Setting Trap Limit Said Difficult Problem

MONTAGUE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

Eugene M. Gorman, deputy minister of fisheries, addressed the newly formed Southern Kings and Queens Fishermen's Association at Montague last night. He congratulated the fishermen of the area for taking this step stating that the separate units throughout the province would be of great assistance to the fishermen's federation and its officers.

"This can mean an organized effort for suitable regulations, conservation and research," he said.

When asked about trap limits, he advised that this was a difficult question to answer as not sufficient information is compiled at present, "however," he said, "that must come from you fishermen. It could mean that possibly the amount of lobster per year would have to be determined, number of boats, and then the number of traps.

"There must be enough lobster so that fishermen can make a living and if twice as many boats and traps were in use only half a living can be made. Each location and kind of boats and fishing conditions will enter into this."

He found that in general fishermen were in favour of a trap limit but each area was a bit different and the odd one did not want any interference in the matter.

The meeting was called to adopt the by-laws of the association which will include fishermen from Launching to Pinette and will include the fishermen from Southern Queens until such time as they wish to form their own association.

Over 40 fishermen were present for the meeting and it was felt that more would have been present had the weather been clear.

Also present for the meeting was E. F. MacDonald, Montague, fisheries officer for the area; and John White, fisheries representative from the department office.

BEAUMONT SPORT DELUXE COUPE

Owner's View

How does an owner see his new Acadian Beaumont? With great pride! For Beaumont is '64's most exciting new car with a sparkling personality all its own. Look at the roofline and the lilt of the rear fender curve. Sheer poetry in steel! Of course, when you're enjoying Beaumont's V8 or 6-cylinder performance, everyone else will be enjoying its good looks. If you go in for off-beat views, look under a Beaumont—that's where you'll see the Full Coil suspension that provides a smooth, cushioned ride. Owners point out that's the comfort view. If you go in for panoramics, take a tour around a Beaumont—it won't take long because Beaumont is trimmer than the big cars. Or, if you like conducted tours, give your own. Take the whole family. Show them Beaumont's interior. They'll love the room. And they'll compliment you on your choice of fabrics. But if you're like most Beaumont owners, you'll keep one special view for your own. That's the most satisfying one. The one behind the wheel. Enjoy it at your Acadian-Pontiac dealer's today.
