

Island May Get Plowing Meet

Dundas will be the site for the Canadian Plowing Championship meet in 1964 should the Canadian Plowing Council approve the invitation extended by the province last fall. Agriculture Minister Andrew MacIvor was hopeful yesterday that the island's best would receive favorable consideration. The president of the P. E. I. Plowing Council is Thera Ellis, O'Leary.

The Provincial Plowing Council recommended a meet to be held in the province last fall ago to the Canadian Council that the meet be awarded to the island's best would receive favorable consideration. The island was revived a little more than 20 years ago.

Traditional costumes, in the relative absence of the group is accompanied by Senator Dudley J. Leblanc.

Inquest Ordered In Highway Death

An inquest into the death of Betty Ann MacDonald, the 17-year-old girl killed Sunday night in a highway accident at Bear River North, G. S. A. was ordered by Coroner Dr. G. S. Inman of Montague.

Members of the jury are William Pierce, foreman, Stephen Cheverie, William Townshend, Roy Coffin, James Macintosh, Roy Campbell, and Joseph Hennessy.

Mr. Justice Bell in his remarks complimented Mr. Campbell on "the splendid marks in your studies" and said he was especially pleased to note that the new member of the Bar was remaining in this province to practice his profession. It is an honorable profession, and knowing your family and background and having watched your attention to detail I feel you are one of those who will go to the top." The judge concluded, three times called Mr. Campbell to the Bar. On the third call the new attorney entered the courtroom wearing a robe for the first time. On the petitions being granted he took the required oath followed by a renewal of the oath of allegiance to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth Second.

Acadians Hear
 Words Of Praise

QUEBEC (CP) — Provincial Secretary Rosa Arsenault congratulated Acadians in the United States and Canada Monday for remaining true to their traditions.

He said there are some 1,500,000 Acadians in North America, most of whom can speak French. Even those who no longer speak French have remained faithful to their traditions, he said.

Mr. Arsenault, of Acadian descent, was welcoming a group of 150 girls from Louisiana, via Sherbrooke, to the Acadian Day of Franchises, a five-year-old Indian circus elephant.

BIG FRANCES PATCHED UP

BLACKPOOL, England (CP)—Franches was patched up after taking enough anaesthetics to put 50 men to sleep and receiving 100 stitches to patch up her head.

Now she's convalescing on a daily diet of 40 loaves of bread, four dozen bananas, 15 pounds of carrots and six quarts of milk.

"It was the biggest job I've ever tackled," said George Towse, a veterinarian who worked four hours over the sleeping body of Franches, a five-year-old Indian circus elephant.

 A Centennial parade held with information about the big 1964 celebration is being prepared by a Centennial Committee for distribution next month, Dr. F. B. Macdonald, chairman, said this morning.

The booklet will be printed in color as well as black and white and will contain a wealth of information for the visitors to a 400-mile-long parade. It will include a full color picture of the Centennial Confederation Chamber will be featured.

Inside will be articles of lasting interest ranging from the full program of events for the year to a variety of historical sketches.

The booklet will be printed by University Press, in Fredericton, N.B.

HEAVY PROGRAM
 Including all the smaller and purely local celebrations to be held the program — even at this early date — includes literally hundreds of separate events. Many more will be added to the growing list as there are a number of communities which have not yet told the central committee their plans for the local events.

The big year will get underway with a crash January 1 when the Centennial Parade will traditionally hold at that day a bicentennial parade for the 150th anniversary of the first 100th birthday party to celebrate the first anniversary of Confederation.

During the following two months there will be a series of skating and winter carnival events will be staged as well as the special Burns Day celebrations.

STAGE BRIEF HERE
 The first week in March will see the island playing host to the Macdonald Prize for the Canadian curling championship, the first time the event has ever been held in Charlottetown. It will be followed that month by the Fat Stock Show and Sale and the Dominion Ice and Hockey Tournament for the latter sport show in Summerside.

The Battle of the Atlantic church parties for the Centennial church parade will be held in May preceding the holding of the annual Drama Festival with the Festival and arts money.

Other events during the year will be the Historical Pageant, Emont Bay and Mont Carmel Exhibition, Dundas Exhibition and Canadian Plowing Championships, the appearance of the Canadian Ballet Company, the Harvest Exhibition, the Centennial Trafalgar Ball and Remembrance Day celebrations.

In addition, approximately 90 conventions will be held here during the year.

C. A. ORFORD (left) special services officer, and George Cheverie, manager of the Charlottetown UIC office look over a table of statistics which indicate the limited job opportunities available for those applicants with less than a grade 10 education. The officials, Monday urged students to return to school and complete their education.

As the 1963-64 school term nears its opening date, National Employment Service officials have urged students to return to school and complete their education.

Jobs are easier to find for qualified trained applicants, G. W. Cheverie, manager of the Charlottetown National Employment Office, said today.

Quoting figures based on this week's employment statistics, Mr. Cheverie stated that 60 per cent of male, and 33 per cent of female applicants for work have less than grade ten education.

He said that this lack of formal education not only limits the job opportunities for these applicants, but prevents the learning of new skills or trades, as the entrance requirements for vocational training exclude those having less than grade ten.

