LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Clear the Track!

SIR,—The early part of July last my son, with young Saunders, brought me down to the Charlottetown Hospital, where I remained till August 22, a patient of Dr. Stephen Jenkins. While there I underwent an operation, removing the cause of my suffering. I am 74 years old to-day, March 24. I am ten years younger than I was three years ago. This truth is for the benefit of my fellow sufferers. I suffer no pain now, sleep well, eat like an Englishman, and now enjoy life. While in the Hospital I received a full share of kindness from all those in charge. The order of the establishment is good. My first bunch of thanks is to the doctors and care-takers of the Hospital, especially "the little doc," as they call him. I find him close to six feet, pulling the line around his humanity, he is a six-footer, all right. My second bunch of thanks is to the many friends whose sympathy I shared so largely. My third bunch of thanks is for the boys of THE EXAMINER and Herald offices. May their names be ever remembered. My fourth bunch of thanks is to the Guardian boys who cried "dead," then ran and left me unburied. They must have taken their toddy strong. This is my birthday (March 24, 1893.) A special good thing to you, my friend.

Budget from Fortune Head.

Our farmers hail with delight the appearance of spring again, as their supplies of cattle feed are very limited.

Quite a lively interest is being taken in the cheese industry in this locality; work on the cheese factory has already begun, and will no doubt be finished in due time.

Three of our most enterprising farmers, viz., Peter Moser, Charles Lutz, and Lemuel Puffer, are about to erect a large saw-mill on one of the neighboring streams. As these gentlemen are industrious, clever workmen, they will no doubt receive a large share of the public patronage. May their efforts be crowned with success.

Wm. H. Squarebriggs, Esq., arrived home from his tour through the United States, where he is about to return soon again, taking with him one of Little River's fair daughters, where they intend to make their future home.

Our school is rapidly coming to the front, as a result of the careful teaching of our popular teacher, G. D. Weatherbie. The keenest interest is being taken in the school by parents, pupils and teacher.

RESIDENT.

March 21, 1893.

Notes from Peake's Station.

The farmers around here are busily engaged in hauling fencing poles. Owing to the weather being so very cold, they were unable to get this work done in its own time.

On the evening of Jan. 23rd a meeting was called to order in the Peake's Station School room for the purpose of organizing a debating club. The following are the managers:

President—Allan McDonald.
Vice President—W. J. McDonald.
Secretary and Treasurer—J. G. McDonald.

Some very good subjects have been argued by P. W. Koughan, Anthony McLaughlin, Patrick Byrne, James Coogan, and others. They intend holding a concert at the closing of the debate. The night proposed for the concert is April 24th. There is great preparation to make it one of the grandest events of the season.

Our school is progressing well under the mastership of W. J. McDonald. He has an attendance of thirty-nine scholars, many of whom are going to take the entrance examination to the Prince of Wales College this season.

We have a daily mail here since the first of March. Mr. Allen McDonald is our postmaster, and the office is generally managed by Mr. Frank McDonald, and by him it is kept very creditably.

We have also two stores kept by Messrs B. D. Hayden and J. G. McDonald. Mr. Hayden keeps the telephone office.

Ottawa Letter.

MCCARTHY, HIS SECONDUR, AND HIS RESOLUTION.

(Special correspondence of The Examiner.)

Tuesday was devoted to Mr. McCarthy's trade resolutions and he made a speech between three and four hours' long. Mr. McCarthy is not an attractive speaker. He is not at a loss for language, but he talks as if it were a bore to do so; he does not speak with animation and as if he were impressed with the truth and logic of his statements; he proceeds along as though he were addressing a deaf, sleepy, old judge, one whom he expected to convince, more because he was the great Dalton McCarthy than by the argument he was using. Mr. McCarthy is the spoiled child of the Conservative party; he could have been in the cabinet years ago, but he would not forego his extensive law practice, so he became a sort of "consulting counsel," and Sir John Macdonald—so Mr. McCarthy says—never undertook any important measure or made any changes in his cabinet without consulting him. Because Sir John Macdonald's successors did not pursue the same course is the reason, Mr. McCarthy candidly admits, why he has severed his connection with the Conservative party. "His nose is out of joint," so to speak.

Mr. McCarthy made a long speech, in which he attacked the National Policy on every point, and retraced his course during his whole political life. He almost read himself into the Liberal party, but not quite. He made some astounding statements, and some most absurd mistakes, and it was plainly to be seen that in treating on commercial questions, Mr. McCarthy was out of his element. He was not careful as to his facts and laid himself open to be badly tripped up. On finishing his speech he proposed the resolution which you have already published, and which he stated was seconded by Mr. Hodgins. This was sufficient to convulse House. McCarthy linked with Hodgins! Mr. Hodgins is one of the incongruities of Parliament. He represents the large and wealthy county of Carleton, in which Ottawa is situated, a constituency at one time represented by Sir John Macdonald. But a bear in a boat or a bull in a china shop is about as much at home as Mr. Hodgins in Parliament. He is a farmer I believe, but no one to look at him would ever accuse him of being an intelligent man, and the greatest merit he has is that he has kept his head above water since he stumbled into Parliament. He is the result of the anti-Jesuit agitation. He whipped his Conservative opponent, Mr. Dickinson, because the latter had voted for the Jesuit Bill. Hodgins is the N. K. of the House, and it is no wonder that both sides had a kick when Mr. McCarthy announced that Mr. Hodgins would second his resolution.

