WHAT THE DRAMA COST

RUNNING A THEATRE IN THE EARLY YEARS OF THE CENTURY.

When Kemble Lived $4,000 a Week Was Required to Run Drury Lane—The Salary Paid to the Stars of Long Ago—A Profitable Investment.

If one were asked off handed, to express an opinion in regard to the relative cost of running a theatre during the early years of the century and to day it is safe to predict that unless he had just looked up the matter, even an experienced manager would say at once that the amount of money spent and handled in a first-class playhouse to-day would far exceed that spent a century ago. Just a few minutes of the playhouse find that each age has seen its playhouses meet its special requirements, and that each generation had had the same degeneration of the theatre to deplore, so it seems that after all, the expense of running a theatre bears the same relative proportion to the community in each age. A very excellent proof of this was found in the other day in a book published half a century ago, long since out of print, and never very widely circulated, on the "Life of the Duchess of St. Albans," whose first husband was Thomas Coutts, the rich banker. There falls in the course of the expenses of running Drury Lane in 1802, when John Philip Kemble was the manager, is published Mr. Kemble, as leading actor of the company, drew a salary of $200 a week, with an additional $7500 stage manager. The letter was paid all the year round, the former during the theatrical season; it made an average income during his control there of $10,000 a year. Mrs. Siddons received $200 a week during the season, about $5,000 a year. Leading actor like Kemble, but more than favorably with the salaries in England to-day. English leading men in the provinces receive salaries to-day ranging from $17.50 to $32.50, the figures being larger, of course, in London, and in this country the prices range all the way from $50 to $500, with notable exceptions, usually paid to English actors, like the $750 that was paid Charles Coghlan when he came here to star under John Stetson's management and the $500 that was paid Leonard Hayne last year, when he staged "The Prodigal Daughter," and played the hero. Boyce's salary in London was $125. Leading women in England got from $20 to $40 in the provinces, more in London. English comedians got from $20 to $30 a week, sopranos from $12.50 to $30, heavy men about the same figure as sopranos, but heavy women responsive to the public, more in London. ALLIED TO MANY ROYALTIES

The Hohenzollerns Inter-married With All European Ruling Families. It would be surprising indeed if the new chancellor were not free from prejudices of race, for, according to the New York Tribune, there is no family in Europe the international relationship of which is more extensive than that of Prince Hohenzollern.

There are Hohenzollerns who are married to Spanish grandees, and there are others who are wedded to patricians of Roman Catholism, while the chancellor and his brother Constantine, at Vienna, are married to Princesses Sayn-Wittgenstein, a house which may be considered as far more Russian than German.

As Well as Ever

After Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla Cured of a Serious Disease.

"I was suffering from what is known as Bright's disease for five years, and for days at a time I have been unable to straighten myself up. I was in bed for three weeks, during that time I had heaped applied and derived no benefit. Seeing Hood's Sarsaparilla advertised in the papers I decided to try a bottle. I found relief before I had finished taking half of a bottle. I got so much help from taking the first bottle that I decided to try another, and since taking the second bottle I feel as well as ever I did in my life."—GEO. MERRITT, Toronto, Ont.
