

Where Was Mother?

The truth you often find in the Great World and to learn the first lessons that all little Mooses must learn. This little pond was very lovely that morning. It was covered with the green round leaves and the lovely white blossoms of water lilies. This didn't mean anything to Moosie. No, sir, it didn't mean a thing to Moosie. But it meant a great deal to mother and to his father, Flatheads, who was standing in the water on the other side of the pond.

You cant go ALL-OUT If you feel ALL-IN These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then, headache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" feeling, nervousness, irritability, all follow. It's time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter.

Mother was wholly underwater. Mother waded a little way out in the water. She put her head down, completely under water. The little calf started at her in big-eyed astonishment. Mother had lost her head.

Presently mother had her head again. She lifted it from the water and hanging from her mouth were the long stems of the lily plant. Mother was eating the mud at the bottom of the pond.

Presently Mrs. Flatheads waded a little farther out in the water and again she put her head down until it disappeared. Again she brought up a mouthful of roots and plants. Moosie grew tired of watching her. He began to explore along the shore. A big frog started him by jumping

When mother had finished eating the mouthful she had brought up, she once more put her head under water. For a moment or two he could see her back. Then that disappeared. Mother was wholly under water. The little calf blinked. How that! He wondered if he would ever be able to do it. Where she had disappeared the water was all muddy. Would she ever come up again? It seemed a long, long time before she did, but of course from almost under his nose and diving into the water with splash there was a lot to see for he never had been over here before. He wandered halfway around to where he could see his father doing the same thing. When he came out to the water, Moosie turned back. He waded a little back from the water, again Mother was nowhere to be seen. He looked all along the shore. He couldn't believe his own eyes. Mother wasn't there. What had happened to her? Had she gone off and left him? He was startled. Yes, sir, he was startled little Moosie.

Could it be that his eyes were fooling him? Once more he turned his head to look over at his father. When he turned back again to look for Mother, there she was out in the pond near the shore. When she came up the wading shore. "So in a day you'll be doing that," said she as she led him off among the trees. So it was that the little Moosie learned that some day he would be so much like his father. He was so glad that he could go wholly under water just like Paddy the Beaver. But of course a Moosie cannot swim under water as Paddy can.

Big Atomic. Reactor Goes Into Operation

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's powerful atomic energy reactor, known as NRU—the free world's most versatile atomic research unit—went into operation at 7:10 a.m. AST Sunday. The reactor, which will produce significant quantities of plutonium, the material used in atomic bombs, went "critical" six years after construction started.

NRU is a triple purpose reactor. It will be used for research and experiments in the development of essentially producing nuclear power stations, for production of plutonium and for manufacturing a wide variety of radio-active isotopes used in medicine, industry and agriculture.

The reactor will be operated at five times the power of NRU, a low power for several weeks, during which a series of test experiments will be conducted. The reactor's power then will be increased to some 200,000 kilowatts.

The power of NRU will make possible the testing of any fuel element assembly now being considered for nuclear power plants.

RU's production of plutonium will be used by the United States Atomic Energy Commission.

Middle. She was contentedly chewing another lily root and her head was under water and back, but he couldn't see her legs. This was because she was far out in the water.

When mother had finished eating the mouthful she had brought up, she once more put her head under water. For a moment or two he could see her back. Then that disappeared. Mother was wholly under water. The little calf blinked. How that! He wondered if he would ever be able to do it. Where she had disappeared the water was all muddy. Would she ever come up again? CONTRACT BRIDGE

By B. JAV BECKER

QUIZ You are a dealer, neither you are vulnerable. What do you bid with each of the following four hands? 1. One diamond. The general rule where diamonds is 4-4-4-1, is to open the bidding with the 1, is to open the bidding with the 1, is to open the bidding with the 1, is to open the bidding with the 1.

The goal is for the partnership to choose as trump the suit where they have the greatest strength. To bid hearts ahead of spades may easily lead partner to believe the open has greater length in hearts, and may therefore result in the wrong final contract.

Four hearts. An important principle is involved in choosing to open the bidding with four hearts. The prime purpose of the high-level opening bid is to hamper the opponents in their exchange of information in case it turns out that they have the balance of strength. It is not so easy for the opponents to get together in their best suit and in the right level when they have to start at eleven by bidding for ten or eleven tricks.

The opening four-bid denies the defensive strength usually associated with an opening bid of one suit. It merely states that with the suit named, the bidder has seven or eight winning tricks.

One spade. Many players
