P. E. ISLAND LOBSTERS.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH OUR LOBSTERS?

Mr. Paton's Interview With a London Dealer.

Bad Stock Depreciates the Character and Price of the P. E. Island Pack.

More Care Must be taken by Packers.

Mr. James Paton, of Charlottetown, who has just returned home by the Eturia, via New York, thus safely accomplishing his 75th voyage across the Atlantic, has favoured us with the following account of an interview he had in London on general topics, the conversation took the following turn:

J. P.—Well, Mr. Stebbing, I hope the lobster business is in a satisfactory state? H. P.—I am sorry to say not altogether so, as prices are ruling here lower than for several years past.

J. P.—Are there any special reasons to account for that? H. P.—Undoubtedly. In the first place the shipments to England during the past season were considerably above the average of recent years, which, I believe, is not from any excess in the pack, but because a much smaller quantity than usual was sent to the Continent.

J. P.—I am very sorry to hear, Mr. Stebbing, that there is so much complaint exhibited in the packing of lobsters, because I quite realize (though not at all in that line of business myself) how vitally important it is, in dealing with an article of food, that the utmost possible care should be taken to send into consumption only what is wholesome, reliable and attractive.

trade into smoother waters. The trade here was some years ago that no stone or unsmooth fish should, under any circumstances, be shipped; that every process connected with the canning should be carried out with a care which would ensure the perfect preservation of the contents of the every tin; and if we could go a step further and get all shipments graded by some independent and reliable authority, I think it would be an enormous advantage.

Up to date the trolley in Brooklyn has killed 101 persons, and it has only been in operation there a couple of years. Brooklyn seems to be entitled to the palm for reckless motorists.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

It is now proposed that a Liberal Government shall limit the power of the House of Lords and carry their measures by refusing to issue writs of summons to Parliament to the obnoxious peers.

The position of the mail train, wrecked on the 24th March, gave newspaper men and others who visited the scene of the run-off the impression that it was the worst disaster of the kind that has occurred in the history of the road, and as such it was heralded abroad.

The Montreal Witness hopes that the Manitobans will settle the school difficulty amicably, and says: "In many parts of Manitoba if there is to be a common system at all it must be a common school system, and the people will have to adapt themselves to each other as best they may."

Mr. E. Douglas Armour, in The Week takes a view of the question of prohibition that will arouse interest. After examining the present state of the law, which characterizes as a "curious and artificial division of jurisdiction," he says that it would be easy to amend the Canadian temperance act thus: Instead of confining its beneficial provisions to minor localities, declare that whenever the Legislature of any Province, by resolution declares that the act should be brought into force in the whole, or any part or parts, of such Province, and such is transmitted to the Governor-General in Council, his Excellency shall issue his proclamation declaring that the act is to be in force such Province, or part or parts thereof, as the Legislature by its resolution shall have indicated.

Mr. Stebbing then proceeded to give his interviewer an object lesson by opening a number of tins of P. E. Island lobsters and pointing out the various defects which he had alluded to, and the conversation was then resumed as follows: J. P.—You have quite convinced me, Mr. Stebbing, that there is a great room for improvement on the part of our lobster packers, and the question is, What is the best way of arriving at so desirable a result? The appointment of a Government Superintendent has worked most satisfactorily as regards our cheese industry; don't you think something of the same kind might be possible as regards lobsters?

H. P.—I certainly think Mr. Paton you are on the right tack for steering the trade into smoother waters. The trade here was some years ago that no stone or unsmooth fish should, under any circumstances, be shipped; that every process connected with the canning should be carried out with a care which would ensure the perfect preservation of the contents of the every tin; and if we could go a step further and get all shipments graded by some independent and reliable authority, I think it would be an enormous advantage.

LACES. FLOWERS, RIBBONS.

ELEGANT AND STYLISH. The Latest Novelties. Colorings Rich. Values Good. Handsome Colors. Beautiful Designs. Profitable Values.

