

DINNER DATE AT THE CHARLOTTETOWN

Mrs. W.R. Shaw (LEFT) and the provincial cabinet ministers wives entertained at an intimate dinner party Thursday evening at the Charlottetown Hotel for wives of the province's MLAs. Wearing a gown of champagne poud de sole with a lace bodice, and a hand woven shawl of pale blue wool, the premier's wife welcomes (CENTRE), Mrs. T. R. Montgomery of Ottawa whose husband (secretary-treasurer of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association) assisted Thursday in the presentation of the mace ceremony. RIGHT is Mrs. Douglas MacGowan of Montague, Mr. MacGowan, MLA, for 3rd Kings, will move the speech from the throne when parliament re-convenes next week.

Mrs. Emmett MacNeill of Wellington is visiting with her son-in-law, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Des Roches, Miscouche.

HAPPENINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Welford McEwen, Kensington, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mayhew, New London, returned recently from an extended visit to Western Canada.

Mrs. Emmett MacNeill of Wellington is visiting with her son-in-law, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Des Roches, Miscouche.

Mrs. John S. Jarvis, Fairfield is visiting with members of her family in Montreal.

Members of Borden LO Lodge No. 2829 paid a surprise visit to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bell, Cra-paud recently. Mr. and Mrs. Bell were for many years citizens of Borden and were members of Borden LOL and LOBA.

Constable and Mrs. Max Bowles and family, Gregory and Janet, left on Monday to return to their home at Fredericton, N.B. after visiting Mrs. Bowles' parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Humphrey, Kensington, for the past week.

Mrs. John Barbour, Saint John, N. B. attended the funeral of her uncle, the late R.S.P. Jardine at Charlottetown.

Mrs. H.B. MacLeod has returned to her home at Burlington.

Mrs. John Barbour, Saint John, N. B. attended the funeral of her uncle, the late R.S.P. Jardine at Charlottetown.

Mrs. H.B. MacLeod has returned to her home at Burlington.

7304 by Alice Brooks

PIN-APPLE BEAUTY
See the pretty detail design; crochet this square for many decorative articles.
One lacy pineapple square makes a dolly; 2 a 16 x 32-in. scarf, 9 a 48 x 48 cloth. Pattern 7304; square 16 inches in string, 12 in No. 30.
THIRTY-FIVE CENTS (coins) for each pattern (no stamps), please to Alice Brooks, care of Guardian - Patriot Needlecraft Dept., 60 Front St. W. Toronto 1, Ont. Ontario residents add one cent sales tax. Print plainly pattern number, name, address. GIANT 1966 Needlecraft Catalog stars knit, crochet - many more needlecraft designs. 3 free patterns printed in catalog. Send 25 cents.
NEW! 12 Collectors' Quilt patterns for you in color, with quilting motifs. Finest patterns ever collected from famous museum. Send 60 cents for new Museum Quilt Book No. 1 - sixteen complete patterns. 60c.

4596 SIZES 10-18 by Anne Adams

ALLURING PRINCESS
TAKE THE PLUNGE - alluring neckline side swerves to meet a feminine bow. Princess lines do lovely things as they skim your figure. For crepe, shantung, linen.
Printed Pattern 4596; Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18. Size 16 takes 3 yds. 35-40.
FIFTY CENTS (50 cents) in (no stamps please) for each pattern. Ontario residents add one cent sales tax. Print plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER.
Send order to ANNE ADAMS, care of Guardian-Patriot Pattern Dept., 60 Front St. W., Toronto Ontario.
COME ALIVE FOR SPRING!
Send for our new Spring-Summer Pattern Catalog. 125 top shapes for sun, fun, dancing, dining, everyday! One free pattern-clip coupon in Catalog. Send 50c.

