Graduating Class

"I should like to offer a few suggestions which are helpful in attaining success:"

"Be useful. Study and train yourself to earn a decent living so that you will not be burden on society. In this connection, I would suggest that you follow the Rotary adage, namely: "The recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations." No matter what you choose as your life work, do your best by it."

"When I visited London, England, in 1953, I met a very interesting taxi driver. I asked him if he aspired to be a Member of Parliament. His reply was, "No, I want to be the best taxi driver in London." If you know the taxi drivers of London, you will realize that to be the best would be a very great accomplishment."

HONESTY A VIRTUE

"In your work remember that honesty is a prime viture. If you cannot be trusted, you are of little value in any business. In all you do thriftiness is extremely important. Many people have very little simply because they have not taken care of what they had."

"Guard your health - this is your greatest possession. At the same time, you should have thoughtful consideration for the less fortunate. We all remember Whipper Billy Watson and his devotion to crippled children.

"If you are to be a man, you should discipline yourself against sloppiness and ill manners, oversmoking, overdrinking, overeating, oversleeping and overworking. Overworking does not apply to the great mass of labour who are continually seeking shorter hours, but to that group of conscientious men who work long hours to carry the load of others. We should be lifters, not leaners. Your work should be mixed with the proper balance of fun and play."

LANGUAGES

"I want to speak about languages. We should remember that a man's mother tongue is of vital importance to him. Bozo was a circus elephant who was sentenced to death. Bozo had always been a well - behaved beast and the children loved him. He would dance in the circus ring, he would lie down and play dead. At the grand final act of the circus, he would lead the band, carrying the Union Jack in his trunk, but no more. Three times within a week he had tried to kill his keeper. Nothing, it seemed, would calm him; so Bozo must be put to death.

"The Manager, who must have had a hard heart, decided to make up for the loss of Bozo by selling tickets to those who wished to see Bozo shot. Crowds filled the great circus tent that Saturday morning, and they saw a pile of rifles, stacked and ready. Bozo, behind the bars of a large circular cage, trudged around a never - ending circle, as if he well knew what was coming.

"Outside the cage, stood the ring - master, in a shiny top - hat and tail - coat. He was just about to give the signal for the shooting to begin, when a hand was laid on his shoulder. Beside him stood a short man, with a small brown moustache, thick glasses, and a brown derby hat.

"Do you really want to kill that elephant?", asked the short man. "Wouldn't you rather keep him alive?" "No chance," said the ring - master, "he is a bad elephant, nothing can make him well again." "Let me go into the cage," said the short man, "and in two minutes I will show you you're wrong."

"Then the unknown man quickly removed his hat and coat. He removed his glasses and tucked them in his waistcoat pocket. "Now," he said calmly "you may open the door."

"At the rattle of the lock, Bozo halted. He turned bloodshot eyes towards the steel door. The little man stepped inside and slammed the door behind him."

STRANGE MIRACLE

"Bozo gave a warning squeal of temper, but the small man began to speak softly. At the first few words, the elephant became suddenly quiet. The spectators could hear clearly what the little man said, but could not recognize a word. It was a strange language, but to their surprise, Bozo seemed to understand it."

"The huge body remained stiff, as if paralyzed; while the droning voice went on. Presently everyone heard a new cry; a small cry from the dangerous animal, like the cry of a small child. The enormous head began to wag from side to side."

"Now the little man came nearer. He lifted his hand and patted the long trunk. With the end of it curled around his waist, he slowly began to walk with the elephant round and round the cage."

"Finally the little man left the cage and asked for his hat and coat. "There is nothing bad about Bozo," he told the ring - master. "He was just homesick. Anybody can get homesick. I talked to him in Hindustani—he's an Indian elephant and that is his mother tongue. He will be all right now for a long time."

"With those words the little man disappeared in the crowd. His name — Rudyard Kipling."

IMPORTANT IN TRAVEL

"We travel a great deal these days, and while it is true that we can get by reasonably well in many countries without the language of that country, we quickly sense that we are considered not only impolite but stupid by not at least attempting to speak the native language."

"The following few sentences from a phonographic course in French will give you an idea how a man of France considers his language: "Pourquoi desirez-vous apprendre le francais? Je desire apprendre le francais pour voyager. Vous avez raison, car le francais est la langue universelle. On parle francais partout."

