

Old-Timers Would Not Do Too Well In '56 Olympics

By JACK SULLIVAN

MELBOURNE (CP)—Canada's gold medal winners in track and field and in swimming at Olympic Games of yesterday just wouldn't be anywhere today—even if they were in their prime.

Comparisons of marks made at Melbourne with those of Canada's heroes of past Olympics point up the amazing progress the world's athletes have made.

In 1928 Percy Williams of Vancouver thrilled all Canada with his double victory in the 100 - metre and 200-metre sprints — just as Bobby Morrow of San Benito, Texas, thrilled the United States with his double at Melbourne.

Williams won the 100 - metre sprint in 10.8 seconds. Morrow did it despite an adverse wind, in 10.5 after equalling the Olympic record of 10.3 in a preliminary heat.

This year Williams wouldn't have got past the semi-finals with his 10.8. The slowest time for a qualifier in the semi-finals at Melbourne was 10.6.

SLOWEST WAS FASTER

Williams won his gold medal in the 200-metre sprint in 21.8. Morrow did it in 20.5 for an Olympic record. The slowest qualifier in the semi-final was clocked in 21.4, faster than Williams. Slowest in the final was 21.3. Back in 1908 Bobby Kerr of Hamilton won the same sprint in 22.6.

Earl Thompson of Winnipeg earned a gold medal in 1920 when he won the 110-metre hurdles in 14.8 seconds. He wouldn't have qualified with this at Melbourne, where the slowest qualifying time was 14.6. Lee Calhoun of Gary, Ind., won with 13.5.

It was big stuff in 1928 when a gallant quartet of Canada's girls romped off with the women's 400-metre relay in 48.4 seconds. Here at Melbourne every team in every heat ran faster. Canada's heat here was the slowest, 46.8, although in the final last-place Germany was timed in 47.2. Australia's lassies won the final in 44.5, almost four full seconds under Canada's 1928 winning time.

In the past Canada has provided a winner in both the men's and women's high jump. Duncan McNaughton of Winnipeg won in 1932 with six feet, 5 1/2 inches. He would have got by the preliminary round here, where the qualifying height was six feet, 3 1/2 inches, but he wouldn't have placed in the first six of the final. Charlie Dumas of Los Angeles won with six feet, 11 1/2 inches, and Ken Money of Ferris, Ont., took fifth place with six feet, 7 1/2 inches.

SASKATOON LILY

Ethel Catherwood, the Saskatoon Lily of 1928, won the women's high jump with five feet, three inches. She, too, would have qualified here, with the bar at five feet, 2 1/2 inches. But she would have been outside the first six in the final. Mildred McDaniell of Atlanta, Ga., won with five feet, 9 1/4 inches. Alice Whitty of Vancouver qualified here but was 16th in the final with five feet, one inch.

Only George Hodgson of Montreal has ever won a gold medal in Olympics swimming and he scored a triple in 1912—the 400-metre freestyle, the 1,500 - metre free-style and the 1,000 - metre free-style. The 1,000 - metre is no longer on the Olympic program.

Hodgson won the 400 - metre championship in five minutes, 24.4 seconds. Australia's 17-year-old Murray Rose won it here in 4:27.3 for an Olympic record, nearly a full minute faster. Bill Slater of Vancouver didn't qualify with 4:40.4 in his heat.

Hodgson won a gold medal in the 1,500-metre event with a time of 22 minutes flat. The same amazing Murray Rose won in 17:58.9, and in an earlier heat George Breen of Buffalo, N.Y., set a world record in 17:52.9. Even the 16-year-old Slater bettered Hodg-son's time comfortably. Slater was time in 18:51.6 for eighth and last place in a qualifying heat and in 18:38.3 in the final, in which he placed fifth.

Wallace Says He Didn't Get Fair Deal In Anthony Scrap

NEW YORK (CP)—In the anatomy of a prize fighter, the relative strength or weakness of the jaw bone usually is the key factor determining success in the ring. But with Gordon Wallace it's his kneecap.

The British Empire light heavyweight champion Friday night was sent sailing through the ropes of the Madison Square Garden ring in the first round by the walloping punches of Tony Anthony of New York.

Wallace clambered back in but was counted out by referee Barney Felix who ruled the Bradford, Ont., fighter wasn't on his feet in time.

The controversy centred around Wallace's kneecap—whether it was on the canvas or off when Felix counted 10.

Felix said it was on the canvas and his managers said it wasn't.

Wallace himself thought the 10-round bout should have been continued.

"I don't think I got a fair deal. I was back through the ropes at eight and in shape to continue."

The knockout was Wallace's fifth. He entered the ring a 41 underdog carrying 164 pounds and a record of 31 victories in 43 fights including 15 knockouts.

Anthony, who outweighed the former Canadian lumberjack by 9 1/2 pounds, brought his record to 29-4 with 22 knockouts.