Women

8 The Guardian, Charlottetown, Sat., Feb. 26, 1966.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

Card Party Was Held After Regular Meeting

The February meeting of the Tishig Parish Council of the CWL was held in the Dalton school recently with the president, Mrs. Thelma Harper in the chair. The regular opening followed and a letter was read from the provincial president with messages from various conveners, which were discussed.

Donations were voted for the National Scholarship Fund, Our Lady's Missionaries, TV program "Insight IV", the ice carnival, a gift for grade V classroom and also for a member who recently lost her home by fire.

A card party followed the meeting with first prize going to Mrs. Edward McRae, freeze out by Mrs. Hector Richard and Mrs. McRae. Consolation award was presented to Mrs. F. I. de Bernard. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Irving Moller and her committee.

ST. JOHN'S WMS

Plans were made regarding the World Day of Prayer service to be held in the United Church, Clifton on Friday, February 25 when Mrs. Earle Murray was hostess to the members of St. John's Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society for the February meeting. A total of 19 members responded to roll call with a verse of scripture. The visiting committee reported.

Following a discussion on choir curtains and pulpit cover, a committee composed of Mrs. Francis Murray, Mrs. Angus Green and Mrs. Wilbur MacKay was appointed to bring in a report at the March meeting.

The March meeting will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. Roy Brown. Leader will be Mrs. Arnel MacKinnon. Prayer will be offered by Mrs. Don MacEwen, Mrs. George P. MacLeod and Mrs. Ellis Burdette. The Graham's Road Group will present the study book.

BREADALBANE UCW
Mrs. Angus Gillis was hostess for the February meeting of the Breadalbane United Church Women with Mrs. M. I. MacLeod in charge of devotions, assisted by Mrs. Earl Todd.

After routine business was taken care of, Mrs. Lorne Seaman led the study period. A report was heard from the visiting committee, and it was decided to circulate a "missionary" apron among the congregation.

Mrs. Lawrence Newson was appointed devotional leader for the March meeting and Mrs. James Snowie will have charge of the study book, with Mrs. J. MacLeod leading the prayer. An "imaginary" bazaar was

ADILLA'S MILLINERY 100 Queen St. Charlottetown

ELLEN'S DIARY

Lads Left To Play Hockey Farmers To Their Work

By this, we shall have reached the close of the second month of the new year. Presently we shall first-foot into a third month's trials. Milder weather now at hand. Terms little used up to this by weathermen; in regard to our winter came in to us today. This "extremely frosty" weather will continue. And "record breaking temperatures" were in today's reports. And we hearing were grateful for the sheltering roofs, and the reasonably warm conditions obtaining both in dwellings and barns.

"Shake a bit of extra bedding around her" we overheard James advise one of the grandsons by telephone today of a woman now to whom a winter-writer had recently come. "Keep them warm and if you use a heat-lamp, take care to set it so there will be no danger of a fire. And" he added, "don't sleep too soundly-keep your eye out about!"

James himself has ever been the best one to "keep an eye out about"; to sleep lightly, and break his rest without complaint when younglings are expected or need care. Calves, piglets, lambs, what a number he has welcomed of these, up through the years. A lowing from a stable, he and also the younger farmer can quickly recognize and determine its import; the neigh of a horse, the beat of a ewe or lamb, the dog's knowing bark - items like these keep our farmers often into an overtime in the star - or moonlight.

"Come, Ellen" James brought us suddenly from our dreams one summer night, back in the years, "a sow has broken from her pen! Don't you hear her? She is down in the yard." "Oh dear" we said, "she'll ruin those daisies by the driveway." It's not flowers I'm thinking of, Ellen!

My husband and I had different backgrounds. I am from a family of 11 children. We weren't well-to-do, but there was love and sharing amongst us. George is one of three children; and he was born when his father was 60.

His mother worked during his teens and he and his brother left home to join the armed forces in their teens. The family relationship was merely polite; and he never was close to his father.

George and I dated for three years prior to marriage; and even though he seemed possessive he showed no indication of being the person he is today. He is always insisting that he does not need any friends. And he doesn't like my having friends, either.

