What Is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?

In appearance Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is an oval; chocolate coated pill. In the condensed orm it contains all of natures most strenthening and invigorating tonic and restoratives and for this reason it is unapproached as a blood builder and nerve restorative. It cures all diseases caused by thin blood and exhausted nerves and makes pale, weak nervous men, women and chilpren strong and healthy 50 cents a box.

EXPANDING THE MAUSER BULLETS.

Sir William Stokes, writing on the subject of the Mauser bullet and the wounds produced by it, points out that, notwithstanding all that was said in the earlier stages of the war as to the Mauser being a merciful and humane weapon, later experience has gone to show that the injuries produced by it have been of a much more serious character than those at first described. He specially refers to certain remabks made by Sir William MacCormac, Mr. Treves, Mr Dent and others, who advocate the desirability of 'masterly inactivity, in this department of surgery, and goes on to say that his experience in the Maritzburg military hospitals and in the general hospital, Mooi River, compels him to hold opinions which differ largely from the views mentioned. He believes that the gunshot wounds met with in the earlier part of the campaign differed materially in character from those observed of late, and that the increasing gravity of the wounds has been the cause of the increased difficulty which has arisen in keeping them aseptic.

This change he attributes to two causes. First, the frequent conversion by the Boers of the Mauser bullet into an expanding one, either by removing a small portion of the case from the apex of the bullet, thus converting it into a 'soft-nosed one, or by making longitudinal slits round the case; and he adds that when recently at Ladysmith he got ample evidence of the means which were adopted by the enemy to increase the gravity of the wounds they inflicted. Secondly, another cause for the greater severity of the wounds observed of late has been that the ranges have been closer than they were formerly, it being clearly established that the closer the range the more serious is the injury likely to be. In illustration of his conclusions, he gives details of a series of cases in which such grave injuries were produced by these bullets as to necessitate amputation of limbs.

Hugh Millar here interposed by asking 'Did your teacher ever burst into a strange laugh in school?' 'That is a very odd question,' returned the provost. 'Why do you ask? But now that I remember, he had at times a very extraorainary laugh that made us all stare. It had a train of queer chuckling which exploded in a succession of loud and deep guffaws that shook his whole body and displayed all his teeth like the keys of a piano. He then clapped his hands on the book he held against his knees; yet none of us ever knew at what he was laughing. He had a grim smile in reproving pupils, and a habit of tapping their heads with knuckles as he told them their heads would never be worth the price of hugh or the charge of a barber, thoats, mammas and aunts had that morning combed, kissed and blessed them—as if they were teaming with the sublimest inventions and designs?'

The provost saw that Hugh Miller and some other guests were listening eagerly; and he proceeded: 'One morning, a few minutes before the school hour, when most of the pupils had arrived, and—as rain was falling—they had gone into the school, a donkey, which had broken loose from its tether on a grassy spot near, was entering the playground. Bill Hood and I were so far on our way, and Bill, who was a stout and frolicsome land—the ring-leader in many sports and tricks—rushed to mount the animal, and began to guide and force it into the school. With desperate spurring the donkey was induced to carry its rider over the threshold;—and what a reception both of them got from the juvenile crowd! Bags and books were at once fastened to the tail and around the neck of the ass, and so busy were Bill and half a dozen companions in urging the animal to canter around the school, and to ascend the short stair of the master's desk, that they did not notice the time speeding; and before they could remove the stranger, Mr. Carlyle appeared. We expected a tremendous explosion of wrath; but he burst into a roar of laughter—such a roar, however, as, instead of tempting us to join in it, produced a sudden and complete hush, and that roar was renewed again and again when the ass, withdrawing its forefeet from the first step of the desk stair and turning round, took a pace or two slowly toward the master, as if to salute him.

'"That," exclaimed Carlyle, "is the wisest and best scholar Kirkcaldy has yet sent me. He is fit to be your teacher. He tapped the donkey's head as he was wont to do ours, and said: "Theres something here, far more than in the skulls of any of his brethren before me, though these sculls are patted in fond admiration by papas and mammas, and though that far grander headpiece meets only with merciless blows." He then gave some hard taps on Bill Hood's head, and would not allow him to dismount, but, for a penalty, ordered him to ride up and down the school for an hour, whilst those boys who had been most active in helping Bill to go through the farce had to march in pairs before and behind the perplexed looking ass. He did not require the other scholars to attend to their several school lessons, but silently permitted them to stand as spectators of the grotesque procession. Then he himself, seated within his pulpit-like desk, surveyed Bill and his company. I have not for years thought of this scene,' continued the provost, 'but it has come back to me freshly, and I remember that my old master had a very strange laugh. I don't know what has become of him; nor, indeed, have I heard of him since I left Kirkcaldy school.,—Presbyterian Review.

What You Pay For Medicine

Is no Test of Its Curative Value—Prescriptions Versus Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are just as much a doctor's prescription as any formula your family physician can give you. The difference is that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were perfected after the formula had proven itself of inestimable value in scores of hundreds of cases.

Dr. Chase won almost as much popularity from his ability to cure kidney disease, liver complaint, and backache, with this formula, as he did from the publication of his great recipe book.

The idea of one treatment reaching the kidneys and liver at the same time was original with Dr. Chase. It accounts for the success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in curing the most complicated ailments of the filtering organs, and every form of backache.

As a family medicine Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are unapproached. They keep the kidneys, liver, and bowels healthy, active, and regular, and so prevent and cure nine-tenths of the ills to which humanity is subject. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
