SALUTATIONS.

"How are you?" That's Swedish.
"How do you are?" That's Dutch.
"How do you stand?" That's Italian.
"Go with God, senior." That's Spanish.
"How do you live on?" That's Russian.
"How do you have yourself?" That's Polish.
"How do you carry yourself?" That's French.
"Thank God, how are you?" That's Arabian.

"How do you do?" That's English and American.
"May thy shadow never grow less." That's Persian.
"How is your stomach? Have you eaten your rice?" That's Chinese.

Deceptive Covers.

It is safest, in London secondhand bookstalls at least, to look into a book before buying it. A London bookseller has confessed in court that he and others had the habit of "buying up old books and sticking covers on 'em." It appears that the plaintiff had found on buying "Nicholas Nickleby" and "Oliver Twist" that there was never a word about Nicholas and Oliver in them.

How He Got It.

"I," said the gruff old merchant to the young man who wanted to go away for a week, "have worked here for 22 years without a vacation."
"Yes, I know it. That's why I want to get away. But for the horrible example you present I might be willing to work on and on without a"—
Let it suffice to say that he got his vacation.

Time For Action.

Freddie (whose pa is a strict disciplinarian)—Ma, can you have a man arrested if you think he's going to kill you?
Ma—Certainly, my son.
Freddie—Then I'm going to git out a warrant for pa.
Ma—You shock me, Freddie. What reason could you possibly have for any such action against your father?
Freddie—Why, I heard him tell the lumberman this morning to bring him a cartload of shingles.—Richmond Dispatch.

He Couldn't Help It.

The funniest interview I ever had or heard of, relates Julian Ralph in his reminiscences, was when I was on the staff of the New York Sun. I had been sent to look up some one in a suburb of the city. The address was a number on Fourth street, but, to my amazement, I found three such streets in the place. The house I sought was not in any of them. Tired and almost discouraged I turned into a cobbler's shop, and seeing a bearded German bending over a last in the glare of a swinging lamp, I cleared my throat and said:
"I beg your pardon, but I am a reporter of The Sun."
"Well, well," he said soothingly, before I could finish the sentence, "you cannot help dot."

I could not continue for a full minute, so struck was I by the unexpected philosophy and wisdom of his reply. I could not help being a reporter, and I knew it. When I explained that I wanted an address on Fourth street, and had already been to three Fourth streets, and would like to know if there were any more, he lifted his hammer and poised it in the air for half a minute.
"You want to know if dere is some more of dose Fourt' streets?" he asked. "Vell, I will tell you. I haf lived here dwenty years, trying to find somedings owt, and I didn't find anydings owt yet."

Mr. Kimberley's Nimble Wit.

James G. Blaine was nonplused once while he was secretary of state. One of the applicants for a consulate in Japan was the late Samuel Kimberley of Baltimore, who died in the service in Central America. After he had presented his credentials Mr. Blaine said:
"I should like to appoint you, Mr. Kimberley, but I have made it a rule to recommend no one who does not speak the language of the country to which he is sent. Do you speak Japanese?"
"Cert-tainly, Mr. B-Blaine," stammered Mr. Kimberley. "A-a-ask me s-s-something in J-J-Japanese and I'll answer you."
Mr. Blaine hadn't a word to say, but the Japanese post went to another man, all the same, and Kimberley went to Central America.

Another story is told of Kimberley equally creditable to his nimble wit. One day he met a young woman who threw her arms impulsively around his neck and kissed him. Seeing her mistake, she drew back and angrily asked:
"Aren't you Mr. Jones?"
"N-n-no, madam," replied Kimberley, bowing; "I'm n-n-not, but I w-w-wish to thunder I w-w-was."—Saturday Evening Post.

The Pronunciation Explained.

"There is a family in Virginia," says Collier's Weekly, "the name of which is spelled 'Enroughy,' but it is pronounced 'Darby.' This fact, familiar to many Americans, happened to be told by Miss Hayward at a dinner in London at which Mr. Kipling was present, when he broke in: 'You have saved my reputation by telling that. You are the first man, woman or child who could back me up in it.'"
"The explanation of the peculiarity is that the Derbys were an English family who settled in Virginia in the colonial days. One of the sons, the traditional black sheep of the family, was left a share in his father's will on condition that he changed his name. He changed his written name to Enroughy, but continued to call himself Derby.

"On hearing this explanation Mr. Kipling said, 'I think I will change my name to Smith.' 'You can spell it Smith if you like,' was the reply, 'but it will always be pronounced Kipling,' a remark which caused him to look 'as unfeignedly pleased as a boy.'"