When I get a phone call from a girl friend, which is seldom, he explodes! I simply can't bear it much longer. Aside from this he is good to me, and faithful.

Please don't advise me to try and talk it over with him. I have tried, but in vain. Usually I get slapped; and once went to work with a black eye. I need help desperately. I am contemplating divorce, much as I love him and shrink from it. I can't stand the isolation. I read your column daily and enjoy it, not problem-wise but for the counsel so sincerely given. E.P.

DEAR E. P.: George's attitude as described is quite neurotic. It signifies that he hates himself unconsciously. I suppose because his parents seemed, from his viewpoint in childhood, to have no time for him, so that he felt indignantly unworthy of anyone's interest or regard.

And, in consequence of that state of affairs, he resented his parents, no doubt, a sentiment which to the child mind, uncomfortably resembles filial hatred, a feeling that weighs on a child's heart like a load of unforgivable sin.

In the aftermath of this anti-loving type of early conditioning, George is more or less anti-everybody. At heart, he's not yet capable of loving anyone, really, which accounts for his defiant repudiation of the very idea of "having friends."

It also accounts for his cheerless, jealous, grimly proprietary disposition to strip you, too of family and friends and make you a prisoner with him, in the dark dungeon of his defeatist isolation from normal sociability.

Now, for advice: Inasmuch as George won't reason with you regarding his wrongheaded policy, in pressing you to give up your family and friends, it seems appropriate to drop the argument and let your actions proclaim your convictions.

In short, maintain good relations with your family, going to see them when you can, encouraging them to keep in close touch with you, letting them know the gist of your problem with George, so that they will make the extra effort the crisis calls for, towards by-passing his negativism.

Also, if you have faithful friends who are disposed to keep in touch, despite George's killjoy temperament, I think you should cherish them gratefully, without debating the matter with George; and without wallowing in angry self-pity because he makes things difficult.

Above all, however, you should get immediate firsthand counselling help from a family relations specialist (see the Family Service Agency) to explore the feasibility of staying married to George. He may be emotionally disturbed to the point of becoming violently abusive, in the event you proceed to revive your normal social rights as a wife. Even so, you mustn't forfeit those rights, just to assuage his crank-bias. M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Guardian.

MARY HAWORTH

Anti-Social Mate Excludes Wife's Relatives, Friends

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a housewife, 23, married two years. In this time I have given up all my friends and am now being forced to give up my family, to whom I have been very close.

My husband and I had different backgrounds. I am from a family of 11 children. We weren't well-to-do, but there was love and sharing amongst us. George is one of three children; and he was born when his father was 60.

His mother worked during his teens and he and his brother left home to join the armed forces in their teens. The family relationship was merely polite; and he never was close to his father.

George and I dated for three years prior to marriage; and even though he seemed possessive he showed no indication of being the person he is today. He is always insisting that he does not need any friends. And he doesn't like my having friends, either.

When I get a phone call from a girl friend, which is seldom, he explodes! I simply can't bear it much longer. Aside from this he is good to me, and faithful.

Please don't advise me to try and talk it over with him. I have tried, but in vain. Usually I get slapped; and once went to work with a black eye. I need help desperately. I am contemplating divorce, much as I love him and shrink from it. I can't stand the isolation. I read your column daily and enjoy it, not problem-wise but for the counsel so sincerely given. E.P.

DEAR E. P.: George's attitude as described is quite neurotic. It signifies that he hates himself unconsciously. I suppose because his parents seemed, from his viewpoint in childhood, to have no time for him, so that he felt indignantly unworthy of anyone's interest or regard.

And, in consequence of that state of affairs, he resented his parents, no doubt, a sentiment which to the child mind, uncomfortably resembles filial hatred, a feeling that weighs on a child's heart like a load of unforgivable sin.

