TROPHY WINNING PERFORMANCE

Eldon Gaudet of Central Bedeque is shown giving commands to his two Spitz-Collie dogs that performed in the dog show in Summerside yesterday. The dogs are shown performing one of their several tricks. Mr. Gaudet earned two first place trophies. The dog show was held as part of the Summerside Lobster Carnival.

Horses And Sheep Judged At S'side Livestock Show

SUMMERSIDE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

The lobster carnival livestock judging show, under the capable organization of Graeme Linkletter of Summerside, got underway yesterday afternoon with judging of sheep and horses.

George Kitson of Hampshire, the horse and pony judge, singled out the entries of Lorne Ferguson of Hampton, P.E.I. for supreme grand champion and grand champion honors in the draft horse class.

Supreme grand champion in the roadster class was won by an entry owned by Stanley Mayhew of Kinkora. Thorne's Pony Farm of Charlottetown captured the supreme grand champion in the pony class.

The sheep class was dominated by entries from Charlottetown, Kensington and Summerside.

Allison Stewart of Charlottetown captured six firsts in the Cheviot class while S.C. Stewart, also of Charlottetown, took four firsts in the Shropshire and Oxford class.

William Hagerty of Summerside captured four thirds and one first in sheep classes while Roy A. Moase of Kensington entries placed third three times and finished second twice.

Other prize winners in the sheep classes included Edmund Bernard, Richmond and E. L. Sharpe, Kensington.

The remainder of the livestock judging will be held on Saturday. From now until then the barns will be occupied by horses of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police musical ride, it was explained.

Glamorous Grandma Contest Proves Popular

SUMMERSIDE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

The glamorous grandmother contest, a feature entered in the Summerside Lobster Carnival for the first time was well received last night by a large crowd on hand for the final judging at the Civic Stadium.

Mrs. Mary Deighan of Summerside was chosen the most glamorous grandmother over 19 other contestants. Placing second was Mrs. Mamie Laughlin of Sherbrooke and third was Mrs. Louise Moase of New Annan.

The prizes for the winners were presented by Cheryl Paquette, Miss P.E.I. for 1963 who has seen heavy duty in the role of prize giver during the activities of the carnival thus far.

Judges for the contest were Mrs. Keith Lapp, Mrs. Claude Ives and Hugh Smith, all of Summerside.

TWENTY CHILDREN

Mrs. Deighan is the mother of 20 children, six boys and 10 girls living and has 46 grandchildren, 27 boys and 19 girls. Her heavy list of hobbies includes: weaving, knitting, house plants and vegetable gardens and before her loss of hearing she was a vocal soloist. She is an accomplished musician and plays the accordion, piano mouthorgan and violin. She has been a member of the CWL for the past 25 years. Among her grandchildren there are two sets of twins.

The second place winner, Mrs. Laughlin is the mother of four boys and four girls and has 15 grandchildren. Among her many skills and hobbies are gardening, sewing, knitting, crocheting, hooking rugs, baking and cooking. She does all her own interior decoration and has been a school teacher and has held offices in the WI serving on the provincial board for four years. She was the Prince County director of the P.E.I. Farmers Federation and also taught Sunday School.

The third place contestant, Mrs. Louise Moase has 11 grandchildren and is the mother of three boys and a girl.

WROTE HISTORY

Her hobbies and skills are many and include gathering, processing and boxing mangel seeds, all phases of farming and gardening, interior and exterior painting, baking and cooking and three years ago won the prize for the most recipes sent in to the Guardian and Patriot.

She makes her own soap, quilts and hooks and plays the piano and sings. She has outlined the history of New Annan from 1915 to the present day and has held all offices in the W.I. and several in the Kensington unit of the UCW. She was a school board trustee for three years and active in Red Cross.

One of her more recent projects was an essay written on "rural life in P.E.I. in 1864, a centennial project.

It was announced at the conclusion of the contest last night that the winner would be in attendance at the coronation ball to be held at the Prince County Vocational School on Saturday night.

SPUD PLEBISCITE

against it, Mr. McIsaac emphasized.

Replying to specific questions asked by the minister, Mr. McIsaac said, for example, the money to finance the plan will come from the banks, the same as the money to finance any business operation.

"It will take no more money to finance a marketing agency for potatoes than it has taken to finance one Regional High School development in this province. If the government cannot see fit to guarantee the financing of our potato industry to this extent, then I can easily see the possibility of sufficient growers, dealers and other business men in the province putting up a guarantee adequate to finance this deal.

"This could be done within seven days if we had an approved plan to work on. This development is just as important to the businessman, the professional man and anyone doing business with the farmers of the province as it is to the growers themselves," he stated.

"Anything that brings more money into the farmers' pocket is of vital concern to every person doing business in this province where the basic industry is agriculture.

