discussed at a number of meetings. The best practice to follow is to keep birds only one year and thoroughly clean poultry houses each year.

The topic of egg-grading stations has been discussed and information regarding the average number of cases per station was obtained by one of our men. The statistics show that:

- 28 stations received under 20 cases a week.
- 22 stations received from 20-49 cases a week.
- 5 stations received from 50-74 cases a week.
- 4 stations received from 75-99 cases a week.
- 3 stations received over 100 cases a week.

These figures show an average overall of 35 cases per week. A committee member suggested that the quality of eggs would be improved if we had a station at the following districts: Alberton, O'Leary, Summerside, Kensington, Bedeque, Hunter River or New Glasgow, Charlottetown, Vernon, Vernon, Montague, Murray Harbour or Murray River, St. Peter's or Morell, Souris, and Crapaud.

Steps are being taken by the Provincial Department of Agriculture to add a clause to the Poultry Products Act stating that before a new station can be opened, the operator must satisfy both the Provincial and Dominion Departments that he will have a potential average of 25 cases of eggs per week.
