HAPPENINGS

Mrs. Rena Johnstone has just received from the publishers, Doubleday and Co. a complimentary copy of "Where the Heart Is" written by her friend Elizabeth Barton de Trevino. The book is a sequel to "My Heart Lies South" published several years ago in which Mrs. Trevino tells about her early married life in her adopted country, Mexico.

Mrs. A.J. Murphy, 207 Fitzroy St. entertained last Wednesday at a delightful dinner party for friends: and again on Saturday evening at bridge.

Mrs. Belle Moore, 31 Rochford Square, has returned from an enjoyable month's vacation in Moncton, N.B. where she was the guest of her sister, Mrs. E.A. Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hodgson left by car for their home in Forest Grove, Oregon after visiting their son and his family in Dartmouth, N.S. They also visited Mrs. Hodgson's mother, Mrs. W.G. Hutchison, Charlottetown, who is a patient in the Prince Edward Island Hospital.

Mrs. Bessie R. MacLean, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Harry Matheson for the past three weeks left by plane for Montreal, Que. to visit her brother C. Hollis Rowe and family before returning to her home in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Mrs. Eber Sanborn, the former Ida Cairns, and her two daughters, Kathleen and Amy, recently returned to their home in Grindrod, British Columbia, after an enjoyable two months' vacation at Mrs. Sanborn's brother, Mr. J. Scott Cairns and Mrs. Cairns in Freetown and with her sister, Mrs. Earle Pearson and Mr. Pearson in Chelton.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Robertson of Ottawa, Ont. spent the past two weeks in Kensington as the guests of the former's brother, Mr. Chesley Robertson. While in the Maritimes, they spent a few days in Greenwood, N.S. where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Hanson and family. They were accompanied to Greenwood by Mrs. Chesley Robertson and in Springhill, N.S. they called on Mr. and Mrs. Neil Langille and in Amherst on Mrs. Barbara Barlow.

Mr. and Mrs. Dana McGrath and family of Sydney, N.S. who have been spending holidays at Mrs. McGrath's home in Bay Fortune, P.E.I. returned to Sydney recently. They were accompanied by Mrs. McGrath's mother, Mrs. Fred MacKenzie, who will be visiting with them for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ross of Saint John N.B. were recent visitors to the Island.

MR. AND MRS. MAURICE A. PETERS

Miss Marilyn Clow Weds At Ceremony In Charlottetown

The marriage of Marilyn Geraldine Clow, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest E. Clow, Charlottetown, to Maurice Alfred Peters, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Peters, took place at 9.00 a.m. at St. Dunstan's Basilica on Saturday, August 18.

Baskets of gladioli and mixed flowers decorated the altar and the guest pews were marked with satin bows.

Rev. Father Clarence Roche performed the double ring ceremony and the nuptial Mass: and Rev. Francis J. Corcoran was present in the sanctuary.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Joseph Dougan and Miss Myrna Nicholson, friend of the bride, sang appropriate hymns during the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked charming in her floor length gown of white nylon organza, with scooped neckline featuring an eyelet insert from neck to hemline. The bodice was accented with a cummerbund of heavy silk faille ending in floating panels at the back: and long tapered sleeves. Her shoulder length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a matching headdress of silk faille and seed pearls and she carried a cascade of red roses trimmed with streamers of white satin ribbon. Her only jewellery was a single strand of pearls and matching earrings, a gift from the groom.

The maid of honor, Miss Carol Ann Jones, wore a street length gown of tropic water organza, in a style similar to that of the bride's gown. She wore matching headdress and shoes and her bouquet was of white and yellow mums. She wore a pearl necklace, a gift from the bride. The bridesmaid, Heather Ann Johnson, cousin of the bride, wore a gown of soft yellow organza with matching headdress and accessories and carried a nosegay of white and yellow mums. She also wore a pearl necklace, a gift from the bride.

The flower girl, Marlene Peters, sister of the groom, wore a gown of yellow embroidered taffeta with matching headdress and white gloves and shoes and she carried a basket of yellow and white mums. Her mother of pearl locket was a gift from the bride.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Clow chose an off-white sheath dress of imported wool cashmere in a cobblestone weave, with matching jacket accented by charcoal trim. She completed her ensemble with a white maribou hat and black and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Peters, mother of the groom, wore a royal blue lace sheath, with white feathered hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of red carnations.

Mrs. Elizabeth Clow, grandmother of the bride, wore a royal blue silk dress with matching hat and white accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations. Mrs. James Baglole, grandmother of the groom, wore a suit of mauve crepe with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception for 70 guests was held at the Charlottetown Hotel. The bride's table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, and flanked by white tapers in silver candelabra, and vases of summer flowers.

