stopped. Heart beats regularly, I can sleep like a child, and am better than I have been for 20 years."
