WE MUST BE READY

Our Jubilee efforts must not fail. We have paid our way during the last few years because half the world is closed against us. If China should reopen—not an impossible happening—or if Eastern Europe should open more widely to us, would we be ready? The future is in the hands of God. We must be ready. Let us then in this Third Jubilee re-dedicate ourselves and in addition use our consecrated imagination—anything may happen.

By your prayers and gifts plan to share in the work of the Bible Society.

Cutcliffe-Lynds Wedding Today

Trinity United Church, Charlottetown will be the scene of the marriage at ten thirty o'clock this morning of Helen Anita Lynds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Lynds of Charlottetown to John Sinclair Cutcliffe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allie B. Cutcliffe, also of Charlottetown.

The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. A. Frank MacLean. Large baskets of white gladioli and white tapers in silver candelabras will form the setting for the ceremony.

Mr. Paul Cudmore will play the wedding music, and the soloist will be Miss Betty Jean Beer who will sing the Lord's Prayer before the ceremony and "Benedicite" during the signing of the register.

The bridal party will enter the church to the strains of "Lohengrin Wedding March" and the recessional will be the wedding march from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream."

The bride, to be given in marriage by her father, is wearing an exquisite gown of satin veiled with a billowing skirt of nylon tulle which flows from a beautifully sculptured bodice of hand-clipped Chantilly lace. Her coronet of nylon tulle and Chantilly lace, trimmed with rhinestones and pearls, tops her chapel length veil of French illusion with applique inserts of lace. She will carry a cascade of white orchids.

The bride's attendants, Miss Jeanine Whitehead as maid of honor and Miss Velma Andrews and Miss Barbara Herring as bridesmaids will wear gowns of white nylon tulle over taffeta with cascades of nylon tulle in shades of blue, yellow and pink respectively. Their ensembles will be completed by head-dresses of matching tulle, and they will carry nosegays of mixed flowers.

The groom will be attended by Mr. George Worth, while ushering will be Mr. John Dingwell, Mr. Blair Mutch, Mr. Garth Herring and Mr. Ralph Whitehead.

The bride's mother has chosen for the day's festivities a dress of navy crepe with white and navy accessories and a corsage of Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Cutcliffe has chosen a dress of rose crepe and lace with which she will wear navy and white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

A reception at Villa Waters will follow the ceremony at which the toast to the bride will be proposed by Rev. Mr. MacLean and will be responded to by the groom.

The bride's table, arranged with a lace table cloth and pink tapers in silver candelabra, will be centered with a three tier wedding cake encircled with tulle and Sweetheart roses. Assisting in serving will be Mrs. Biola Carter, Miss Marion Larter, Miss Anna Partridge, Miss Marleen Warren and Miss Theresa Malone. Miss Marie Gilant will be in charge of the guest book.

The bride and groom are leaving on a trip to New Hampshire and New York, the bride wearing a navy box suit with top coat of pink and navy and pink and navy accessories with a corsage of Sweetheart roses. On returning to Charlottetown Mr. and Mrs. Cutcliffe will take up residence in their apartment on Queen St.

by Miriam Hyde. Minutes and roll call by Ruth MacPhail. Readings by Eleanor Hyde and Laurette MacLean. A chapter from "many hands in many lands," was read by Mrs. Charles Hyde. Easter collection was received and amounted to $2.60. Millard Clow and Laurette MacLean placed money in birthday box.

Meeting closed with singing "A little seed lay fast asleep," and Mizpah benediction. Lunch was served and Mrs. Stewart Millar donated a treat of candy.

EXTENSION DEPARTMENT

The avowed purpose of the Extension Department of St. Dunstan's College has always been to help the "common man" — the farmers, the fisherman, the laborer, the clerk and all others of like status who actually create the giant portion of the country's wealth, but who, because of the economic situation, control but a small portion of that wealth. When Reverend Michael E. Francis became the first full time Director of the Extension Department, in 1942, he set himself to the task assigned and with characteristic zeal he devoted himself day and night to the cause of the "common man" of Prince Edward Island.

Credit Union Organization had come a long way, but with the advance of the idea, book-keeping experience had not kept pace. Father Francis' many years of experience both as a country teacher and as a professor at Saint Dunstan's came to his rescue in these years as he taught young and old from one end of the Island to the other how to keep records of their transactions and how to make these records tell them the financial story of their year's work. His pupils were honest men, and men of brilliant mind and amazing memory, but they were untrained. They were Prince Edward Islands greatest asset — her "common men" — whom St. Dunstan's, through the Extension Department and Father Francis, wished to help.

