A Country Garden

Continued from page 2 with different plants, kept careful records, and recorded her experiences in her own delightful way. Her books are justly popular as being based on firsthand information written for the ordinary person who gardens for the joy of it. "This book makes one realize how much pleasure is to be derived from one's own sensations, from smelling, tasting and noting the mellow variations in the colors and forms of the flowers; besides it is so full of delightful memories which a gardener harvests as he follows that flowery path that it stirs the desire in us to exchange experiences. If we garden as Mrs. Wilder has we slowly come to notice more of the tenuous beauty in plants and other delicate touches more subtle than any human artist could devise. Monsieur Forestier, the great garden architect of modern France, used to tell a story of how one evening he was strolling between hibiscus, palms and oleanders in a garden along the African shores of the Mediterranean accompanied by a young Arab. As they walked along he noticed the Arab had a rose tucked behind his right ear, the blossom falling down on his dark cheek, and when they reached the end of the walk and turned to come back the Arab took the rose and placed it behind his left ear. So Monsieur Forestier asked him "Why have you changed the rose from one ear to the other?" and the Arab answered "Because the breeze is now on our left and this way I can continue to enjoy the perfume of the rose."

There are many gates into the world of reality and gardening is one of them. As we dig and plant we sweat and strain our backs and get deliciously tired and when we go to bed we sleep so soundly that we do not hear the rain pattering on the roof, but on awakening in the morning, with our first conscious breath we smell the sweet, clean air, and when we hurry down into the garden, all sunny and dewy it gives us a real thrill to see each little plant, still carrying raindrops in its leaves, standing up straight and strong, having imbibed nourishment from the moist earth we had enriched, made porous and crumbly for them. This is a delightful book for anyone, and especially for all who love fragrant plants. For it is a great pleasure to identify a friendly odour in the fields. — "Great Possessions", David Grayson.

Bristol and Vicinity

Pie Robert Ballanger spent a recent week-end with his wife and family here.

Mr. John J. Perry, who is employed at Summerside as a carpenter, was a week-end visitor at his home here with his wife and family.

Miss Margaret Findley, left recently for Medford, Mass., to spend the winter months with her sister, Mrs. Walter Munroe. Miss Findley has been spending the winter there for many years now but likes to get back to the Island for the summer months — N.

This vicinity was shocked to learn on Wednesday, Nov. 28th of the sudden passing in the Charlottetown Hospital of Mr. Nicholas Ranahan in his sixty-seventh year. "Nick", as he was better known, was born in this vicinity and went to the States early in life and joined the Standard Oil Company of New York. He served with them until he was pensioned off some few years ago. He had been in the habit of spending his summers here with his brother, and for some years had remained all year round. Following closely the death of his brother, Will, who passed away a few months ago, his passing comes as a severe shock to his many relatives and friends here and in the States.

Mr. Stannis Lapierre passed away at her home here on Tuesday, November 27th, in her seventy-first year. Mrs. Lapierre had been ill for more than a year and at times her condition was very serious but she would rally again until her strength ebbed and she was no longer able to fight off the attacks. At the time of her death all her large family were at her bedside. Mrs. Lapierre, long known as Aunt Mary, will be sorely missed by all who knew her. Her funeral to the Church of the Little Flower, a few yards from her home, was a large one and was held on Thursday morning, November 29th where High Mass was sung by her pastor, Father McKenna who had visited and comforted her so many times. She was laid to rest in the Little Flower Cemetery where scores of friends will visit her grave. She leaves to mourn besides her husband who with her celebrated their golden wedding two years ago, six daughters, all married, and three married sons.

Montague High School Teachers Are Entertained

The teaching staff of the Montague High School was venerated a reception by the Home and School Association at the A. D. MacKenzie Hall last evening, at which there was a large attendance of parents, friends and teachers.

On behalf of the association, Rev. F. N. Young welcomed the teachers to the social evening, and expressed the hope that they would find their associations in Montague pleasant ones, and assured them that the Home and School Association would support them in all their endeavors.

As Mrs. Ralph Beck sang a humorous song each member of the teaching staff took his or her place at the front of the hall where each was presented with a gift; "An Apple For The Teacher". Mrs. Watterworth responded on behalf of the teachers with a delightful reading "A Hundred Years ago."

Everyone enjoyed a hearty sing-song led by Mrs. Ralph Beck, with Miss Peggy Beck as piano accompanist. A quartette, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Beck and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Coffin, melodiously sang several harmonious selections, and a duet by Mrs. Beck and Mrs. Coffin was very much enjoyed by the appreciative audience. A musical contest was won by Mrs. Minnie MacDonald and Mrs. Gerald Jardine. Several other contests were conducted by Mr. Young and caused a great deal of merriment.

A delicious lunch was served by a committee of the ladies, convened by Mrs. Horace Fraser. On behalf of the teachers, the principal, Mr. Vernon MacLean, expressed the sincere appreciation of the staff to the association for

Souris and Vicinity

A fair crowd attended the card party in St. Mary's Hall on Monday night, November 26th.

Except for the lack of electricity the Town fared well in spite of the storm on Tuesday, November 27. Veteran fishermen claim the tide was the highest on that day that they had seen for the past fifty years.

The erection of the new "Way of the Cross" in St. Mary's Convent Chapel was held on Friday, November 30th at 3 P. M. Right Rev. J. A. Murphy officiated at the service and Rev. P. G. Murmahan preached an appropriate sermon. The convent choir sang hymns during the service. A large crowd attended.

The first class in Home Nursing will be held on December 7th. At a recent meeting the following committee were appointed: Mrs. M. J. McQuaid, Chairman. Miss Noonan, Mrs. Corkum, Mrs. Fougere, Mrs. Major Reid. Thirteen ladies have enrolled for the present course, which consists of ten classes. One class will be held each week in the Public Health room in the Town Hall. Miss Darran of the Public Health Department will conduct the first class. It is hoped that another group will be enrolled at a later date.

HOVE, England, Dec. 3—(Reuters)—George Henry Powell, whose "Pack Up Your Troubles In Your Old Kit Bag" was sung by Allied soldiers on every battlefield of the First World War, died today. He was 71. Powell put the song away as a failure after his brother, Felix, had set it to music in 1915. Later he entered it for a competition—and made a fortune in royalties.

Mr. George Bruce of East Baltic had the misfortune to lose his left arm at Basin Head on Monday, November 26th. Mr. Bruce was operating a hoisting machine at the wharf and it is thought his coat caught in the gears, hauling him into the machine. Mr. Bruce was taken to Souris Hospital where it was found necessary to remove the arm.

The installation of the officers of Souris Council, Knights of Columbus took place in the Council rooms on Sunday evening, November 25th. District Deputy Leo P. MacDonald, assisted by Mr. Preston Curley, installed the new officers. Mr. M. J. MacQuaid, State Deputy, gave a splendid report on the Supreme Convention, which was held in Pittsburgh, U. S. A., during the past summer, and which he attended.
