MUNYON'S RHEUMATISM CURE

Munyon's Rheumatism Cure is guaranteed to cure acute or muscular rheumatism in from one to five days. Sharp, shooting pains in any part of the body stopped by a few doses. A prompt, complete and permanent cure for lameness, soreness, stiff back and all pains in hips and loins. Chronic rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, or pains in the back are speedily cured. It seldom fails to give relief from one to two doses, and almost invariably cures before one bottle has been used. Price 25c. A separate cure for each disease. At all druggists, mostly 25c. a vial. Personal letters to Prof. Munyon, 11 and 13 Albert Street, Toronto, answered with free medical advice for any disease.

Nature makes the cures after all. Now and then she gets into a tight place and needs helping out. Things get started in the wrong direction. Something is needed to check disease and start the system in the right direction toward health. Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with hypophosphites can do just this. It strengthens the nerves, feeds famished tissues, and makes rich blood.

50c. and $1.00; all druggists. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, Toronto.

A TRAVELER IN FRANCE.

What He Saw, Did and Heard in a Railway Carriage. He was traveling in France, and he had comforted himself down in the corner of a first class railway compartment. He was alone in the carriage. The train, which was just on the point of starting, would run four hours without stopping. "Four hours' quiet, uninterrupted reading," he told himself, "accompanied by a fat cigar." And he purred at the prospect of reading and smoking—and smoking undisturbed by the quibbles of chance acquaintances. And he did everything so easily, so elegantly. He was a gentleman—an American gentleman. He placed a handful of papers by his side. He produced a jeweled cigar case from his breast pocket. He put a cigar between his lips. He closed the case with a snap and returned it to its resting place—slowly, calmly. From his trousers pocket he produced a pearl penknife, with which he clipped the cigar and then returned the knife to its resting place—calmly, slowly. From his waistcoat pocket—what a host of pockets men have, to be sure!—he produced a silver matchbox and struck a light. The guard blew his whistle. In dashed a young lady all breathless. She scrambled into the seat opposite the gentleman. The gentleman paused. The gentleman swore, but the young lady did not hear him. The train glided out of the station. The young lady arranged her skirts, and as she did she saw the match burn to the end. She saw the match fall from the gentleman's hand. She saw the cigar case produced, the cigar replaced among its fragrant companions and the case returned to the pocket. She chuckled—almost aloud. He swore—almost aloud. He buried himself in his paper. She laughed outright. He looked up. And what did he see? He saw a little, neatly gloved hand find its way into a tailor made skirt pocket. He saw the hand embracing the daintiest of little cigarette cases and a gold matchbox en suite. He saw a cigarette between the first and second fingers of the left hand and a match between the finger and thumb of the right. And what did he hear? "I hope monsieur does not object to smoke."—Boston Budget.

THE OPERA.

The glitter of diamonds and big, bright eyes rival each other in a box there. And the smiling red mouth which always defines the old, old story of heartache and care, And the spirit which ever defies. But the shine of tears in her brooding eyes. It is the jewels which gleam in her hair, While I feel that her coldness is only lies, That such routine she can hardly bear, For her pale face droops as the voices rise. I wonder if memory sings a lay Of last winter's sport and an ardent boy, And the darling moods of that passionate day When she won and maddened her favorite toy. Then left him alone and rode away. —Irene Osgood in Vanity Fair.

THE HUTCHINSON LETTERS.

Franklin Would Never Reveal How He Obtained the Documents. High officials in Massachusetts had in private letters to the secretary of George Grenville discussed in bitter terms the liberal movement in the colony and had recommended coercive measures on the part of the home government. These letters, in some unexplained way, fell into Franklin's hands, and he felt it duty bound to send them to Boston for inspection by the popular leaders. As might have been expected, they caused a great furor both in Massachusetts and in England, and in the latter country a dispute between two gentlemen as to how they had been obtained led to a nearly fatal duel. Franklin now intervened, stated that he had forwarded the letters, but refused to say how he came by them and faced the storm of popular disfavor as calmly as only a philosopher could. He was examined before the privy council, insulted in a scurrilous and shameful manner by the solicitor general, Wedderburn, and the councilors themselves, dismissed from his postmastership and deprived of much of the public respect that had been previously shown him, but not of the self respect that marked his behavior throughout the entire affair. His conduct has since been defended and reprobated and must always, in one particular, be hard to characterize. Our final verdict must plainly depend on a knowledge of how he got the letters, but this is just what he never would reveal. We are therefore left to infer from Franklin's character whether he would have taken them in an improper way. He himself certainly believed that he had done nothing wrong, but it remains to be determined whether he was an absolutely fair judge of what a gentleman should have done under the circumstances. From a purely political point of view he stands abundantly justified. Nine-tenths of the English and American statesmen of the time would have taken the letters gladly and asked no inconvenient questions as to how they were obtained. But would Burke or Washington have done so? The answer cannot be doubtful. Neither Burke nor Washington would have touched the papers without being first convinced that the person offering them came by them honestly and being provided with proper safeguards for his own personal honor.—Professor W. P. Trent in McClure's.

A PRIVATE DETECTIVE

After a Government Official. We are in the Dairy Supply business to-day, notwithstanding the unfair competition of an official whose travelling expenses are paid out of the public funds. We pay our own, and will compete with any of the Quebec houses thus represented, for quality of workmanship in cheese vats, cream vats, either single or duplex, portable or stationary, tempering or receiving vats, and all other Dairy Supplies in stock or to order at short notice. We have on hand Alpha Separators which return more money to the patrons than any other. Separator oil that will insure safer running at extreme speed than any other on the market. Butter Boxes for storing and shipping butter in. Dairy plants that will run without an expert engineer on hand. Boilers that will save fuel over any other that has been imported so far. Engines that do not require to be driven to extreme speed to obtain enough power. All work warranted for one year. Call at our up town store in the Temple, Grafton St. Charlottetown.

An Expert in Stale Lager.
 A well known newspaper man was once a witness in the police court in a case in which a saloon keeper was charged with selling lager beer during the prohibition era. Captain Tom Glenn appeared for the defendant. The reporter was placed on the stand for the prosecution. The witness testified to having tasted the beer, which was being sold under the name of "rice beer," after it was brought to the police station and swore to the best of his judgment that it was stale lager beer. Captain Glenn took the witness and smiled confidently as he asked: "You say it was stale lager beer you tasted?" placing a heavy emphasis on the word "stale." "Yes, sir." "Isn't it true that people who drink lager beer always drink it fresh?" "Yes, sir, that is true." "Then tell the court how you ever became an expert on stale beer." The question seemed a clincher, but the reporter composedly replied: "When I was a youth, my father used to keep keg beer at home in summer, and on account of my age did not allow me to drink it. When the keg became flat or stale, it was rolled under the woodshed and a fresh one put on tap. I would go to the woodshed at the eventide and partake freely of what was left in the discarded kegs. In fact, you might say, Captain Glenn, that I was raised on stale lager beer." The witness was told to "come down."—Atlanta Constitution.