In the aftermath of this anti-loving type of early conditioning, George is more or less anti-everybody. At heart, he's not yet capable of loving anyone, really, which accounts for his defiant repudiation of the very idea of "having friends."

It also accounts for his cheerless, jealous, grimly proprietary disposition to strip you, too of family and friends and make

Successful Report Heard By Auxiliary

The president, Mrs. David L. McInnis presided at the regular meeting of the Kensington Royal Canadian Legion Ladies Auxiliary held recently. Meeting opened with the usual ritual.

The treasurer, Mrs. Ellis Froditt, gave a satisfactory financial report which included the proceeds from the Valentine tea and receipts from refreshments served at the couple's dance in the evening totalling $116.35. It was decided to send a letter of thanks to Gene Crane for his services in making up tickets etc.

It was agreed to hold the regular executive meeting on the second Saturday of each month. On the March news and messes committees are Mrs. James Evans, Mrs. Elmer Cole and Mrs. Joseph Harding.

you a prisoner with him, in the dark dungeon of his defeatist isolation from normal sociability.

Now, for advice: Inasmuch as George won't reason with you regarding his wrongheaded policy, in pressing you to give up your family and friends, it seems appropriate to drop the argument and let your actions proclaim your convictions.

In short, maintain good relations with your family, going to see them when you can, encouraging them to keep in close touch with you, letting them know the gist of your problem with George, so that they will make the extra effort the crisis calls for, towards by-passing his negativism.

Also, if you have faithful friends who are disposed to keep in touch, despite George's killjoy temperament, I think you should cherish them gratefully, without debating the matter with George; and without wallowing in angry self-pity because he makes things difficult.

Above all, however, you should get immediate firsthand counselling help from a family relations specialist (see the Family Service Agency) to explore the feasibility of staying married to George. He may be emotionally disturbed to the point of becoming violently abusive, in the event you proceed to revive your normal social rights as a wife. Even so, you mustn't forfeit those rights, just to assuage his crank-bias. M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Guardian.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a housewife, 23, married two years. In this time I have given up all my friends and am now being forced to give up my family, to whom I have been very close.

My husband and I had different backgrounds. I am from a family of 11 children. We weren't well-to-do, but there was love and sharing amongst us. George is one of three children; and he was born when his father was 60.

His mother worked during his teens and he and his brother left home to join the armed forces in their teens. The family relationship was merely polite; and he never was close to his father.

George and I dated for three years prior to marriage; and even though he seemed possessive he showed no indication of being the person he is today. He is always insisting that he does not need any friends. And he doesn't like my having friends, either.

When I get a phone call from a girl friend, which is seldom, he explodes! I simply can't bear it much longer. Aside from this he is good to me, and faithful.

Please don't advise me to try and talk it over with him. I have tried, but in vain. Usually I get slapped; and once went to work with a black eye. I need help desperately. I am contemplating divorce, much as I love him and shrink from it. I can't stand the isolation. I read your column daily and enjoy it, not problem-wise but for the counsel so sincerely given. E.P.

DEAR E. P.: George's attitude as described is quite neurotic. It signifies that he hates himself unconsciously. I suppose because his parents seemed, from his viewpoint in childhood, to have no time for him, so that he felt indignantly unworthy of anyone's interest or regard.

And, in consequence of that state of affairs, he resented his parents, no doubt, a sentiment which to the child mind, uncomfortably resembles filial hatred, a feeling that weighs on a child's heart like a load of unforgivable sin.

In the aftermath of this anti-loving type of early conditioning, George is more or less anti-everybody. At heart, he's not yet capable of loving anyone, really, which accounts for his defiant repudiation of the very idea of "having friends."

It also accounts for his cheerless, jealous, grimly proprietary disposition to strip you, too of family and friends and make you a prisoner with him, in the dark dungeon of his defeatist isolation from normal sociability.

Now, for advice: Inasmuch as George won't reason with you regarding his wrongheaded policy, in pressing you to give up your family and friends, it seems appropriate to drop the argument and let your actions proclaim your convictions.