Miss Patricia LeClair, friend of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

Mr. William R. Geddes, uncle of the bride, performed his duties as toastmaster. The toast to the bride was proposed by Father Corcoran and responded to by the groom. A toast to the bride's attendants was proposed by Leonard Baglole. Telegrams were read from Gander, Nfld. and Ottawa, Ont.

After the traditional cutting of the wedding cake, the bride and groom served the cake to their guests.

At the conclusion of the reception at the Hotel, the groom's parents entertained the wedding party at their beautiful summer home at York Point. Music and entertainment were provided and a delicious buffet supper was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. William MacDonald, Mrs. Brendon Hennessey, Mrs. James Flanigan, Mrs. Harvey Chandler, Mrs. Maurice Doucette, Mrs. Jack Lee, Mrs. Margaret Trainor, Mrs. Boner Daliel, and Mrs. William Baglole.

Following the reception the young couple left on a honeymoon trip through the Maritimes. For travelling the bride wore a shimmering sheath in rose patterned knit rayon of light beige and brown with piping, and a feathered hat of beige and brown. Her accessories were in a beige shade and her corsage was of white carnations.

Out of town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. James Baglole of Halifax, N.S. Mr. and Mrs. William R. Gesses of Brampton, Ont. Miss Ethel Harrison of Dartmouth, N.S. Rev. Francis J Corcoran of Cardigan, P.E.I., Mr. and Mrs. John Costello of Saint John, N.B. and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson and daughters Heather and Sharon of Halifax, N.S.

Prior to the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Peters entertained the bridal party and out-of town guests at a buffet luncheon at their summer home after the wedding rehearsal. Those serving were Mrs. Margaret Trainor Mrs. Harvey Chandler, Mrs. Daliel and Miss Judy Trainor.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

North River WI Members Have September Meeting

NORTH RIVER — The members of the North River Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Fulton Warren for their September meeting. The meeting opened in the usual manner and roll call was answered by 15 members. One visitor attended the meeting.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and the various committee reports were dealt with.

The secretary reported that a worthwhile sum had been realized from the recent ice-cream festival. The maxims and poems for the evening were read by Mrs. Earl Younker.

Mrs. Roy Bruce will be hostess for the October meeting: and Mrs. Major Moase, Mrs. George Yeo, Mrs. D. Jewell and Mrs. Fulton Warren were named to the lunch committee.

Mrs. Eric Butler and Mrs. Roy Campbell will be on the program committee for the next meeting.

An interesting discussion on questions from the question box was held and lunch was served by the hostess and members of the lunch committee.

GLEN VALLEY WI

Members of the Glen Valley Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Elston Hickox for their regular monthly meeting recently. The president, Mrs. Edward MacDonald, chaired the meeting, which was attended by 11 members.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, the secretary was authorized to purchase a wastepaper basket for the school.

The stick committee reported and the new committees were appointed as follows: sick, Mrs. Edward MacDonald and Mrs. Arthur MacLean; program, Mrs. Vernon Gillis and Mrs. Kenneth McDowell.

A contest conducted by Mrs. Donald Dickieson was won by Mrs. Edward MacDonald. Mrs. Cyrus Martin invited the members to her home for the October meeting.

Following adjournment of the meeting, lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Vernon Gillis.

INDIAN RIVER WI

The September meeting of the Indian River Women's Institute was held at the home of Reta Mann with Verna Somers as hostess, on September 5. The meeting was attended by eight members.

Due to the absence of the president, the meeting was chaired by Mabel McLellan. The minutes of the last meeting were read by Rita Mann and the treasurer, Frances Campbell, gave the financial report. Reports of the sick and school committees were dealt with.

Mabel McLellan reported having contacted an electrician about installing extra lights in the school.

The members decided to cater to a wedding reception on September 15.

The program convener, Hilda Ramsay, read an interesting paper on how to develop healthier, happier and more useful citizens.

A discussion followed on conducting a sewing class for the teen-agers of the district.

Lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Reta Mann.

orchard "a sow at the farrowing time. Yes, it will come in handy one way or another, that's certain."

It was this farmwife's lot and portion to mix and bake her loaves of bread this morning, appreciating how precious, indeed almost sacred the rite is, considering the service in many an instance she thereby does for her family and as well for the friend or stranger with whom it may be shared...

We think of the quaint-gowned Biblical women at the grinding, grateful, we are sure, to acquire the meal for their loaves. And we wonder if they did their housework admid such scenes of enchantment as we that dwell on Island farms? In spring days when the gold-green shades are new on the countryside, and robins warble their love songs and feathered pairs build. 'And folks' hearts are re-charged with that everlasting hope which works toward the realization of some misty dream. And all through the summer's beauty and bloom, and in autumn when rare shades are painted on the farmlands. Did those women of that elder day have all these lovelinesses we enjoy, as they tended to the grindings and bakings?