Elsewhere we have had something to say of the extent and magnificence of our Flowers. Geraniums, exquisitely true to nature, are one of the leading styles in spring flowers. Roses and violets still have an amazing popularity and are used for everything and anything, being combined with all sorts of other flowers until new hats resemble old-fashioned flower gardens. Sweet peas, wisteria and peonies have many admirers, and may be classed as favorite flowers, being used exclusively when anything of a vine-like, clinging nature is needed. Tulips, dahlias and daffodils are used when large blossoms are in request, and hyacinths, forget-me-nots and berry clusters when fine flowers are wanted. Ivy leaves are employed as foliage with all sorts of flowers. Some-times as many as half a dozen distinct species, all different in color, are used on one hat. The prospects are that this will be a good flower season.

Early Spring Flowers direct from the maker, exclusive designs, opening this week. 50 Packages of ENGLISH GOODS opening this week.

THE CHANGEABLE LEADER.

It has been remarked that—so far as our fiscal policy is concerned—Mr. Laurier has been everything by turns and nothing long. In 1876 he said:

"It is asserted by many, and assumed by others, that free trade is a Liberal principle and protection a Conservative principle. If I were in Great Britain I would be a free trader; if I were a Canadian born and a resident here, and I think that we require protection. We have within ourselves the ability to create an industry. If it is shown that we cannot maintain it unless by legislation either in the way of premium or prohibitory tariff, then I should be ready to take that into consideration."

In 1889 Mr. Laurier said—

"Unrestricted reciprocity will triumph as sure as day succeeds to-night. When Sir Richard Cartwright proposed his resolution last session he said that it would be defeated. He will renew it next session, and he knows that it will be defeated; he will renew it again and again, but in the meantime there will be a general election—and we believe the result of that election will be the return of a majority, whether Conservative or Reformers, pledged to support a treaty of unrestricted reciprocity between Canada and the United States."

Next year in Toronto he said:

"The policy that we advocate, and which we will continue to advocate, is the removal of all commercial barriers between this country and the United States."

The Liberal party in Canada will remain true to the policy which has triumphed. I do not expect to win in a day or a year. I am prepared for a long battle and to stand in the cold shades of opposition until the cause has triumphed."

In January, 1894, he said at Oakville: "Gentlemen, the only way in which Quebec can recover its old time prosperity as a maritime city is by adopting the policy of freedom of trade as it exists in the mother country, old England."

At Montreal, 1895, he said:

"I have told you that our object is to have a customs tariff for revenue only. Upon the question of protection there can be no compromise. We stand here against protection and in favor of a customs tariff based upon the principles of revenue and efficiency."

The system of protection has been the bane and curse of Canada. The Liberal party believe in free trade on the broad lines such as exist in Great Britain."

At Waterloo, Ontario, he said:

"I say that not a cent should be collected beyond what is required to meet the country's necessities. We will tax for revenue, but not a cent for protection. When we are in power we will relieve the people of protection, which is a fraud, a delusion and a robbery."

At Winnipeg he said:

"Come before you tonight to preach to you this new gospel of free trade. I denounce to you the policy of protection as bondage, yoke, and I refer to bondage in the same manner in which American slavery was bondage. Sir, our policy is freedom of trade such as exists in England, such as is practised in Great Britain. I propose that we should follow England's example and open our ports to the products of the world."

Would it be wise to entrust with office and power a leader so fickle as Mr. Laurier?

—When shall we have the report of the Commissioner of Crown Lands? We now know that the Province owes Mr. Peters' bank, and Mr. Peters' friends the money—leaders and Mr. Peters' partisans throughout the country about $400,000.00, and we know that the capital of the Province in the Land Office has been frittered away by a system of discounts and political corruption. But just how much the Province has lost cannot now be told. It is to be hoped that the Commissioner's report will contain the information desired. When shall we see it?
