Reports Increasing Use Of Airfreight

Mr. Arven Saunders (above) sales representative for American Airlines in Boston, who is at present in Charlottetown and is visiting other centres in the Maritime Provinces for the purpose of bringing local business men and pleasure travellers up to date on the new passenger and freight service offered by the airlines in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Airfreight continues to be one of the fastest-growing services offered by his company, Mr. Saunders stated. It has developed from the "emergency shipment" stage and has become a routine method of transportation for many major industries. Many companies are organizing their production, distribution, warehousing and inventory systems around the use of airfreight.

Probably the outstanding innovation by his company in the past year, has been the transcontinental flights with DC-6 Flagships offered at low rates daily from New York via Chicago to Los Angeles.

Barn At Eldon Struck By Lightning

The quick thinking of an Eldon telephone operator was partly responsible for saving the home of Justin Van Iderstine, Eldon, when his barn was struck by lightning on Monday evening. Hearing the crash of the lightning struck the operator immediately informed the neighbors, and later put through a call to Roseberry for their fire-fighting equipment. Roseberry responded to the call very quickly and were instrumental in helping keep the fire from the house, some twenty yards from the barn.

In spite of all efforts, twelve pigs, two calves, a number of hens, the season's hay crop, and a considerable quantity of last year's grain were destroyed with the barn. A new chicken house was also burned. It is understood the loss is partially covered by insurance.

ATTACK NEAR

to the Chinju front. The Reds rampaged 10 miles beyond Chinju after seizing that gateway city, 55 miles west of Pusan Monday.

Pressure Strong

MacArthur's summary noted that pressure remained strong against 1st Cavalry positions where the Korean Communists are driving for a breakthrough to Taegu. At Yongdok on the east coast South Korean troops may have again taken the port city only 25 miles north of the U. S. beachhead at Pohang.

An American observation pilot cruising over the Yongdok front Tuesday reported that North Koreans had fallen back to positions 1,500 yards north of the ruined port.

MacArthur located the battle lines Tuesday as one mile south of Yongdok, seven miles north west of Andong, five miles southwest of Yecheon, thence to a point 10 miles southwest of Sangju when American troops of the 25th Tropic Lightning Division have dug in 20 miles north of the 1st Cavalry front around Kumchon.

Anchor Point Lost

Significantly, the new location of the line by headquarters omitted reference to Hamchang which had been a main anchor in thwarting the Communist southern push down the rail and road network to Kumchon. Hamchang is 30 air miles north of Kumchon.

This apparently confirmed earlier field dispatches that Hamchang had been infiltrated by the Reds. Headquarters said the line from Sangju continued one mile south-east of Kwannil, which is seven miles northwest of Kumchon. It then curves four miles northeast to Chirye and six miles southeast of Chinju in the extreme south.

Next to the critical push at Pusan, the most serious Red threat was to Taegu, provisional South Korean capital and important in the overall defence picture as hub of supply and communication lines.

SUBSTANTIAL

Continued from page 1 pointed out, because the print prices have been one to one and a quarter cents lower than the floor prices for solid butter. This has refrained the manufacturers from turning out any large quantities of print butter.

This situation existed during June and July when the butter production was at its peak. But when production starts declining and the price of prints becomes higher than the present floor price it is expected that print butter will move into the trade at a greater volume than at present.

Cheese Production

Cheese production for the first six months of this year was about 12 per cent below that of last year but Island farmers are receiving a record price for their cheese which is wholesaling at 37 cents a pound.

CRUCIAL SECTOR

Red Cross Obliterated

Down the road slowly came some ambulances. Big Red Crosses had been painted over or covered with mud. Americans found they only helped to draw Communist fire on the wounded. They don't even give cheers to South Koreans who pass in trucks.

Only little naked boys shout "Hi Joe huya. Okay Okay" in shrill voices. The nights on the front are more eerie and unnerving than the days by many degrees. There is a blackout in towns and along the roads and every shadow seems to hold a sniper or infiltration troops.

Charlottetown Blood Donors Reach 437 Mark

The Charlottetown Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic which was held at Provincial Red Cross Headquarters on Monday and Tuesday evening reached a successful conclusion at 12:30 noon yesterday with 417 donors registered. Between that time and the late evening 20 other volunteers reported only to find that they were a bit too late. However, they all promised to come back again in November when the next clinics will be held.

As there was no flying and no train connections, one of the Red Cross swimming instructors, Paul Cadmore, drove the local Blood Transfusion panel truck directly to Halifax with the 400 bottles of blood since it was necessary to get this shipment to Halifax immediately.

The rain which descended in such torrents on Tuesday morning was a blessing in more ways than one and did not dampen the spirits of the 124 volunteers who turned up as donors. Many of these donors were from the rural districts and might have found it impossible to attend except that the rain prevented them from attending to the hay-making, etc.

Early in the afternoon the Mobile Team left for Summerside for an evening clinic there at which the objective was to be 250 donors. This was the first time that Blood Donor Clinics were held at Red Cross Headquarters which lent itself admirably for the purpose as the new annex was used as the actual clinic room and easily accommodated the twenty beds.

