Polls Indicate Liberal Swing, Queens Candidates Tell Meet

Current public and private polls indicate that a decided Liberal swing throughout Canada has set in Queen's County Liberal candidates B.B. Jones of Bumbury and Mark R. MacGuigan of Charlottetown claimed last night at a meeting in the Craupud Community Hall prospects for an over-all Liberal majority are becoming increasingly bright, they said.

"The two Liberal Members in the last Liberal administration had done all that they could to further the interests of the whole island," Dr. MacGuigan said, "but naturally they had to fight first for the things that the most urgently concerned their Queen's desperately needs is direct representation. Then we can fight for a fair deal for everybody on the island."

In his speech Dr. MacGuigan stressed the advantages of the Canada Pension Plan and blasted Conservative candidates MacLean and MacGuarrie for criticizing the plan now "when they had no fault to find with it in Parliament."

"They are loquacious now on the platform," said Dr. MacGuigan, "but they were silent when the matter came up in Parliament."

Mr. MacGuigan said that he was sure Health Minister Judy LeMarsh was misinformed when she reportedly implied that because of lower living costs there would be little need for old age assistance on the island.

Chairman of the meeting was Cecil Miller. Other speakers were Eugene Cullen and John Mustard, both ex M.L.A.'s. Solist was Mrs. Douglas MacPhail, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Leroy Howatt. Refreshments were served by the Women's Liberal Association.

No Details Yet On Help Plans

Leo F. Rossiter, minister of fisheries, commenting on representations made to cabinet by the East Prince Fishermen's Association, stated that his government was very anxious to participate in the programme referred to by the federal minister of fisheries, the Hon. H.J. Robichaud.

"Although Maritime newspapers as early as Sept. 28" Mr. Rossiter recalled, "have quoted the Prime Minister as stating that steps have already been taken to work out plans, and have quoted Mr. Robichaud as stating that the assistance will be similar to that of farmers, we have as yet no details."

Mr. Rossiter referred to some facts from the fishermen's brief which indicated that catches were as low as 1,000 pounds per boat in some areas for the fall season.

Mr. Rossiter assured those presenting the case that he was anxious to investigate the full extent of the problem and to co-operate in its remedy just as soon as information was obtained from the federal government.

Two Piano Team In SDU Concert

One of the best known two-piano teams in America today, Nelson and Neal, will be on Prince Edward Island Sunday for a concert at St. Dunstan's University auditorium. The concert is being sponsored by the SDU Alumni Association.

The husband and wife team of Harry Neal and Allison Neilson has made a routine of musical circuit touring. In last season's eight-month tour they gave 52 concerts while covering some 40,000 miles, which makes their itinerary sound more like that of a travelling salesman than that of a celebrated concert duo.

There is no doubt that Nelson and Neal are widely known from Los Angeles to Cleveland to Miami, entire audiences have given them standing ovations. No other piano team plays so many concerts, is so often re-engaged, or is written about so frequently.

They perform nothing but original four-hand literature and are the only team who perform Brahms' magnificent "F Minor Sonata." It was Nelson and Neal who introduced the American public to Mendelssohn's lost "E Major Concerto" and the new Berkley "Concerto."

LIVES DRAMATIZED — They are the only artists in the world whose lives have been dramatized over two major television networks. Last May, also, "Newsweek" carried a full-page spread on their tour. "Newsweek" describes their music as "serious but accessible" and it is this accessibility which has made them a smash hit wherever they have performed. They bring such gaiety and vivacity to their playing that the New York Journal American remarked: "What catches attention is their essentially musical playing, as distinct from the mechanical, chromium-polished matter-of-factness all too common on two-piano work. They give music a magnificence of subtle coloring. Their Brahms, breathless and breath-taking, contains brilliant musical excitement."

Besides researching and playing some of the most exciting four-hand piano selections ever written, Nelson and Neal have also authored a series of 10 instruction books for student pianists, while Mr. Neal's autobiography, "Wave As You Pass," was a national best-seller.

For their SDU concert, which gets underway Sunday evening at 8 p.m., the talented pianists have chosen the following: Overture to a Midsummer Night's Dream, Opus 21, by Felix Mendelssohn; Serenade in A Major, Opus 16, by Johannes Brahms; Concertino for Two Pianos, Opus 94, by Dmitri Shostakovich; Rapsodie Espagnole by Maurice Ravel; and Reminiscences de Don Juan by Franz Liszt.
