Two Vital Changes Make For Decisive Fashion Season

By PEGGY MASSIN
PARIS (Reuters)—The Paris fall and winter collections of 1954 mark this as a decisive season in the history of fashion.

At first glance, it may not appear as revolutionary as the "New Look" of 1947, but the fact is that Christian Dior and other leaders have made two vitally important changes in the silhouette. The bustline is diminished, and the torso is elongated to the top of the hips.

These trends, tagged the "string-bean look" come to the fore in modified adaptations of the fashions of 1920s. The waistline is loose but its position is at least suggested; necklines are higher and the bosom is definitely played down. Shoulders are narrower, the effect emphasized by mounted sleeves.

The focal point drops to the hips, with low belts, horizontal banding and skirts, pleated or willow straight, that are set on at a lower line.

HARD TO WEAR
This silhouette emerges as the high fashion news of the season. It is discreetly planted in the collections among basic, wearable clothes, that designers continue to feature for "bread and butter sales." The departure is radical; it is hard to wear, but worn properly, it is intensely chic.

Suits and coats adhere to softly tailored and straighter lines. Suit basques are drastically shortened, or contrastingly drop to three-quarter length. Dior endorses a new, long-funnel jacket, inspired by 19th century riding habits.

Coats are narrow. Dior develops pencil slim coats, often derived from the clutch capes of the 20s. Formal clothes offer a choice between the "slinky" gowns continuing the hipped waistline, sweeping back effects of the swan silhouette, or the newer, slender, middy or low waisted sheaths.

Ankle lengths are stressed in every house, with matching fabric pumps and giant shoe buckles again recalling the 20s.

MOULD BODY
Dior's short theatre dresses are extravagantly full or mould the body in heavily embroidered, oriental-inspired sheaths.

Fur appears on everything. Classic polo coats take luxurious mink linings; dresses affect giant satin-trimmed collars in fur which double over the collarless coats; entire dinner or cocktail dresses are made of supple flat furs such as broadtail. The climax of this exciting story is Pierre Balmain's mantled shirtdress in white ermine.

Bright red leads the parade of color, ranging from fruit and flower shades into deep and mellow wines and cerulean and electric blues.

PREMATURE SATISFACTION

A certain declarer in a duplicate game thought he had done pretty well to make four hearts on the following hand, but he was not so pleased when he consulted the travelling score-sheet.

North dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♠ 8	♥ 10 5 4 2
♦ A K 6	♣ J 10 3
♠ A Q 7 5 4	♥ 9 8 3
♦ 5 3 2	♣ Q J 10

♠ K J 9 7
♥ 5 2
♦ K J 6
♠ A K 9 7

This was the bidding at quite a few tables:

North	East	South	West
1♠	Pass	1♥	Dbl.
2♠	Pass	3♥	Pass
4♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

At the table referred to, the club king was led and two more rounds of the suit were played, South ruffing. Now this declarer cashed the spade ace and ruffed a spade with dummy's low trump, then ruffed the club and took the diamond finesse. When the diamond queen held, declarer cashed the diamond ace, ruffed a diamond, and resumed the cross-ruff with spades and diamonds. This technique produced the required 10 tricks, and (to repeat) South felt that he had done well enough in, first, reaching the four-heart contract and, second, bringing it home.

The fact was, however, that the plan this declarer adopted was not the best, particularly at match-point play where an extra trick

A New Flavor Booster Extends the Use of Coffee

By IDA BAILEY ALLEN

A NEW FLAVOR BOOSTER EXTENDS THE USE OF COFFEE

WHILE homemakers in this country have been fretting over the high cost of coffee, homemakers in Europe had the solution long ago. They knew how to make good coffee with only a rounded tablespoon of medium grind per cup.

Not Chicory

Of course, chicory has been used in some countries, including our own, to stretch the use of coffee. But this "solution" is different. It comes from Holland, where it has been in use since 1867. It is now packaged in this country by an American firm, is fast going on sale in food stores throughout the country, and has already won wide use on airlines and institutions.

"But what is it?" you ask. Merely a perfectly balanced combination of caramelized starch (which gives color, and adds flavor without sweetness), with calcium phosphate which is an organic mineral combination, a natural ingredient in many foods. This combination has the happy faculty of boosting natural coffee flavor.

Add to Coffee

Just thoroughly mix one rounded tablespoon (one one-fifth ounce) of this coffee flavor amplifier with one pound or medium grind coffee. Make as usual—but with only half the usual amount of coffee!

It works equally well with powdered instant coffee. In making this test, we added one-sixteenth teaspoon or a few grains of the flavor amplifier with one-half teaspoon powdered instant coffee, to one coffee cup or 6 ounces of boiling water.

