

Summer Idyl.

He was a decidedly poetical looking chap, from head to foot. He wore eye-glasses and had curly hair. By gazing upon him you could almost tell the exact number of sonnets contained in his pocket. He had on a blue flannel suit and a pleasant smile. She was a country maiden, practical and innocent. They walked down a fragrant meadow and paused beneath a spreading oak. He was the first to break the silence.

'Isn't this lovely?'
'O, ain't it?' she replied
'Yes,' he went on, as he planted his chin in one hand and contemplated the vista of skyland, 'this is simply divine. To sit here and breathe the soft, cool, summer wind, fraught with the charming fragrance of violet and rose is just entrancing.'

She said nothing.
'Isn't that a majestic mountain over there towering into the fleecy clouds? Isn't that a lovely little brook pattering in baby syllables over the innocent little pebbles?'

'Kinder,' she responded.
'Yes,' he went on, as he planted his chin in the other hand for a change, 'summer is the heaven of the year. Just look at those happy birds darting through the air from tree to tree and flooding the valley with exquisite bursts of song. Wouldn't you like to be a bird, pet?'

'I'd rather be a girl and eat ice-cream,' she replied, with a twinkle of Arcadian simplicity in her merry hazel eye.

This seemed to ruffle the poet considerably, but he managed to regain his mental equilibrium sufficiently.

'Behold those golden winged butterflies; don't they fly languidly, as though their lives are to be one smooth period of bliss and uninterrupted happiness?'

'Yes,' she responded, 'and they flap their wings like doormats, don't they?'

After ten minutes of silence of the most profound description he ventured to speak again.

'And there go the merry bees in golden flutillas, coquetting with the breeze-swayed flowers.'

She kept still.

'But soon all these pretty things will vanish like a lover's dream. The flowers will fade, the leaves will fall, the birds will migrate, and the emerald tapestry of the snowflake. The lillies will vanish from the lake, and the sunset will glimmer on the barren limb and melt the snow in the empty nest.'

He paused for breath, and she whispered:

'And then we'll have to indulge in buckwheat cakes and heavy undercloths, won't we?'

He couldn't go any further with his remarks, so they got up and wandered away.

False Impression.

It is generally supposed by physicians and the people generally that Dyspepsia can not invariably be cured, but we are pleased to say that GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER has never, to our knowledge, failed to cure Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint in all its forms, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Headache, palpitation of the heart, Indigestion, bad taste in the mouth, &c. CATARRH.

Constitutional Catarrh Remedy CURES CATARRH.

Hear what a Reverend Gentleman says of the Constitutional Remedy.

T. J. B. HARDING, Esq., Brockville, Ont.:—
DEAR SIR—It is now two years since your "Constitutional Catarrh Remedy" was introduced to me. I have waited this long to see if the cure would remain permanent before doing this, my duty, to you, as at first the happy effects seemed to me to be "too good to be true."

I was afflicted in my head for years before I suspected it to be Catarrh. In reading in your Circular I saw my case described in many particulars. The inward "drop" from the head had become very disagreeable, and a choking sensation often preventing me from lying long. I would feel like smothering and be compelled to sit up in the bed. My health and spirits were seriously affected. When your agent came to Walkertown in August, 1876, I secured three bottles. Before I had used a quarter of the contents of one bottle I found decided relief, and when I had used two bottles and a third, I quit taking it, feeling quite cured of that ailment, and have not used any since until of late I have taken some for a cold in my head.

A sense of duty to sufferers from that loathsome disease, Catarrh, prompts me to send you this Certificate, unsolicited, with leave to make what use of it you may see proper. Yours truly,

W. TINDALL, Methodist Minister.