If the people could not come to the College even for a Short Course then the Short Course must be brought to the people. Father Francis organized courses in every center that asked to have them. In his first year's work we have accounts of courses of three or four days duration at Morell, Rustico, Alberton, O'Leary, Georgetown, Borden, St. Peter's, Egmont Bay, and South Rustico. At these courses lectures and classes in Credit Union, Cooperatives of various sorts; Elementary Book-keeping, English, etc., would be held.

Many and distinguished were the visiting lecturers who devoted both time and talents to this great educational task.

With the development of the Co-operative Movement in Prince Edward Island the work which was pioneered by the College Extension Department was more and more sub-divided and taken over by the various newly formed sub-divisions such as the Credit Union League, the Co-operative Union, The Prince Edward Island Fishermen's Association, etc. With none of these does the Extension Department have any organized connection. They are businesses and St. Dunstan's still concerned only with education.

During recent years under its present Director, Reverend William Simpson, who succeeded Father Francis in that post in 1951, the Extension Department has reverted to its tried and tested Short Course Policy. Short Courses, especially for fishermen form an important part of the Extension Department Program.

Thoughts For Our Time

By His Eminence Cardinal McGuigan
(Copyright)

The world today is in desperate need of leaders who love God. The age which lies before us is one of the immense, hitherto undreamed of, possibilities for mankind. The technique of mass production, of scientific planning and the advanced methods of farming, combined with the discovery of the amazing forces locked up within a grain of dust, opens up for the first time in history the possibility of a decent human existence on the material plane. Men of vision have stepped quickly to take up the challenge and are at work even today to bring the fruits to all men everywhere.

Unfortunately there loom up at once the great forces of opposition to such progress. The world's economy is apathetic and opposition is permitted to the exchange of goods on a universal scale. And there is the sad scandal of huge surpluses of foods and clothing in some lands and monstrous poverty and squalor in others. Although great statesmen have attempted to bridge this gap, to bring to these impoverished lands the necessary supplies urgently needed today, and the know-how and equipment to raise their standards, yet these attempts have hardly as yet scratched the surface. Apathy and opposition are actively at work to sabotage these great humanitarian efforts.

One of the greatest tragedies of the age we live in is the diabolical anti-human force that has been unleashed. We have seen this force at work organizing the world along the lines of a materialistic philosophy. First it was at the service of the "idea" of the super-race; now, it promotes the world revolution and a society of propertyless slaves at the mercy of the all-embracing state, which seeks to satisfy their every longing—except the longings of the heart for love and freedom and God.

Because of the great drive of those who seek to promote the godless, socialist world of the future, the very forces which we have discovered in nature, in science and especially in the arts of communication—the newspaper, radio, cinema, and TV—are now a grave potential danger to us. Just at a time when God-fearing men of good will began to work out their plans to use things to promote the ideal of a decent life for everyone in the world, together with the fruits of the learning and wisdom of the ages being made available, they are confronted with opposition and apathy of selfish interest and greed at home, and with satanic forces abroad.

It is one of the ironies of our time that there is ever present a danger of economic recession and unemployment and crisis at home because we produce more than we need or can use at home. One solution is to stimulate our desires for more and more comforts and luxuries. But this is a false solution. A people which has too much comfort, too many of the material goods of life, is in serious danger of becoming soft, to be bored with life, to have no purpose. A people with its heart too attached to the comforts and luxuries of life cannot raise its mind to the higher things.

The happiest men in the world have always been those who schooled themselves to need very little of material possessions, but to desire with an infinite desire the spiritual goods of wisdom, knowledge and love. We must certainly keep our production of food and goods at a high level to ensure full employment. We are still obliged to struggle against poverty and hunger and to further the development of backward areas everywhere. We are told that such a program could "mop-up" our surpluses effectively for generations to come. This would be our greatest proof of sincerity of purpose in promoting the spiritual ideals of man everywhere.

An even greater irony of our time is that we are spending many times more of our labour and goods for the production of arms than we are spending for education, government, food and clothing. A fraction of the money spent for defense would make available a decent life for the desperately poor peoples of other lands who live a subhuman life; it would be of great help for the often unrecognized and desperately poor among us here in our own land—those who must live in badly crowded dwellings in constant danger of disease and immorality.

Yet when far-seeing statesmen try, as they have been earnestly doing since the close of the second World War, to achieve disarmament, they have been consistently blocked by the proponents of the godless socialist world revolution. These latter, while making speeches in favor of peace and disarmament, have refused to allow any inspection of arms or armies in their countries. They have been keeping the largest standing armies in the world for the purpose of aggression and have aggrandized their territories in the past nine years of "peace" by conquering a dozen nations and a billion people.
