RIPLEY'S BELIEVE IT OR NOT

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	1 ♠
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 ♣
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

Opening lead—nine of hearts.

For an example of the technique sometimes required of declarer in the play of the hand, we present this deal, where only perfect play permits the contract to be made.

West leads the nine of hearts, which holds, and continues with a heart, which South ruffs. What should declarer do next?

If he makes the mistake of leading a low spade towards dummy's ten, he is defeated. West ducks, East wins the ten with the king, returns a heart, and South must go down. If South ruffs low, West overruffs with the nine; if South ruffs high, West simply discards and makes both the ace and nine later.

What the declarer should do at trick three is enter the dummy in a side suit in order to make the first trump lead from dummy's side of the table. Thus, he can cross to the king of diamonds and lead the two of spades.

East's best defense is to play the three, whereupon declarer plays the queen and loses to the ace. Assume West returns a diamond.

South wins it, but he is not yet out of the woods. He must still be careful not to lead a low spade to the ten. If he does, he goes down because East takes the ten with the king, returns a heart, and South is licked. The nine of spades is again the killer.

To prevent this from happening, declarer must be sure the second trump lead is again initiated from dummy. When he wins the ace of diamonds, therefore, he crosses to dummy's king of clubs and leads the four of spades. East cannot help playing the king

The heart return now finds declarer prepared to cope with it. South trumps with the jack, leads a spade to the ten, picking up West's nine on the way, and easily makes the balance of the tricks.

Played this way, there is nothing at all to the deal. It is simply a question of proper trump manipulation.