And did some alert, freckled lad come by to watch with absorbing interest as they portioned the airy dough into loaves, moulding it with lightest touch before setting it aside to rise for the baking?

Asking little boy's questions. Little wonderings of mind, as Alex did this morning?

"How far do you suppose the swallows are by this?" — And "Where are the cranes now— remember the young one we saw the other morning down in the stream And did you see the There must have been a million the blackbirds fly over today? of them! It sounded like—you'd think it was a wind high up in the trees, the sound their wings made as they passed! I guess" with a knowing nod "they'll soon be on their way."

"The air is close" James reports, coming in from a visit at the house across the lane. "And I don't like the look of the west."

No stars the night gives. Only a dimness and silence, wide and deep. And morning clouds in the west.

Until tomorrow — — Diary — Good-night.....

MR. AND MRS. ALFRED J. OGDEN

Young Couple Plight Troth At N. Bedeque United Church

Baskets of yellow and bronze pom poms created the setting at the North Bedeque United Church on Wednesday, August 22, 1962, for the marriage of Binie Marguerite, daughter of Mrs. Guy MacCaull and the late Mr. MacCaull, North Bedeque, and Alfred James Ogden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth MacNeil, Summerside, P.E.I.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the bride's cousin, Rev. Ralph B. MacCaull Sheet Harbour, N.S. assisted by Mr. J.T. Waldron. The organist, Miss Beulah Moase, played "Praise My Soul The King of Heaven" as the bridal party entered the church, and accompanied Miss Elizabeth MacCaull cousin of the bride, who sang "The Wedding Prayer" prior to the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Gordon MacKenzie, looked lovely in a floor length "China Doll" gown of white embroidered silk organza over peau de soie, with scooped neckline, long lily point sleeves, and full skirt caught up in poufs in back and sides. Her short bouffant veil of French illusion was held in place by a tiara of crystal beading and pearls. Her only jewellery was a pearl necklace and tiny pearl earrings, a gift of the groom. She carried a cascade of white orchids, stephanotis, and tiny white carnations entwined with ivy.

Mrs. Carmen Paynter was the bride's only attendant. She wore a street length sheath dress of aqua chiffon over taffetta with overskirt. Her headdress was a band with short veil of matching colour. She carried a semi-cascade of white shasta mums tinted with aqua.

Mr. Hillard MacLennan was best man, and Sgt. Vernon Brown and Mr. Carmen Paynter ushered the guests to their pews, which were marked with sweet peas and baby's breath and small white bows.

The bride's mother chose a sheath dress of copper printed silk with matching jacket, white hat and accessories, and a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother was attired in a sheath dress of lime green silk, with white hat and accessories. Her corsage was white carnations. The grandmother of the groom wore a blue printed silk dress with navy blue hat and white accessories. Her corsage was white carnations.

The reception for 50 guests was held at Birch Hill Tourist Lodge, where the bride's table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake encircled with sweet peas and flanked by lighted tapers. Rev. Ralph B. MacCaull proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom responded. Miss Linda. Brown, niece of the groom, circulated the guest book. Congratulatory telegrams received from Mr. and Mrs. James Kay, aunt and uncle of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. David Kay, cousin of the groom, from Halifax, N. S. were read by the best man.

For the honeymoon trip via St. Andrews, N.B. to the White Mountains, N.H. the bride chose a sheath dress of willow green silk linen with matching jacket, white accessories, and a white orchid corsage.

Out-of-the-province guests included Sgt. and Mrs. Vernon Brown, Linda and Larry, Valcartier, P.Q., Rev. and Mrs. R. H. Carr, Halifax, N.S.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mills, Lancaster, N.B., Rev. and Mrs. Ralph B. MacCaull, Elizabeth and Edithe, Sheet Harbour.

Mr. and Mrs. Ogden have taken up residence in Summerside where the groom is employed with the Journal Publishing Co., and the bride is on the office staff of M.F. Schurman Company, Limited.