I wish you had room for a description of how Dr. Montague polished McCarthy off. Dr. Montague is a beautiful speaker, to whom it is a pleasure to listen. He seldom addresses the House, but when he does so it is invariably with good effect. He is a master of retort, and it is a very unwise proceeding to interrupt him. He tore Mr. McCarthy limb from limb, he showed the falsity of his arguments—he exposed the worthlessness of his so-called facts. Mr. McCarthy complained that the farmers were oppressed, yet in 1888 when he so vigorously upheld the National Policy, the customs tax was $4.83 per head, while now it is only $4.25. Dr. Montague recalled the time of Sir John Macdonald's death, two years ago, when benefit of their leader, the Conservatives met and Mr. McCarthy for his mousetrap penned a letter of condolence to the widow of the departed statesman, containing these memorable words:

"We should have been unworthy followers of our departed chief if we gave way to despondency; rather shall we, remembering his patriotic counsels and noble example, earnestly endeavor to carry on the great work so dear to his heart and for which he labored so long and so successfully, the consolidation of a united, free and prosperous Canadian nation ally in this northern continent in connection with the great empire of which it forms no insignificant part."

And instead of following the noble sentiments which his heart had dictated and his hand had penned, Mr. McCarthy is found hand in hand with Sir John's sworn enemies for the purpose of defeating his followers and the successors he left behind him.

The debate was continued on Thursday and wound up soon after 1 a. m. St. Patrick's day. The members had been keeping the day in a desecration down to earth, and during the division there was more than usual noise and racket. While the whips were hunting up absentees, Col. Prior sang "When McCarthy took the floor at Ennisborough." There were some remarkably appropriate hits in the song, and I must do Mr. McCarthy the justice to say that he seemed to enjoy them immensely.

The resolution was defeated by 116 to 64—a majority of 52—only Col. O'Brien and Mr. Hodgins deserting the Government ranks to vote with McCarthy. I may as well note here that neither Davies nor Mr. Wainwright, and neither of them were present. This shows that they did not approve of Mr. McCarthy's motion. Of course these gentlemen were not bound to vote upon the question, and my notice of their action must not be interpreted as an accusation of cowardice or double-dealing on their part.

The McLean Case.

SHELBURNE, Feb. 6.—The case of Mr. McLean, of Horning's Mills, as published last week, is still the talk of the vicinity, and many people have taken the trouble to go to Horning's Mills to see him. Mr. Belfry, the drug-gut here, who sold Mr. McLean the pills, and vouches for the truth of the statement, as also does Mr. William Jelly, ex-M. P. for Dufferin County. Dodd's Kidney Pills are indeed a wonderful remedy, as they cure the most deadly as well as the most prevalent disease that affects humanity, namely, Bright's Disease, as well as all forms of kidney troubles, dropsy, diabetes, stone in bladder, and most especially rheumatism.

Obituary.

At her residence, Morell Rear, on Monday, 6th inst., after a short illness borne with christian fortitude, Johanna Murphy, beloved wife of Charles McCarthy, in the 69th year of her age. The deceased was deservedly esteemed for her many amiable qualities. She was a kind and affectionate wife and a loving mother, and with perfect resignation to the will of her Divine Master she fell asleep to awake no more on earth, but in that heavenly home where she goes to meet the well-merited reward of a well spent life. On Wednesday her remains, followed by a large concourse of friends and neighbors, were conveyed to St. Joseph's Church where a solemn requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. Monseigneur McDonald, after which the funeral cortege reformed and proceeded to the cemetery where the deceased rested for her soul's virtues, was laid to rest. May her rest rest in peace.

Periculous Anemia, Hemorrhage of Bowels, with Consumption, Nervous Prostration, and Heart's Troubles, Cured by Skoda's Remedies.

"For 15 or 20 years I have suffered from Hemorrhage of the Bowels. Some days would have 15 Hemorrhages, and have passed 1-2 pint of fresh blood in 4 Hemorrhages, and a portion of my Bowels would protrude while at stool. For the last two years have been worse. Several physicians advised an operation.

I was once attacked extremely nervous, lost all my strength, and the least exertion set my heart beating so rapidly, I would have died. Wished myself dead rather than alive. Four months' use of Skoda's Remedies has made a new man of me. Have gained 35 lbs. in flesh. Hemorrhage all stopped. Heart beats regularly.
