providential and wonderful an escape, is now sufficiently convalescent to resume his duties upon the Great Western Railway.

There has been another serious riot at Manchester, though not at all of a political kind. Two private soldiers of the 15th regt. of infantry quarralled at a beer-shop on Monday week: some police, who came to arrest them, they beat off: both police and soldiers were reinforced, but five soldiers were seized, and in spite of an attempted rescue by the mob, lodged in the Oldham Road Police-station. Next day they were fined 20s., and committed for one month in default. Their comrades vowed revenge. At five in the afternoon, a number of them, heading a mob which at one time amounted to 10,000 persons, attacked the Station-house. The five policemen who happened to be in it succeeded in closing the strong doors and shutters before the mob arrived; but all the glass and outer wood-work were broken. The mob perambulated the streets, assailing single policemen, one of whom was seriously hurt; and breaking the windows of a house where another took refuge. They then returned to the Station-house; but in the interval a strong body of police had entered it; and in successive sorties they seized ten soldiers and about as many of the mob, including three women. The prisoners were examined at the Police-court on Wednesday, and remanded. The 15th regt. was removed from the Tib-street barracks to the Regent Road barracks, and placed under a guard of the 8th and 15th regiments.

FRAUD.—A new species of artifice has just come to our knowledge, against which we feel it our duty to put the public on their guard. The high reputation which "ROWLAND'S MACASSOR OIL" has acquired throughout the world has excited the cupidity of some unprincipled imitators, who have endeavoured to introduce into the East and West Indies, America, &c. &c. their highly noxious imitations for the real article—the wrappers and labels of which so closely resemble those of Messrs. Rowland's, as to require a somewhat careful observation to detect the imposition. The only mode for the purchaser to avoid the imposition, and escape the baneful effects of their vile counterfeits, is to inspect, with great care, the wrappers and labels, and follow the directions attached to the word "CAUTION" in Messrs. Rowland's Advertisement, which frequently appears in our paper. —See Advertisement.

MELANCHOLY ACCIDENT.—We regret to learn that on the 15th inst., while Mr. W. Coffin, of St. Peter's, was returning to that harbour in a fishing boat, accompanied by a young man in his employment, the boat was struck by a sudden squall, which caused her to upset. The boat instantly disappeared, and both the individuals who were in her suddenly met a watery grave. Mr. Coffin has left a widow, several children, and a numerous circle of relatives and friends, to lament his loss. Peculiar sympathy is felt for Mrs. Coffin, as this is the second bereavement of this nature which she has been called to suffer—both having occurred near the same place, and in a similar manner. Her former husband (Capt. Davies) was returning in a Schooner from Newfoundland, some years since, and had arrived, we belivve, within sight of his own home, when he suddenly disappeared, having been, it is supposed, knocked overboard and drowned, as he was never seen afterwards.
