Butter Drops 84,000 Lbs.

A drop of 84,000 pounds of butter for this year here as compared to the same time last year is so far unexplained.

Butter production, which last year yielded 981,947 pounds to the end of April, this year however only showed 898,111 pounds.

Agriculture Minister Andrew MacRae was unable to account for the drop, although he suggested it might be a difference in the freshening time of the cows.

A large manufacturer of dairy products here had offered a bonus for winter milk, and this also may have had an effect on the cutback in butter production, it was explained.

SEASONAL TORRENT

During monsoon periods the Cauvery Falls in India attain a volume of 650,000 cubic feet per second.

New Dems Candidate Urges Uniform Spud Sales System

"A marketing board that can regulate and put some common sense into our system of selling potatoes has to come. But this does not necessarily mean one-desk selling on the Island", said Leo MacIsaac, New Democratic candidate for Queens, who spoke to a farmers meeting in Iona recently.

Mr. MacIsaac explained that with extended use of teletype and new communications equipment there need be little disruption of present methods of assembling and shipping. He said it merely requires a change in the system of selling in principal markets.

"For instance", he said, "if our potato industry would organize and either establish or appoint one marketing agency in Toronto to sell all our Island potatoes on the Ontario market, one agency in Montreal through which all Island potatoes to the Quebec area would have to be purchased, and a similar agency to sell and arrange all export seed orders, we would soon get some uniformity of price and stability into our potato business".

He did not see any immediate need for marketing quotas but he said for a board to be effective it would need to have such authority, if established producers wanted to be able to protect themselves and curb speculation later on.

EXPORT TRADE

Such a board would also be able to arrange large export shipments through dealer members, he explained, to move small surpluses to distant markets when necessary to strengthen local markets, such as could have been done this past season. Federal legislation would be necessary in order for boards in different provinces to work together effectively, he said.

Mr. MacIsaac said that many local dealers have heavy investments in potato storage and packaging facilities, and are providing winter employment for many local men. Such dealers, he said, are now hardly meeting operating expenses and if something is not done soon many farmers will also be out of the potato growing business. "We can't afford to lose this employment here", he said.

Mr. MacIsaac said that buyers in the Canadian, as well as the southern seed markets would favour a system where they could be confident that their competitors would be paying the same price at the same time for Island potatoes.

A board with such selling authority would eliminate the future selling of potatoes at low prices.

Mr. MacIsaac said he is dedicating his efforts to helping his fellow farmers and results to date are most gratifying.

Hardluck Stories Recalled By Unemployment Official

MONTREAL (CP) — There's no end to the variety of hardluck stories people will tell in trying to collect unemployment insurance benefits.

Some of these "tricks they play" were recalled Tuesday by C. A. L. Murchison, member of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, in a luncheon address to a Montreal service club.

All were unsuccessful, Mr. Murchison said, because commission investigators were on their toes in checking up on the reasons given by claimants.

One claimant who had been fired wrote on his application form: "I left the boiler room to get a package of cigarettes. I was gone one hour; I had no permission to leave."

The commission asked the man's employer for his version. The employer wrote back: "This is the first time I have ever heard of a package of cigarettes coming in a bottle. The claimant was found drunk on duty and was fired. This is a violation of company rules."

GONE HUNTING

Another claimant said he was laid off for lack of work, but his employer reported: "This man was not laid off or fired, he left to repair his car so he could go hunting—he must be lost in the woods as I haven't seen him since."

Souris Has Another Fire

SOURIS — The third grass fire in three days was quelled in Souris Monday evening with little difficulty. The fire was on the property of Ray Leard and endangered a barn. As in the case of other two preceding it, the origin is unknown.

RECORD RAINFALL

Heaviest rainfall recorded in one year was 1.041 inches, at Cherrapunji, India, in 1861.
