

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JANUARY 2, 1894.

A PRACTICABLE SCHEME.

THROUGH we claim the right to hold a different opinion, we are quite content that our esteemed contemporaries shall be happy in the thought that the Prohibition plebiscite was, in every respect, satisfactory to all temperance men throughout the Province.

First, as to prohibition. In the course of its article of Friday last, the Patriot says: "If the EXAMINER has any new invention which would break down the evil liquor traffic, such as would be enforced, let our contemporary try it out."

1. Absolute prohibition of the manufacture of alcohol. The liquor that is required can be imported.

2. The importation and sale of liquors to be restricted absolutely to bona fide druggists. (Liquors being strong drugs it is fitting that druggists should dispense them.)

3. All druggists to be duly qualified and registered as able to dispense medicines—men of good character and moderate habits, their qualifications to be ascertained by means of examinations to be held before competent persons, who shall grant to each successful candidate a certificate to that effect.

4. Anyone selling liquors or other drugs without such certificate, to be subject to the penalties and disabilities of the law.

5. All druggists to be sworn and bound under penalties not to sell liquor to a drunkard or any one addicted to the liquor habit, unless directed to do so by the prohibition of a physician in good standing, supplemented by the evidence of at least one reputable person in each district or person addicted to the liquor habit is seriously ill.

6. To persons of known temperate habits, liquors may be sold on requisition—a blank book of forms for which shall be kept at each drug store—such requisition to set forth the kind and quantity of the liquor required, the name of the person by whom required, and the reasons why required, and to be open at all times to the inspection of officers of the law.

7. Persons obtaining liquors on false pretences to be liable to the fines and penalties imposed on those who obtain goods or money under false pretences.

8. Each sale of liquor by a druggist to be limited to a quantity not larger than one quart.

9. Fines and penalties to range from $10 to $1,000.

10. Officers of the Customs Department to be charged with the duty of preventing the illegal importation of liquors, and officers of the Inland Revenue Department to be charged with the duty of preventing illegal sales.

It may be remarked that this proposal was, in 1888, submitted at a meeting which included some of our foremost temperance men, and heartily approved. It was subsequently embodied in an editorial article of THE EXAMINER, published at the time the Prohibition Commission was here. A summary of it was also given at the beginning of the recent campaign; but, it must, in the excitement of the time, have escaped our respected contemporaries' notice.

THE PLEBISCITE VOTE.

By inadvertence, the special votes in the political election were counted in the compilation made by THE EXAMINER concerning the result of the plebiscite. We regret the error, though it was one into which anyone (especially one writing in a hurry) might easily have fallen, and though it does not materially affect a point made by THE EXAMINER that a large proportion of the electors abstained from voting.

CHARLOTTETOWN HOSPITAL.

During the past year there were admitted to the Charlevoix Hospital 128 patients. Of this number, 42 were treated without any charge whatever. Fifty-nine were discharged well, thirty-three relieved, and nine died. There are still in the hospital fifteen patients.

Find out the Errors of the Past and Correct Them.

LAY YOUR PLANS FOR FUTURE NOW.

We Must Move With the Times or be Shouted.

The busy season is now over. The produce of the farmer is marketed, or snugly housed in barns or granaries to await the spring market.

The election has come and gone, and whether it pleases us or not, it is the verdict of the people, and we must submit. The holders are here and enjoyment is the order of the day.

Perhaps the best means of improvement, within our reach, is looking back to the year's collection of the city, but primarily from the industrial work of the city themselves.

Again, were we away attending conventions, tea parties, or any other meetings, for our own enjoyment or glory, while the village boy was eating the profits that we should have derived from our potato field?

But let us now find out and correct all our mistakes of the past, and be more watchful and studious in the future, and we will certainly succeed in our calling.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Sir,—In your issue of yesterday I find about half a column of reading matter copied from the New York Sun, headed "Difficulties in the Way of the Breaking of Benefits."

But it is not our duty to inform you and your readers, that while it is an accurate with reference to American accident insurance, it would be misleading and injurious to the business in Canada if it went uncontradicted.

In conclusion, I hope that Canadian exchange, at least who have copied from the New York Sun will embrace the first opportunity of contradicting it, and presenting our Canadian institutions in their true light.