A Queer Payment.

A Yorkshire clergyman married a couple in his church recently, and after he had pronounced them man and wife the groom took him to one side and asked what the damage was.
The parson told him that there was no fixed amount. He might give whatever he chose.
"Parson," said he, "I've got five grayhound pups at home, for which I am asking a sovereign apiece, and I'll let you have one for half a sov."
Of course the clergyman declined so ridiculous a fee, as he had no use for a grayhound pup.
When he got home he must have found his wife better than expected, for he sent the parson one of the pups, accompanied with a letter saying that he was so happy with Maria that he would give him a dog for nothing.—London Spare Moments.

To Cure Warts.

The remedy for warts is to take epsom salts. Why sulphate of magnesium should cure warts I cannot tell, but it is enough for me to know that it does so. I believe the discovery was made by a French doctor, and whoever made it deserves the thanks of thousands. The dose of salts varies according to age, etc. One physician promptly cured several children of warts by giving them three grain doses of salts morning and evening. Another medical man cured a woman whose face was disfigured with warts in a month. She took a dram and a half of magnesia every day. In another case a person suffering from large warts was cured by taking ten grains of the salts daily for a fortnight.—Home Notes.

Beefy Beauties.

"In Turkey the most beautiful and desirable woman is the one who weighs the most," writes an American who has been sojourning in the sultan's domain. "A thin and willowy creature would have no social standing in Turkey and would be a total failure on the stage in Constantinople. Unless a woman is fat she cannot secure an engagement in a musical hall, and the fatter she is the more enthusiasm she arouses and the larger is her salary."

"On the evening after my arrival in Constantinople I went to the Concordia Music hall, and there I saw more feminine breadth, depth, thickness, heft and circumference than I had ever before seen under one roof. The first woman who sang was fat; the second was fatter; the third was no, not fatter, although she was much heavier than No 2. She was merely the promise of what was yet to come. They were holding back the really big artists for the finale."
"At last these two came on. They were 'sisters' and they made a large family by themselves. The house arose in joy as the two vast, egg shaped objects appeared on the stage. The Turks, who had been sitting stolidly in the boxes looking with dull unconcern at the frail vocalists who weighed less than 300, now straightened up and clapped their hands."

CUSTOMS IN SIAM.

The favorite delicacy in Siam consists of putrid prawns saturated with very strong red pepper.
Siamese babies, dogs and cats are all dyed yellow by rubbing in a paste containing turmeric powder.
Until recently seashells and coconut shells were current coin of the realm in Siam, 880 of the former being change for one of the latter.
When a member of the royal family dies, honey and quicksilver are poured into the body, which is placed inside a copper urn and that inside a golden one.
Siamese school children are probably the best behaved in the world. Not merely corporal punishment, but even the need of hard words toward them, is unknown.
They have never taken kindly to kissing. When a sovereign dies, the whole people must shave their heads, while some go even further and shave their eyebrows also.
Every man, woman and child in Siam is a reckless gambler. One consequence is that pawnshops there are numerous. Some of the streets in Bangkok contain nothing else.
No Siamese will sleep with his head toward the west, except on a Monday. To do so would be, in his opinion, certain death, for dead bodies are always laid out in that position.
The Siamese have so strong a superstition against even numbers that they will have none of them. The number of the rooms in a house, of windows or doors in a room, even of rungs on a ladder, must always be odd.

A Mistake.

An old gentleman of 80 having taken to the altar a young damsel of 15, the clergyman said to him:
"The font is at the other end of the church."
"What do I want with the font?" said the old gentleman.
"Oh, I beg your pardon," said the clerical wit. "I thought you had brought this child to be christened."—London Tit-Bits.

Nervous and Debilitated.

Almost a Victim of Nervous Prostration—Was Restored to Health and Strength by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. D. W. Cronsberry, 168 Richmond street west, Toronto, Ont., states:—"My daughter, who sews in a white goods manufactory, got completely run down by the steady confinement and close attention required at her work. Her nerves were so exhausted, and she was so weak and debilitated, that she had to give up work entirely, and was almost a victim of nervous prostration."
"Hearing of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, she began to use it, and was benefitted from the very first. It proved an excellent remedy in restoring her to health and strength. After having used four boxes she is now at work again, healthy and happy, and attributes her recovery to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."
As a blood builder and nerve restorative, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is of inestimable value. It makes the blood red, the nerves strong, and the whole system healthy and vigorous. 50c a box—at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