In short, maintain good relations with your family, going to see them when you can, encouraging them to keep in close touch with you, letting them know the gist of your problem with George, so that they will make the extra effort the crisis calls for, towards by-passing his negativism.

Also, if you have faithful friends who are disposed to keep in touch, despite George's killjoy temperament, I think you should cherish them gratefully, without debating the matter with George; and without wallowing in angry self-pity because he makes things difficult.

Above all, however, you should get immediate firsthand counselling help from a family relations specialist (see the Family Service Agency) to explore the feasibility of staying married to George. He may be emotionally disturbed to the point of becoming violently abusive, in the event you proceed to revive your normal social rights as a wife. Even so, you mustn't forfeit those rights, just to assuage his crank-bias. M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Guardian.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a housewife, 23, married two years. In this time I have given up all my friends and am now being forced to give up my family, to whom I have been very close.

My husband and I had different backgrounds. I am from a family of 11 children. We weren't well-to-do, but there was love and sharing amongst us. George is one of three children; and he was born when his father was 60.

His mother worked during his teens and he and his brother left home to join the armed forces in their teens. The family relationship was merely polite; and he never was close to his father.

George and I dated for three years prior to marriage; and even though he seemed possessive he showed no indication of being the person he is today. He is always insisting that he does not need any friends. And he doesn't like my having friends, either.

When I get a phone call from a girl friend, which is seldom, he explodes! I simply can't bear it much longer. Aside from this he is good to me, and faithful.

Please don't advise me to try and talk it over with him. I have tried, but in vain. Usually I get slapped; and once went to work with a black eye. I need help desperately. I am contemplating divorce, much as I love him and shrink from it. I can't stand the isolation. I read your column daily and enjoy it, not problem-wise but for the counsel so sincerely given. E.P.

Geo'town Couple Honored Prior To Trip To Toronto

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Parker of Georgetown, who with their family, will shortly take up residence in Toronto, Ontario, were recently entertained by approximately 40 of their friends from Georgetown and the Cardigan area at an evening entertainment held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pablocker.

The evening's festivities took the form of a good fellowship get-together and dancing, music and games were enjoyed. Prior to the serving of refreshments, Mr. and Mrs. Parker were presented with a purse of money by their friends and this was later augmented by the donation of the door receipts of the hockey game, played the same night in the Georgetown rink between Georgetown and Murray Harbour.

In a few remarks, J. W. Lavers acting as spokesman for the group, expressed the feeling of regret held by all on learning of the planned departure of Frank and Jane from the community.

Music for the evening was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus Shepherd and their daughter, Louise and son Bernley of Cardigan. The duties of master of ceremonies for the evening's entertainment were capably handled by Noel Wilson of Cardigan, who also drew on his many talents to favour the gathering with a solo rendition of the famous Al Jolson song "Mammy".

Mr. and Mrs. Parker are the parents of Lisa Parker, the youngest baby to ever use a permanent heart pacemaker and is the province's most famous baby. Her parents are taking up residence in Toronto, so that Lisa will be near the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children, in which she is presently a patient. In expressing their appreciation to their friends, Frank and Jane, voiced the hope that present circumstances would alter and allow them to soon resume residence in Georgetown and once again rejoin their many friends in this community and surrounding area.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker are the parents of Lisa Parker, the youngest baby to ever use a permanent heart pacemaker and is the province's most famous baby. Her parents are taking up residence in Toronto, so that Lisa will be near the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children, in which she is presently a patient. In expressing their appreciation to their friends, Frank and Jane, voiced the hope that present circumstances would alter and allow them to soon resume residence in Georgetown and once again rejoin their many friends in this community and surrounding area.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker are the parents of Lisa Parker, the youngest baby to ever use a permanent heart pacemaker and is the province's most famous baby. Her parents are taking up residence in Toronto, so that Lisa will be near the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children, in which she is presently a patient. In expressing their appreciation to their friends, Frank and Jane, voiced the hope that present circumstances would alter and allow them to soon resume residence in Georgetown and once again rejoin their many friends in this community and surrounding area.