Previous to their marriage the bride was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower held at her home at North Bedeque. Mrs. Carmen Paynter played "Here Comes The Bride", as Mrs. Ben Cairns escorted the bride to the seat of honor which had been gaily decorated with pink and white streamers for the occasion. The baskets of gifts were carried in by Marion Stavert and Edithe MacCaull and opened by Adele and Elizabeth MacCaull. Miss Beulah Moase and Miss Joyce Birch read the accompanying verses and the gifts were placed by Mrs. Robert MacAusterlo and Mrs. Freeman Simmons, Jr. The bride, in her usual pleasing manner thanked all for their many beautiful and useful gifts and invited them to visit her in Summerside. A delicious lunch was served and the remainder of the evening spent in social chat.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Baking Of Week's Bread Is Precious Tuesday Rite

"She's been a wet summer — this one" a farmer who stopped at our door this morning commented. "Such strange weather" he said. "Take today, for example. It's not raining — not yet. But the dew shows no sign of lifting. And look at that mist there past the hills!"

"It's disappointing as a harvest-day at any rate" we said, thoughts on the binder, idle in the partly-reaped field up the rise.

"It is that" he nodded. "And isn't it a pity too, with such a fine harvest as there is, waiting now to be saved?"

"There'll come nice harvest-days yet" we said.

"We hope so. If not" he said soberly "well, it's not pleasant to dwell on that thought."

And our farmers, binder grounded, where were they, this day of no sun? They were shingling the new granary, that which, for the present and looooking strangely out of place, sits in the barnyard.

James looked up from that work this evening, when with Alex we must come to the stables to see "Just how cute those bantams, old and young, look all in a row on a roost!"

"I was thinking, Ellen — this building's not what we'd call big" James said "but once it's repaired and made snug, it's remarkable the amount of stock it would shelter comfortably a few yearlings of cattle. Or" his glance turned to the old

MARY HAWORTH

Insane Jealousy Spoils Girl's Plans For Wedding

Dear Mary Haworth: I am engaged to a wonderful boy whom I love very much. He says he is crazy about me but I get insanely jealous if he looks at another girl, which he does quite often.

I have told him he may look when he's alone but not in my company, at which he just smiles and says nothing. I realize that my jealously stems from the fact that I lack self-confidence, even though I am considered very attractive and have a good figure.

He is constantly saying how beautiful, wonderful and nice I am and that he can't understand what I see in him. But this doesn't reassure me.

If I am jealous now, I fear I will be more so in marriage and I don't want our lives to be miserable. It's not feeling jealous itself that bothers me, but what it does to my personality. We've been dating four months and only once have I let him know his "looking" hurts me.

We were standing on the board walk one day, when the whistle blew, meaning someone was too far out at sea. Immediately he left me and went to the railing. I followed, wondering at his interest. Just before the swimmer emerged, he said: "It's the girl in the bikini —". He had seen her go in and wanted to watch her come out.

He commented on her figure and would have stayed longer but I said, "Let's go." I was so hurt I couldn't speak all the way home. At first he denied doing wrong but later admitted he was at fault. I can't blot this incident from mind, and other similar instances of his going out of his way to "look."

It would break my heart to give him up. But I'd rather do it than be miserable for life with jealousy. I'm so disturbed now that I regard any girl, even the plainest, as a rival and imagine he's looking at every girl around. He has no idea how upset I am and probably would be utterly surprised. Please tell me what you think. E.P.

Dear E.P.: It appears that your intuition is practically screaming a warning not to marry this lad. Because there is no real communication. There is too much interference, in the back of his mind.

No matter how magnetic he may be, he is not the answer to your needs of complementary life companionship. He hasn't the qualities of empathy, sympathy and loyalty that would give you fulfillment; or, in other words, support your growth towards happy womanhood.

Actually you've already done a pretty thorough job of searching your way through to this same conclusion. As you say, it isn't the pain of jealousy so much as it is the damaging effects on personality —in terms of poisoning one's whole outlook — that gives you pause. As well it should.

It is well known, of course, that most healthy males automatically eye-record (shall we say) all winsome females who flit across their line of vision.

But it's how they react to these recordings, it is their characteristic response to the passing vision, that makes the difference between fond tolerance and sharp distress, in the heart of the woman at their elbow (or in their life for keeps).

The chap who ogles speculatively, or who stretches his neck in avid appreciation, or who seems to be trying to strike a response from the transient object of his attentions, as the usual thing, is over - reacting by rational standards.

He is personifying the primate level of indiscriminate response to sex appeal, which conveys, to the perceptive woman, that he isn't the mentally disciplined, monogamously oriented lover, responsibly disposed to cultivate happiness with one chosen mate.

It is your half-sensed awareness along this line that forges your half-formed decision to break with your beguiling suitor, as the only forthright escape from the prospect of a nightmarish life as his fearfully insecure wife. In my opinion, this is the wise foresighted move to make.— M.H.

REAL BIRDIE

SCARBOROUGH, England (CP)—A singles player in the North of England tennis championships confused his opponent by getting a birdie—not the golfing kind but an unfortunate sparrow flying too low over the court. The point was replayed.