Chickened Stuffed Squash

Deviled Tomato Salads

Hot or Iced Coffee or Tea Milk

Chicken-Stuffed Squash: Wash and hollow out 8 small turban squash. Boil gently 20 min. in salted water to cover. Drain and dry.

Dust the interiors with 1 tsp. salt and 1/4 tsp. pepper. Fill with 1/2 c. small-diced chicken or ham blended with 1/4 c. thick cream sauce. Cover with 1/4 c. each fine, dry bread crumbs and grated cheese, mixed with the melted butter or margarine.

Place in a baking pan: pour in water, or meat stock to the depth of 1/4 in. Bake 25 min. in a moderate oven, 350-375 degrees F., or until fork-tender. Serve 1 to a person. Garnish with mushroom or Danish sauce and parsley.

Pineapple Gel: Add 1 1/2 envelopes unflavored gelatin to 1/2 cup cold water. Let stand 5 min. Meanwhile, bring 1 c. canned pineapple juice to a boil. Add the gelatin; stir until dissolved. Then add 1/2 lbs. lemon juice and 1 c. additional unadorned pineapple juice. Taste, and add sugar, if necessary.

Transfer to custard cups. Refrigerate until firm, about 4 hrs. Unmold and serve plain; with a topping of whipped cream; or with a sauce of stewed, sweetened red plums, stoned cherries, or blueberries.

For each person, put 2 slices tomato (sliced thin) in a spreader. Spread with a thin spread of a little table mustard. Top each with mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce.

counts for so much, and three other Souths did substantially better. Their suits and ties were of clubs were led originally. They ruffed the third and immediately tried out the diamond finesse. Then, after cashing the diamond ace, they ruffed, a third round of diamonds, and happily noted the 3-3 break.

Now, with two good diamonds waiting in dummy, they properly took the risk of laying down the queen of trumps and leading to dummy's king. If trumps had not broken 3-2 they would have been in trouble, but "percentage" was in their favor and worked out. The trump ace drew the remaining trumps, and when the two dia-

Measles and Nephrosis

WHEN a child from one-and-a-half to four years of age has a puffiness about the eyes on awakening, and later develops a swelling throughout the body, he may be suffering from the disease known as nephrosis. He is usually pale because of an accompanying anemia, very irritable, unwilling to eat, and "pot-bellied" because of the accumulation of fluid within the abdomen.

The cause of nephrosis is unknown. However, it seems that the kidneys lose their ability to hold back the albumin within the blood. The urine is found to contain a large amount of albumin and the blood almost none. Since albumin is necessary in order to keep the fluids within the blood vessels, much of the serum seeps into the tissues and thus causes the swelling.

Until a short time ago, the treatment of nephrosis was concerned almost exclusively with trying to reduce the swelling. Albumin and other substances were given into the veins in order to expand the amount of solids and pull the fluids back into the blood vessels.

Measles May Cure

An interesting fact about this disease is that infection with a virus disease such as measles sometimes leads to complete and permanent recovery. Therefore, children suffering from nephrosis may be exposed to measles cases.

Hormones Effective

Recently it was shown that the new hormones, corticotropin and glucocorticoids, are very effective in bringing remissions and in some cases, recovery. Severe bacterial infections do sometimes cause relapses. Permanent remissions occur, without permanent damage, in as many as 50 per cent of the cases.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mrs. J. N.: Is it true that if frozen juices are allowed to defrost several times, they will lose some of the nutritional value which they possess?

Answer: The amount of Vitamin C in frozen juices is definitely altered if the juices are allowed to defrost repeatedly.

monds were cashed, West was squeezed. He had to keep the club nine against dummy's eight, and therefore had to blank the spade king. It was then quite simple for the declarer to lead directly to the spade ace and win an overtrick with the queen of spades.

ELLEN'S DIARY

by an Island Farmer's Wife

"The parcel of a completed day" know, "A little old woman" carrying a basket of fresh-dug potatoes along a farm-lane and born in next-to-machineless days?

The week so good to us; the day without a tear or a cry, or a hitch in the haying to mar the lovely hours, we bring back... lived and done with this Eventide Prayer:

"I bring Thee now, the parcel of a completed day. For I have wrapped it in my thoughts, tied it with my acts and stored it in the purposes for which I live.

As the evening falls and while I seek Thee in prayer, grant unto me the joy of good friends, the curative power of new interests, the peace of a quiet heart.

Bestow upon me, light as darkness comes—
Light not of the sun, but of the soul, not for the eye but for the mind.

Light by which to judge the errors and the wisdom of the day's work.
Light for the path that the soul must find in the tangled ways of coming days.
And grant Thou again, the healing touch of sleep."
