

Shared-Capitals Seen Big Feature At Conference

By DON HARRIGT
OTTAWA (CP)—The federal-provincial conference in Quebec today will see representatives of Ottawa on both sides to discuss Ottawa of what Manitoba Premier DuRoiin has called "over-paternalism."

At issue are the jointly financed welfare and other services, in the main, by the King and St. Laurent governments in the flush of post-war prosperity. They now cost the federal treasury alone more than $600,000,000 a year.

The list is long. It ranges over hospital insurance—with all its stamping costs, a health and hospital aid, various welfare payments, unemployment relief and so on.

Old-age assistance—This has been available since 1948 to those aged 65 to 69 and now amounts to $75 million a year. A half of the cost for the disemployed is covered by the federal government. The other half is paid by the provinces.

Unemployment assistance—Though the ground rules are complicated in effect the federal government meets the cost of the program for the unemployed. Federal costs this year were about $100,000,000 and the estimate for next year is $115,000,000.

As expressed last November, the chief concern of most provinces is that the formula under which they take full responsibility for these programs should include some provision for risk-sharing.

READY TO MOVE
With that qualification, most if not all the provinces seem ready to move.

Here are some suspects from the premiers' statements to the Ontario Legislature.

Robarts of Ontario: "The conditions attached to the grants are too onerous and create administrative difficulties, fail to recognize regional needs and peculiarities, and often result in some services being over-expended to the detriment of other services of higher provincial priority. We have no desire to levy taxes simply to pay for programs that are well established and well within provincial jurisdiction."

These appear to be the most likely candidates for such treatment. Established insurance—First established in 1958 its costs have risen by about 10 per cent annually in recent years. The rise in the last year has been 40 per cent. In the current fiscal year ending Tuesday the federal 50-per-cent share was an estimated $385,000,000. The year ahead will push the figure up to about $200,000,000.

Here are some suspects from the premiers' statements to the Ontario Legislature.

Robarts of Ontario: "The conditions attached to the grants are too onerous and create administrative difficulties, fail to recognize regional needs and peculiarities, and often result in detour an even more ambitious military operation. It is also to restore order. At one time there were 21,000 UN troops in the Congo.

The Cyprus force now being sent up is the third venture of this kind.

The United Nations has undertaken a series of smaller missions in all parts of the world. These include all types of operations—peacekeeping, disarmament, large military observer groups such as those sent to Lebanon and to the Congo last year.

One of the oldest groups is the Palestine Trust Observation Organization in the Holy Land since the armistice of 1949.

PUT OUT BRUSH FIRES
Secretary-General U Thant says the United Nations is doing nothing if one of the nuclear powers is involved in a breach of the peace.

"What the United Nations can do, and should do," he says, "is to prevent further escalation of the situation, which of course, have the potentialities of exploding into a world-wide nuclear war."

Many diplomats agree with Thant that this will be a crucial year for the United Nations.

The organization is moving to shed show-downs on two major problems—the question of setting Communist China and the financial crisis.

At the moment, it does not appear likely that the Peking government will get in this year, but it certainly will edge closer.

The financial crisis is more severe. Many countries including such big powers as the Soviet Union, France and Nationalist China are behind in their payment of UN assessments. The Soviet Union, refusing to pay a share of the Middle East and Congo peace-keeping missions, is more than two full years in arrears. Under the charter, its General Assembly levying penalties may be authorized to suspend the USSR.

Some Western powers propose to force this issue when the assembly meets in the fall. But even if the move succeeds, it will not solve the UN financial crisis.

Some diplomats believe the Russians may avert a show-down if a formula can be found which would permit them to pay without losing face. Efforts are being made to find such a way out.

The present UN deficit is $134,000,000. Some pressure will be lifted when the remainder of the UN contributions are drawn at the end of June. But no one has yet come up with a way to make up the deficit or to finance future peace-keeping operations.

IS CARS DERAILLED
VALLEY COTTAGE, N.Y. (AP)—Thirteen cars of a 150-car freight train on the West Shore Division of the New York Central Railroad derailed here Saturday, toppling five of the cars. No one was injured. Hundreds of tons of coal were spilled on the roadbed.

Stock Prices in New York Show Little Change in Week

NEW YORK (AP)—The short stock market trading week just ended was about evenly divided between advances and declines.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose 2.50 points to 301.7. The record closing high was 320.25 on March 10.

Even while the market was falling, strength was shown in airlines, steels and motors. Late in the week copper, utilities-and-loans holding companies

SEE PROFITS BOOST
With the first quarter virtually finished, Wall Street analysts were looking ahead to public releases of increases in profits for many leading companies.

Volume for the short week was 21,395,364 shares compared with 27,500 for the previous five trading days.

The market also took heart from President Johnson's statement to the United Auto Workers that economic expansion must not be choked off by a revival of the wage-price spiral. Some fear this has eased the pressure on labor unions which have been pushing for a wage-price freeze.

The most active advance Thursday was the best in about two weeks and volume of 3,790,000 shares was the week's heaviest. The most active issues on the New York exchange were: Ligon Valley Industries, off 1/2% to 65.20; shares of Continental Airlines, up 1/4% to 29 1/2; and Chrysler, up 1/4% to 44.

Most active of the American exchange were TWA warrants, up 3/4% to 24 1/2; and H&R Robinson, up 1/4% to 8 1/2.

IMPORT WAX
Most beeswax used by British firms in making solid-wax polishes comes from Africa and India at a cost of $1,244 a ton.

WAVE LEAVES CAR JAMMED IN AIR

A tidal wave spreading south from Alaska led down an inlet to Port Alberni, B.C. Sunday. Among its spectacular accompaniments was the jamming of this car into the air. The majors of Port Alberni and of Alberni called the Alberni Valley a serious disaster area. Some 25,000 persons live there on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

UN is Still Going Strong Despite 19 Difficult Years

By MAX HARBELSON UNITED NATIONS (AP)—French President de Gaulle has called it "the leaning tower of Babel."

Nikita Khrushchev called it "a relic of the past." A critic in the United States described it as a "Communist-dominated farce."