"The suggestion that $5,000,000 is needed to finance such an agency is nothing short of ridiculous, Mr. McIsaac said." That figure was mentioned by the minister in one story which quoted him. "All that is necessary for a selling agency to do is to provide a sales service for the existing dealers, to promote sales and quality of the product, and the organization of sales outlets for the industry that would control and eliminate the present price cutting practices that have often cut drastically into the revenue derived from the industry."

Such practices during the past season alone have cost the economy hundreds of thousands of dollars, he added.

"I said early last winter there was no need for our growers during the past season ever to have taken less than $1.25 a bag for potatoes, and over 60 per cent of our crop was sold for less than 90 cents per bag.

"The price this spring—there was a keen demand at $3.00—bore out the truth of that statement."

Mr. McIsaac wanted to make it clear he wasn't blaming the dealers at this end "so much as the duplication of sales outlets in the large consuming centres for causing the auction system under which we have been trying to operate."

SEEN ENQUIRIES

During the past couple of weeks there have been enquiries for seed potatoes from some areas in South America that have never before purchased or enquired about Island seed. The enquiries are for substantial quantities of seed and are coming through government purchasing agencies from South America, which should substantially broaden our sales possibilities. But what will happen if we should have a dozen people quoting prices and undercutting each other? We could lose out on the deal entirely, because the agencies will become disgusted with the marketing processes here," he fears.

Here is one excellent example of how such an organized marketing scheme would work. It has to, he said, for the good of the industry, and of the province, when one thinks of the price cutting that transpired on such deals as the Greek deal last year.

"The minister has suggested the same thing in the past, and I'm wondering what has made him change his mind," Mr. McIsaac said.

So far as the purchase of fertilizer by the farmers is concerned, Mr. McIsaac suggested the farmers could finance the purchase of fertilizer through their own resources, or finance it through the banks. Then they would be in a position to purchase their supplies where they choose. And, he added, the inauguration of such an improved marketing scheme would soon put the growers in a financial position where they would be able to finance their own purchases, and the production of their own crop without having to be dependent on someone else. Until we have reached this point agriculture is in a sorry mess, and that is what we are trying to get it out of, he said.

Replying to the query "Who will manage the agency?" Mr. McIsaac retorted "who will manage a new Regional High School, or any other business? The board of directors or the board of management will select a capable man for the job. Some of the biggest companies in Canada have found management material in Prince Edward Island. I don't see why we can't find someone here capable of doing the job."

The minister asked what will be the terms of reference for the agency. Mr. McIsaac said the orders would be to do the best job possible for the Island potato industry in view of the changing trends in packaging, merchandising, storage and overall promotion, all of which will come under the general heading of marketing.

In Quebec and Ontario today, for example, they are setting up new storage facilities with temperature and storage conditions controlled by atomic radiation which can hold, potatoes for many months after the end of their normal holding period, without any deterioration in quality whatsoever, he noted.

Consumer demand is changing rapidly in all of these products and we have no organization to keep up with the changing trends. We're going to lose out to other potato producing areas that are able to take advantage of these new processes unless we are in a position to do something about it ourselves," he said.

"What amazes me," Mr. McIsaac added, "is that the minister apparently agreed with the potato committee on the wording of the desired plebiscite, and Premier Shaw announced some time ago that a plebiscite would be held shortly; just what has happened in the meantime to change their minds?"

MISS P.E.I. PRESENTS BICYCLES

One of the features of the Summerside Lobster Carnival's children's day program yesterday at Civic Stadium was the drawing of tickets for four bicycles donated by Bill Lynch and an oddity was that out of the large crowd of children in attendance a brother and sister were lucky in each winning a bike. The winners were (L to R) Bob Boates, Summerside; Greg Gaudet, Summerside; Miss P. E. I., Cheryl Paquette, who drew the tickets; Laura Lee Mitchell and brother Craig of Slemon Park.

It takes as many as 13,000 individual parts to build a passenger car.

Children's Day Is Featured At Carnival

SUMMERSIDE — The children attending the Summerside Lobster Carnival got their treat yesterday with special entertainment, contests and games arranged specially for them at the Civic Stadium and several centers in town.

Yesterday began with a dog and cat show at Gaudet's Save Easy parking lot followed by a doll carriage parade at the parking lot of the Summerside Town Police Force office.

Shortly after noon a special children's program got underway at the Civic Stadium where games and fun designed for the youngsters were held. Guest master of ceremonies for the occasion was the star of Razzle Dazzle, Michele Finney. Pie eating contests and balloon blowing contests were held and a special drawing for two girls' and two boy's bicycles was made by Miss P.E.I. for 1963, Cheryl Paquette.

Also held on stage for the kiddies were the three feature acts which are playing at the carnival all this week, a unicycle act, a clown act and magician show.

At suppertime a band concert and a marching display by the Oromocto Lions Band and majorettes was held.