PISQUID EAST

Mrs. Harold Jay and Mrs. George Jay were visitors in Lorne Valley Thursday where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earle MacDonald.

Mrs. Juanita MacDonald, Charlottetown, with sons Blair and Ricky were visitors in Pisquid East Saturday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jay.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Shaw with daughter Donna, Charlottetown, were recent visitors at the home of Mrs. Shaw's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Jay.

Mr. and Mrs. David Birt and Mrs. Ruth Reynolds, Charlottetown, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Jay Saturday.

Mrs. Hessel Corney and Miss Arlene MacDonald, Charlottetown and Mrs. Vernon Matheson West Royalty, were Sunday guests at the home of their sister, Mrs. Floyd Jay and Mr. Jay.

Mr. and Mrs. Birt Leard, Lorne Valley, were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jay.

B.A.

HELP KEEP ORDER

There are about 1,000 Canadians in each of the UN peace forces in Cyprus and Israel.

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS BRONCHIAL COUGH, ASTHMA

Do you cough, cough, cough and cry because of bronchial irritation caused by night-colded phlegm in your bronchial tubes? Do you gasp for breath, wheeze and cough as you try to get to bed at night or get your proper rest? Then buy the OTCB (Over-the-Counter) medicine which makes an cough and cry for good-bye. I am thankful to say I have found it! OTCB medicine quick and satisfactorily relieves my chronic bronchitis and asthmal coughs in my throat.

You can get this new revolutionary relief, the OTCB medicine from your local drug store, $2.95 for adults and $1.95 for children get OTCB medicine today!

Apartment For Rent

Large hot water heated apartment, separate thermostat, three bedrooms with closets, all tile floors, large living room and kitchen. Private bath with shower.

Four miles from city on Trans-Canada Highway at North River. You owe it to yourself and your family to see this apartment, you may see it at any time. No snow to shovel.

ONLY $65.00 per month.

Fred F. Kitson, 894-7434

GOING SOUTH FOR A WINTER HOLIDAY?

Don't miss a single issue. Have THE GUARDIAN delivered to your Winter Holiday address and keep in touch with events back home.

Clip and mail the coupon below giving us your present address, Winter Holiday address and when to start and stop paper... and don't forget the restart date upon returning home. We'll do the rest... Happy Holidays!

CLIP AND MAIL

TO THE CIRCULATION MANAGER, THE GUARDIAN, CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I.

Name ..... Present Address ..... Winter Holiday Address ..... Start Date ..... Stop Date ..... Restart Date on Returning Home

The Guardian

It's NEW for You at Holman's

New for '66! THE SHELL

They're very new and Holman's brings them to you. Not the sleeveless any more... the SHELL. In lovely textured acrylic, bulky knit, beautifully hand-fashioned. Buttons at the back of the neck. In lively bright new stripe-patterns of pink, blue, yellow or black on white. Sizes small, medium or large.

3.98

Now for '66! BELL BOTTOMS

Get in the swim... they're all going to be wearing them. Of washable corduroy, with side zipper. In black, blue, royal, brown, rust or red. Sizes 10-18.

pr. 4.98

Linen Skirt and Shirt MATCH-MATES

THE SHIRT-Lovely wearable linen, in bold multi-stripes. In sizes 10-18.

only 4.98

THE SKIRT-These are real action skirts by Casualaire, in matching shades taken from the bold multi-stripes. They're custom-tailored with controlled seat lines. Back zip fastening with button. "A" line with inverted pleat. Braided trim on slit pockets. Sizes 10-18. In ivory, turquoise, pink, yellow, solids.

only 4.98

only 4.98

only 4.98

only 4.98

only 4.98

only 4.98

only 4.98

only 4.98