In addition to the Mobile Team the Clinic was staffed by members of the Charlottetown Branch, Canadian Corps, of the Women's Work Committee, the Ladies Auxiliary of the Charlottetown Branch, Canadian Legion, and other volunteers as well as by members of the Red Cross staff.

It is to be hoped that the Clinics to be held at Summerside, Alberton, O'Leary, Tignish and Borden during the remainder of the week will prove to be as successful as the Charlottetown Clinics have been.

LONDON, Aug. 1 - (CP) - Mrs. Jean Irving, who came back to Britain after Canadian doctors gave her 14 months to live, died today in a London nursing home. She was 34. Mrs. Irving formerly lived in Hamilton, Ont. Her trip to Britain was financed by a country-wide appeal in Canada.

about the battle area is the South Korean peasants. They go about their work in the rice fields and in thatched roof villages completely oblivious to the conflict. Stranger still, they don't seem to have any feeling for Americans one way or the other. I have never seen people on whose behalf any army's fighting where there wasn't any measure of enthusiasm for that army. But there it doesn't show. They don't even give cheers to South Koreans who pass in trucks.

Only little naked boys shout "Hi Joe huya. Okay Okay" in shrill voices. The nights on the front are more eerie and unnerving than the days by many degrees. There is a blackout in towns and along the roads and every shadow seems to hold a sniper or infiltration troops.

LABOR MINISTER

Prime Minister Mackenzie King. Death of the Minister after a stretch of poor health took from the Government the man to whom it was looking to cope with a developing crisis in the country's railway-labor dispute.

Mr. Mitchell had been expected to play the key role in the almost-inevitable Government mediation in the dispute, with the possibility of a country-wide rail tie-up. He did that in 1948, bringing on a compromise.

Now, with indication pointing to a climax in August, an acting minister will have to step in. Expectations were this would be Health Minister Martin.

Worked Until Saturday - Though in indifferent health for some months, the Minister had been in harness up to last Saturday. Then, he suffered the first of what proved to be a series of fatal internal haemorrhages. He died at 2:25 A.M. E. D. T. today.

Less than a week ago, Mr. Mitchell had helped to bury Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, the man who took him into the Cabinet on Dec. 15, 1941. He was an honorary pall-bearer at his former chief's funeral services here and in Toronto.

Associates said today there was no doubt the wearying assignment of guiding Canada's expanding labor force through the turmoil of the war and the readjustment of the post-war years had sapped the strength of the burly Minister.

Had Set Record

When he died, he had held his portfolio - always a traditional target of criticism - for eight years, seven months and 15 days. That was longer than any labor minister in Commonwealth history.

Mr. Mitchell's death left three vacancies in the Commons - all Liberal. A week earlier, the Rimouski seat had been vacated by the death of Glason Belzil, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott. The other vacancy was created by the resignation of Georges Lapalme (Joliette-Montcalm-Assomption) to become Quebec Liberal leader.

Commons Standing:

Liberals 185; Progressive Conservatives 43; C.C.F. 13; Social Credit 10; Independent 5; Independent Liberal 3; vacant 3; total 252.

Popular Minister

In his years in the House, Mr. Mitchell was one of the Chamber's friendliest and best-liked members. Opposition critics ribbed him often. He took it all with a broad good-nature that dulled the edge of criticism.

His death drew tributes from labor and management, as well as from his Government colleagues.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said it would be a great loss, both to the Government and to the Canadian people.

President Percy Boughough of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada said he had more than measured up to "the most exacting job in the Government."

A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, which frequently has disagreed with the Government's labor policies, described the Minister's death as a great shock.

Donald Gordon, chairman and president of Canadian National Railways, spoke of his "long period of responsible and difficult public service" and said his homely wisdom would be hard to replace.

Luc, one of 14 children of Mr. and Mrs. Domina Provost, disappeared Monday when he apparently wandered in a patch of woods at the rear of the farmhouse.

FEDERAL CABINET

Continued from page 1 here two or three days. Cabinet meets at 2.30 P.M. EDT. for its regular weekly session. Government officials have been in discussion with U. N. headquarters in Lake Success over the past week on details of the group of offers of ground troops by other nations. A full report on these developments has been prepared by the External Affairs Department and will be placed before the Ministers.

The mere existence of the offers by Britain, Australia and New Zealand as well as certain non-commonwealth countries places a certain indirect pressure on Canada which has its reflections in Cabinet thinking.

Coupled with that is the harsh possibility feared by senior officers at defence headquarters, that there is a considerable chance the Americans will be driven out of Korea.

If the Communists do seize the whole peninsula, the pressure on Ottawa to expand its contribution would probably increase. A full-scale amphibious assault would then be in prospect.

Canada has already dispatched about 1,000 men, members of the crews of three destroyers and an R. C. A. F. transport squadron. Both units now have gone into operation on behalf of U. N.
