THE LIQUOR REGULATION ACT.

The Scott Act ceased to be in force in Charlottetown yesterday, and today there is no Scott Act law as far as this city is concerned. There is now no excuse whatever for the non-enforcement of the Liquor Regulation Act, which is unquestionably law; and it is to be hoped that its provisions will be rigidly enforced by the police force and the Stipendiary Magistrate. At six o'clock this afternoon all places where liquor is kept should be closed and no liquor sold after that hour until Monday. If any person does sell liquor after that time and before the legal hour for opening on Monday a penalty of one hundred dollars is imposed by the law. The police must see that this provision of the law is put in operation this evening.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

The Manitoba wheat yield is reported to be falling short of the expectations created by first reports.

Among the things the Ontario ministers are not explaining is how, in the accounts of an allegedly Christian statesmanly governed province, there should appear items of $32.17 for 309 corkscrews and $23.70 for packs of playing cards, but only $1.70 for four Testaments. It is time for a change.

Mr. Henry, the defeated Conservative candidate in South Brant, declared at a public meeting in Brantford the other night, that in return for the withdrawal of the petition against his opponent's election, the Liberals had withdrawn six against Conservative M. P's. Evidently the Liberals could not bear to have their corruption exposed.

The London Advertiser protests in the name of the great province of Ontario against the proposition that the Premier should take advantage of Sir Oliver Mowat's retirement to another office to fulfil his pledges to reduce the number of ministers. The Advertiser evidently thinks more of getting some friend advanced than of its party platform.

La Minerve (Montreal) enumerates nineteen promises which the Liberal party made prior to the last general elections, and which have not been carried out. One of these it says, was: "No more political favoritism, no more nepotism or improper influences, with Mr. Laurier as the head of the government." On this La Minerve comments as follows: "Yet Sir Richard Cartwright has found a place for his son, Mr. Scott for his nephew, Mr. Pelletier for his son, Mr. Blair for his brother-in-law, Mr. Fiset for his son, Mr. Cameron for his son-in-law and Mr. Sifton for his whole family except his mother-in-law whom he will send to the Klondike, at the government's expense, next spring."

The Northwest Review, the Roman Catholic organ, charges that the eastern Catholic gentleman recently appointed inspector of French schools by the Greenway Government, is carrying on an unjustifiable agitation in the districts of Manitoba. The paper continues: "Rumor has it that, far from inspecting any Catholic schools, he is trying to persuade the simple country folk that the Sovereign Pontiff is about to decide in favor of the Laurier-Greenway settlement. What is this but unjustifiable agitation? This conduct is more blameworthy in that the Holy Father, in an encyclical of the first of last month, disapproves of mixed schools, insists that the pupils should breathe a Catholic atmosphere, and requires that teachers be approved by ecclesiastical authority. Another grievance against this inspector is that according to common report, he pretends that he has been authorized to choose his own next-books. Is this winked at by the local government? If so it is a direct violation of the Advisory Board's regulations, or a tolerated exception that gives no assurance of lasting benefit." Rev. Father Cherrier warns all Catholics against allowing themselves to be caught in such transparent snares. Let them patiently bide their time and await, with firm hope, the forthcoming pronouncement of Leo XIII.

Miss Ernst, optician, finds that work warrants her stay in this city another week at least. Good training and an extended practical experience have qualified her to remedy the most defective vision where glasses will be of use. If your sight is failing or your eyes trouble you, come in and have them examined. No charge for consultation. First class work and material guaranteed. To give glasses when not needed is both dishonest and injurious to the permanency of her business. By previous arrangement parties can secure special hours for consultation. Office hours, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., at Capt. Samuel McRae's.

MISS BOOTH'S MEETING.

Sir,—The recent visit of Miss Eva Booth to our city was looked forward to with great interest by many of our people. In company with hundreds of others I went to the First Methodist Church on Wednesday evening last with pleasurable anticipations. On the very threshold of the church, however, I was painfully surprised to learn that several people were sent away by the person in charge of one of the doors because they had no silver to put on the collection plate. One old lady who offered two cents was told she must go home as the entrance fee was silver. A man from the country on hearing this picked up a donation he had previously placed on the plate with the remark, "I read somewhere that the widow's mite was taken as the greatest gift but it seems different here," and left in disgust. Upon enquiry I have learned that the church was given with the distinct understanding that no entrance fee should be charged, and that the service must be of a strictly religious character. If those in charge of the meeting had advertised an entertainment and hired a public hall in which to hold it there could have been no objection to a fee of admission. But for a professedly religious service held in a christian church and announced as a "Great Soul Saving Meeting" to turn anyone away was an outrage on the christian sense of the community.

The mode of raising money at the meeting on Wednesday evening by an entrance collection at the door, a collection which was not previously announced taken during the meeting and the sale of hymns and pictures both in the church and the vestibule is a feature of religious services that it is hoped the christian churches of this city will not soon imitate.

ON LOCKER.

A Notable Pair of Royalties.

King Christian and Queen Louisa of Denmark are a notable pair of royalties. In 1842 King Christian was a poor young officer in the Danish army, and when Queen Louisa married him in that year she did her own sewing and kept house in his practical sense. Between them they had a small income. In 1852 they became the rulers of Denmark, and their children have made exceedingly brilliant marriages. Their oldest daughter, Alexandra, married the Prince of Wales and some day may be queen of England. Their second daughter, Dagmar, is the dowager empress of Russia. One son, George, is king of Greece, and another son, Waldemar, will wed Princess Maria, a daughter of the Duc de Chartres, the Orleansist pretender to the throne of France.

MILK.

Milk should always be sipped slowly, so that, on reaching the stomach, it will be in the form of a sponge, through which the gastric juice can perform its duties properly. For dyspepsia the milk should be boiled. Cases of inflammation of the stomach have been cured by living on bread and milk alone for a time. The addition of a little lime water makes it still better.—Housewife.

What to Buy.

A young man once called upon Travers, the veteran Wall street operator, and said: "Mr. Travers, I have $30,000 in bank, which I obtained by mortgaging my house. As you know all about stocks, I have called to ask what I shall buy." Travers eyed him with that well known quizzical look of his and stammered, "B-b-buy th-th' mortgage."