C. A. Orford, special services officer in the Charlottetown local office stated that his work involves the counselling of first jobbers, young people registering for work for the first time. His experience is that the young person who stays in school, or learns a skill or trade in vocational training, presents less difficulty in being placed in a job.

GRADUATES PLACED
 An example of this, he said, is that every graduate of the 1963 class from the commercial course of the P.E.I. Vocational School has been placed in a job.

The youngster who leaves school too soon is placing himself in a position where he has no hope of advancement and is restricting his future to unskilled, seasonal work, with its pattern of unemployment and graduation loss of initiative, Mr. Orford said.

With the expansion of educational and training facilities in this province, through regional high schools, technical and vocational training, there is no limit for the young person who is determined to fit himself for any occupation or skill. Mr. Orford stated, so long as the student remains in school and attains the basic grade 10, he holds.

9-Year-Old
 Top Pianist

His name is Donald G. Campbell, and he plays the piano well. Donald, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Miller Campbell, 119 Nassau Street, Charlottetown, has just received word that he is the recipient of the Frederic Harris Silver Medal for a Maritime piano student standing first in the grade one examination of the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto, along with the medal, Donald receives a $25 scholarship. His mark is 97%.

This is the first time this boy has come to the Campbell family. Last year Donald's older sister, Pamela, took the same prize. Both the children are pupils of Mrs. Ralph Arsenault.

Neither of their parents play the piano, but there are two younger children in the family and it is expected that they will take to the instrument with the same ease.

"Does Donald practice much?" Yes, but "they push me to the stars."

Premier To Make
 Announcement

An announcement will be made today by Premier Walter R. Shaw.

The Premier would not elaborate on the nature of the announcement yesterday but it is believed to concern a report Saturday that his government is preparing to establish a large fish processing plant in the Georgetown area.

Rumors were current last week that a large northern fish processing firm was interested in setting up a subsidiary plant in Kings County.

Dedication Held At Rose Valley

A pulpit bible, a set of offering plates and a quantity of hymn books were dedicated by Rev. Thomas Evans at the service of worship in Rose Valley United Church Sunday evening.

"They were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers MacLeod, Charlottetown, and Mr. and Mrs. John K. MacLeod, Spring and Mr. and Mrs. James Frizor Stanchel, Mr. and Mrs. MacLeod formerly resident in Spring.

Special music for the service included two numbers, "The Love of God" and "Building for Eternity" by a quartet, comprising Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carver, Hazelbrook and Mr. and Mrs. Neil A. Matheson, Southport.

Blood Donor Clinics Set
 For S. Kings Co. Thursday

On Thursday next, August 22nd residents in the vicinity of Cardigan, Georgetown and Montague will have a fine opportunity to share in providing the Red Cross blood bank operating efficiently when Red Cross blood donors are held at the Cardigan Legion in the afternoon between 2 and 4, and at the Beatonville Farmers Bank in the morning from 8 to 10.

Both the Cardigan and Montague clinics are as in the past being sponsored by their respective branches of the Royal Canadian Legion, with the support of the Georgetown branch as well.

Monster Rally Planned
 For Gallants in 1964

A committee headed by Paul Gallant, Souris has been named to plan a monster rally of Gallants as a part of next year's Confederation Centennial celebrations. It was learned yesterday. The committee comprises one person by the name of Gallant from every parish in the province.

The decision came as a result of a gathering in Gallants held at Rustico recently when 700 to 800 people gathered near the spot where the late Prince Gallant, Prince Edward Island operated, and the old building is still in place.

Professor J. Henri Blanchard, Charlottetown presided at that gathering and Paul Gallant, a French historian from Rimouski, Quebec was the main speaker.

"The gathering was a distinct success, it was larger than we anticipated," Mr. Gallant said yesterday.

The oldest white family on the island, the Gallants trace their early beginnings back to the early 1700's and Michel Hache's name was later changed to Gallant—and his wife Ann Cormier sponsored on June 11, 1721 the baptism of first child to be baptized in this province. The child was baptized a missionary priest, Reza de Breeley.

The gathering of the Gallants will be held in Charlottetown next year, the Souris man said.

Fiveailed
 For Refusal
 To Cut Brush

CANTON, N.Y. (AP) — Five men who refused to cut brush while on a work-related project were sentenced Monday to jail terms ranging from four to eight months.

"You deliberately struck against the work-related project," county Judge Roger W. Daniels told the five found guilty Aug. 8 of interfering with the administration of welfare in Lawrence County.

The men, not identified, were released in their own recognizance, pending the outcome of an appeal on the ground that the state violated constitutional provisions against "voluntary servitude."

State law permits counties to require able-bodied men receiving welfare payments to work on public projects.

The defense said the five had refused because the snow on the ground at the time was too deep.

Poster Exhibit
 Closes Tonight

About fifty of the posters now on display in the Common Room of Montgomery Hall will be taken down today following the closing of the exhibit.

Montgomery Hall is the P.E.I. Art Society will be organized for showing in the regional art galleries in the province. The guidance of deputy minister of education Malcolm Macdonald.

The international poster exhibit has been open to the public since June.