"All Canada noticed how fluently both Her Majesty, the Queen, and the Duke of Edinburgh spoke French when they last visited Canada. It may take considerable effort to learn a second language, but it will be infinitely worth - while, and will give you the satisfaction of worth - while accomplishment."

A WORKING KNOWLEDGE

"In Canada anyone who expects to hold a position of importance in public life should have a working knowledge of our two official languages. In the Federal Civil Service bilingualism is a requirement for an ever - increasing number of positions.

"To be successful we must know God. This is attained by studying and contemplating on the wonderful works of nature, by reading the Scriptures, by prayer, and by being of service to our fellow - men. In connection with religion, it is necessary to be tolerant of the other person's viewpoint."

"You should know that there are in this world, in addition to the various branches of the Christian religion, a number of other great religions all with a large number of loyal followers. Some of these are Hinduism, Judaism, Islam and Buddhism. While they differ in some ways from one another and from the Christian religion, all seek to sanctify life and to know and glorify God."

NOT TOO SERIOUS

"If we are to be successful, we must not take things too seriously, but learn to make the best of what we have. If we accept the fact that we are bound to have our quota of disappointments and trouble, then our blessings, joy, beauty and love, that enrich us, will appear to be a miracle."

"Never get too far from the good earth: No matter what may be your field of endeavour, you should know and understand some of the problems and needs of agriculture. You must realize that the first need of man is food, and the production of food for an ever - increasing population can well be considered to be the No. 1 job of any nation. If you are not privileged to own a farm, have a garden. If this is impossible, at least grow some plants in your home."

"Get your hands in the good earth occasionally. The great Scottish poet, Robert Burns, in his song, "The Ploughman," puts it like this:

The ploughman he's a bonnie lad,
His mind is ever true, jo,
His garters knit below his knee,
His bonnet it is blue, jo.

Ten up wi' him my ploughman lad,
And hey my merry ploughman
Of a' the trades that I do ken,
Commend me to the ploughman.

"I would also like to suggest that you read Burns' poem "The Cotter's Saturday Night."

ASPIRATION

"An important characteristic for success is aspiration. The leader in society is something like a mountain climber. He is always dreaming of getting higher. This is the deep, irresistable, upward drive which is found in our race. We want to better ourselves and to make life better for other people. Oh! it is easy, too easy, to be comfortable and mediocre."

"All one needs is a job, food, clothing and a bed. No country can advance which has no leaders who hold out the promise for a better day tomorrow; the promise of growth in some form."

"Aspiration means a living sense of ambition, the greatness to advance to the limit of one's power. You must have faith. Have faith in yourself and faith in others."

REMEMBER P.E.I.

"Never forget Prince Edward Island. No matter where you go or what you do, never forget Prince Edward Island - your home. As Leonard Brockington said on this platform a short time ago: "The little things are the great things, little homes are the great homes, and little Islands can still be the great places."

"I know, and you know, how self - reliance, solitude and even the isolation of an Island have strengthened the fibre of your fabric and so enriched and coloured the tapestry of our beloved Country."

"I am confident that your early days, spent in the "Garden of the Gulf," will be an important factor in helping you attain the success and happiness which I wish for all of you."

P. E. I. LAMB PRODUCERS

In recent years lamb quality on Prince Edward Island has been steadily going down.

There is no reason why, with proper care and feeding, we cannot produce top lambs. We have done it with hogs and we can do it with lambs.

This question of lamb quality was discussed at our annual meeting in March. It was decided that the following live grades and weights will be in effect for marketing lambs beginning August 1, 1958.

Grade	Weight	Grade	Weight
Good	85—110 lbs.	Medium	85—110 lbs.
Good	111—125 lbs.	Medium	111—125 lbs.
Good	126 lbs. up	Medium	126 lbs. up
Good	84 lbs. down	Medium	84 lbs. down
Fair	85 lbs. up	Fair	84 lbs. down
Culls	all weights

Good lambs 85—110 lbs. produce the most desirable carcasses. All other grades and weights will be discounted.

NOTE: Buck Lambs will be discounted $1.00 per head. All lambs with long tails will be discounted 50 cents per head.
